Mr. Dayton's Luncheon.
Rosh Hashana, in Freedom.
69,352 Lbs. to the Acre.
When Mrs. Hutton Prays.
—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

YESTERDAY, friends invited James C. Dayton to luncheon because it was his birthday. For many years a member of the Hearst newspapers organization, and publisher of the New York Evening Journal, Mr. Dayton, the ablest publisher, with one possible exception, living in the United States, illustrates in himself what a newspaper publisher should be.

Sitting on one side of him yesterday was Bernard F. Gimbel, head of the Gimbel Brothers department stores, and on the other Joseph H. Appel, head of the great Wanamaker establishment.

Both had had business relations with Mr. Dayton for many years, each had spent millions of dollars with him in the New York Evening Journal. Neither, in all the years, had had the slightest disagreement with Mr. Dayton on any question of business, rates, or anything else.

There is only one set of rates, one way of doing business, in any organization managed by Mr. Dayton. That is the sort of publisher that intelligent advertisers like.

TOMORROW is Rosh Hashana, Jewish New Year. The holy day, number 5694 according to the Hebrew calendar, begins at sundown this evening, with the blowing of the shofar, a hollowed ram's horn. Special services will be held for the sick, the poor and the crippled.

In this fortunate country which keeps government and religion separate, men may think, worship and fix their calendar as they please, as long as they do not interfere with each other.

A TELEGRAM from Stockton, Cal., sent yesterday by R. C. Zuckerman, who has two thousand seven hundred acres in potatoes on McDonald Island, in the delta of the San Joaquin River, announces that one single acre, carefully dug and weighed under careful supervision, produced sixty-nine thousand three hundred and fifty-two pounds of potatoes. This breaks all world records, so you may congratulate California, and Potato Farmer Zuckerman.

A country with such soil and such farmers ought not to be in difficulties, and especially should not have millions hungry.

AN OLD hymn tells how Satan trembles when he sees a sinner on his knees. He would tremble 10 times as fast if he could see Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton on HER knees in New York.

Tuesday night Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, "warming up" for her great appearance in a big New York moving picture theater, went to Tom Noonan's little mission in Doyer street, Chinatown.

She prayed, and told the devil quite plainly what she thought about him—you could almost hear the ground shake from his trembling. Twenty-one were converted, then and there, which means just twenty-one fewer boarders or victims for Satan.

When she prays presently in the big New York theater, she says she won't dare ask converts to come up to the stage, as lesser revivalists do, because they would "swamp her."

COL. FRANK B. SHUTTS, editor and owner of the Miami Herald, wants the world to know that Chicago, in preparing and carrying through the great "Century of Progress Exposition" in the face of the depression and every difficulty, has rendered service to the entire nation. He writes:

"I have been to the exposition, taking all of my family with me, and I am convinced that apart from the great benefit to Chicago, it is impossible to exaggerate the good that this exposition has done throughout the country at large. I advise every American who can do so to visit the exposition before it closes."

A STRANGE murder trial in Japan ended yesterday. A number of young navy officers murdered the prime minister, Inukai, "in the name of patriotism." The murder was proved, and proudly confessed. The death penalty was demanded. The sentence was four years in prison, instead of death.

Before pronouncing sentence, the judges adjourned to a national shrine, and there prayed for guidance.

WE DON'T do that in this country, yet. But there is just as interesting a trial in Oklahoma, where Mr. Bailey, said to have killed many, and to be an adept at escaping from prison, is on trial with others for kidnaping. The courtroom bristles with machine guns. Several detectives watch the chief criminal.

You might say that there is something wrong with the administration of law in this country, where justice seems to fear the criminal more than the criminal fears justice.

THE PREDICTION made here, and in many other places, probably, that government would find it easy enough to control big, individual employers, but hard to control striking workers, balking at NRA conditions, is justified by events.

Shoe workers are striking in Brockton, Mass., coal miners and truckmen in Pennsylvania, silk workers and can company workers in New Jersey, underwear, doll and millinery workers in New York, cleaners and dyers in Brooklyn, cranberry pickers in Cape Cod, and many others.

HOWEVER, NRA officials have shown tact, ability and energy in settling many strikes, and eventually may find a way to restore harmony in industry. Without it results hoped for cannot be achieved.

TROOPERS ON GUARD AT PEN HERE

Warden Summons Aid After Learning of Mutiny Plot

Twenty state policemen were moved into the Western Penitentiary at dawn today to guard against an outbreak which Warden Stanley Ashe believed was brewing there.

The action was purely precautionary, Warden Ashe said. He added:

"Forewarned is forearmed."

During the last week warnings have come to him along the grapevine telegraph of the prison, the warden said. Monday the tension of the inmates increased, surliness grew.

EXTRA PRECAUTIONS

The warden learned that a disturbance was to be created in the dining hall at noon yesterday. Guards took extra precautions, and the scheduled outbreak did not occur.

When the watchful, sullen men filed into the hall, 100 of them were missing. They had stayed in their cells to avoid being involved in any trouble, the warden learned.

Last night the warden assembled the men in the chapel and addressed them. He told them:

"Remember, boys, it's futile to break out. You haven't got a chance."

The lecture failed to calm the prisoners. Overnight the tension grew, and early this morning Warden Ashe telephoned to Maj. Lynn Adams, chief of the state police, for men to reinforce his guard.

They went on duty on arrival and today were patrolling the cell blocks in plain view of the prisoners. They brought their carbines, but carried only pistols and tear gas on patrol.

SUSPECTS ISOLATED

Warden Ashe said he had isolated a score of men in the belief that he had the ringleaders in the plot, but that he believed some had escaped detection.

Only 190 inmates were permitted to work in the shops today. The remaining 1,000 were kept in their cells and all visitors were forbidden.

On April 27 four men escaped from the prison by climbing to a roof and letting themselves down a rope to the street, 80 feet below.

They were John Maug, Edward Turpack, Theodore Geisler and Freddie Prince. All four were captured and are now in the prison.

Bible Story 'Erased' By German Official

SCHLESWIG, Germany, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—The Biblical story of Abraham's sacrifice of Isaac was struck today from the schedule of religious instruction by order of the provincial governor on the ground that "this conception of The Diety is un-German."

WILLIAM N. McNAIR, THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE, SAYS:

"To Democrats, veterans and those who only recently affiliated themselves with the party of Franklin D. Roosevelt, I want to say that for us the fight has only begun. To the thousands of registered Republicans who today voted against the candidates of Mellon and the candidates of Coyne, I extend the invitation to assist us in November to do what you failed to accomplish now."

MAYOR JOHN S. HERRON, THE REPUBLICAN NOMINEE, SAYS:

"I am pleased to receive such an expression of confidence from the voters. I was quite sure that a record of 20 years would not be destroyed by those who have no other excuse to offer than the defamation of Pittsburgh. As the candidate of the Republican party and of the substantial citizens of Pittsburgh I look forward with confidence to November." These are Sun-Telegraph pictures.

ROWAND, MUSMANNO, SMITH LEADING FOR COMMON PLEAS

Lencher Gets Immense Vote

Two young jurists and a veteran today forged ahead in the battle for the Republican nomination to the Common Pleas Court.

Judges H. H. Rowand, Ralph H. Smith and Michael Angelo Musmanno, the last two in their early thirties, were bunched closely together.

They left behind at the half-way mark William H. Coleman and others. Coleman was still in range, but indications were that Alex P. Lindsay and Raymond B. Evans were too far behind to be dangerous contenders.

HUGE LENCHER VOTE

Meanwhile, Judge Benjamin Lencher had scored the outstanding victory of the judicial slate, capturing the Republican nomination for County Court by the huge vote of 116,043.

With 708 out of 941 districts in, Lencher's vote was

Connelley Trails for Council

By MARK SHIELDS

Mayor John S. Herron, Republican, and William N. McNair, Democrat, will fight it out for the mayoralty at the November election as a result of yesterday's primary.

In a Republican party sweep which gave him a clear majority of all votes cast, Mayor Herron defeated Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell and Councilman P. J. McArdle, who finished in that order on the face of incomplete but conclusive returns.

McNair was victory over John M. Henry by a margin of 7 to 1.

The vote for Mayor:

Three hundred and eighty-one districts out of 408 gave:

Herron, 63,719.
Mackrell, 30,261.
McArdle, 24,855.

Three hundred and eighty-seven districts out of 408 gave:

McNair, 20,049.
Henry, 2,624.

Former Mayor William A. Magee, candidate for City Council on the McArdle ticket, appears to have made the only break in the regular Republican ranks. On returns from all but 34 districts Magee is third for the five councilmanic nominations, leading Councilman George S. Oliver and Harry a Little. Councilman C. B. Connelley is trailing in sixth place, 281 votes behind Oliver.

The vote on Council:

31 STATES FOR REPEAL

Associated Press.

The score card in the fight over repeal read today: Repeal, 31; prohibition, 0.

Idaho and New Mexico, voting yesterday, approved the proposed Twenty-first Amendment, which would strike the Eighteenth from the Constitution.

This placed the repeal forces in a position where they can spot the prohibitionists three states between now and November 7 and still have national prohibition out of the Constitution in December.

The next state to vote is Virginia, on October 3. Florida votes on October 10, and six more—North and South Carolina, Ohio, Kentucky, Pennsylvania and Utah—on November 7.

The anti-prohibitionists need only five of them to obtain the 36 states needed to amend the Constitution.

VOTE MACHINE PROBE PLEDGED

A drastic inquiry to determine why voting machines broke down so suddenly and so frequently yesterday was promised today by the officials of the County Bureau of Elections.

The first broad-scale experiment with voting machines in Pittsburgh, Clairton, McKeesport and Duquesne was admittedly disappointing to large numbers.

The unpopularity they generated among the electorate yesterday was evidenced today as the last of them was brought to the Bureau of Elections through city streets to the tune of booing from

Roosevelt Pleased At McNair Victory

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—First definite indication that President Roosevelt has his eye on the mayoralty situation in Pittsburgh come today as he welcomed word that William N. McNair and his entire ticket were nominated in the Democratic primary yesterday.

Receiving correspondents in the White House library, due to his recent illness, the President smiled broadly and hailed the political news from Pittsburgh as sunshine in a busy day.

Bandit Leader in Holdup Boasts Notch on Gun

Three bandits wearing handkerchief masks held up a chain wholesale grocery at 713 Tripoli street today and fled in an automobile with more than $400 cash and a number of checks.

"Now, no monkey business. I shot a man in a stickup in New Castle."

Sahler was compelled to open the safe which yielded nothing, then to open the cash drawer from which the robbers took the money.

As they left the bandits compelled Sahler, David Robertson, 28, a clerk, and Mrs. Mary Chimnez, 40, of 880 Vista street, to lie on the floor while they ran out and escaped in an automobile.

Davis Scores in Trial On Lottery Charge

By WILLIAM PFARR
Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Today was a pretty good day for United States Senator James J. Davis.

The Senator scored an important victory when the court ruled, tentatively at least, that no evidence of the alleged 1930 lottery conducted by Davis' Loyal Order of Moose be admitted.

Davis contended that, although indicted for both the 1930 and 1931 alleged lotteries, he was standing trial only on the latter indictment.

The court's ruling caused the government to withdraw witness Donald Stewart, editor of the Moose Magazine, in favor of James W. Reid, of the Eureka Specialty Printing Company, Scranton.

Reid testified that his firm printed the tickets for the Moose 1931 charity ball, which the government contends was a lottery.

He said the bill for the tickets had been sent to the propagation department of the Moose.

Senator Davis reserved one ready ear for election news from Pittsburgh today. The other he kept attuned to the witness chair in Federal Court.

This second ear was perhaps more attentive, for the government today was getting down to brass tacks in its effort to prove that the Senator violated the law by taking part in the alleged $3,000,000 lotteries conducted by his Loyal Order of Moose in 1930 and 1931.

GREEN WARNS LABOR WILL STRIKE TO HOLD NRA GAINS

PITTSBURGHERS LINKED IN PLOT CHARGES

A. F. of L. Head Sees Scheme to Avoid Union Invasion

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The industrial horizon was scanned by NRA officials today as organized labor served notice it will use the strike weapon if necessary to force compliance with the labor terms of the Recovery Act.

With the National Labor Board making strong efforts to settle strikes breaking out in many sections of the country, the question of enforcement of the labor provisions confronted Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator.

The National Labor Board, headed by Senator Robert Wagner of New York, is admittedly without power to force acceptance of its dictates. The recovery administration, however, may invoke the aid of courts through the Justice Department.

STRIKES FORECAST

In presenting evidence which he said showed that an effort was being made to prevent workers from entering union ranks, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor demanded adherance to the law. He said:

"We have had to strike to compel obedience to the law and we expect we shall have to do so again."

Big corporations, including several in Pittsburgh, Green said were rushing to form company unions and employes' association in anticipation of the organization campaign of labor.

The corporations named by Green in the evidence he submitted to Johnson included:

E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co.; Aluminum Company of America, Remington-Rand, Inc.; Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Delco-Remy, RCA-Victor, Kohler Company, Wis.; Jones and Laughlin Steel Company, Aliquippa, Pa.; Sinclair Refining Company, Marcus Hook, Pa.; Pharis Tire and Rubber Company, Newport, O.; Newport News Shipbuilding Company, Lamson and Sessions Company, Kent, O.; Frigidaire Company, Dayton, O.; Market Street Railway, San Francisco; Louisville Gas and Electric Company.

COAL PROTEST

There were indications some of the major coal operators may present a petition to President Roosevelt to allow the coal code to become effective as it was presented to him.

Operators, returning to Washington to confer with lawyers, expressed surprise at many changes made by the President when he signed the code. They particularly objected to the changes giving the government greater power over the industry.

A representative of the Aluminum Company of America informed of the charges made by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said:

"The Aluminum Company is obeying every rule and regulation of the NRA."

On September 4, the company announced that employes had failed to approve by a two-thirds vote a plan for a company organization in the plants at New Kensington.

Representatives of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company and the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, also named in the Green statement, had no comment to make.

FAKE BILL CASE JAILS 3 MORE

Three more members of an alleged Western Pennsylvania counterfeiting ring that flooded the country with spurious $10 notes were under arrest today in York, Pa.

The three are Charles A. Horn, A. Nelson Horn and Theodore W. Hertzog, all engravers. They were said by federal authorities to have confessed making plates used in making counterfeit bills by others of the gang.

Five others, one a woman, previously had been arrested by secret service operatives here and have been held for Federal Court trial. One of the five is Richard Breese, a farmer of near Grove City, on whose place printing presses were dug up, according to federal agents.

30,000 MINERS ORDERED TO WORK

The strike of 30,000 coal miners in Western Pennsylvania was declared "officially" at an end today.

Orders directing the return of the diggers to the mines and the resumption of producton were issued late yesterday over the signatures of John O'Leary, international board member of the United Mine Workers of America, William J. Patton, district vice president and William Hargest, district secretary-treasurer.

Whether resumption of operations in mines of the Pittsburgh Coal Company and the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company would take place was considered problematical. All major mines in this district continued down today.

The order applying to members of District No. 5 read:

"You are hereby notified that your district office is in receipt of official information from President P. T. Fagan that the President of the United States has signed the coal code."

"We instruct all United Mine Workers to return to work pending the working out of contracts between the operators and our organization in line with the code signed by the President of the United States."

'Holiday Army' Proposes West Virginia Invasion

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 20.—A proposed invasion of the West Virginia panhandle by an army of pickets was to be voted on this afternoon at a meeting of Western Pennsylvania miners in Fredericktown, Washington County.

The meeting was called by insurgent leaders and was without sanction of the United Mine Workers.

The question of returning to work before October 2 when the bituminous code becomes effective also was to be voted on.

Miners on "holiday" in this region are displeased because West Virginia mines have continued to operate. Some favor crossing the border and calling out the diggers. Warnings are said to have been received that West Virginia state police and other armed officers would resist any effort to invade its boundaries.

AWAIT SHOWDOWN

The miners want to know if the Blue Eagle has claws.

That the showdown was imminent was revealed here today as unrest among the idle miners became apparent in their anxiety to have the code promulgated by President Roosevelt explained to them.

They want John L. Lewis to explain it. The international president of the United Mine Workers of America has been invited to come here and do it.

Idleness is breeding rumors among the men. They have not relaxed in their determination to keep the mines closed until Frick recognizes their union, but the company's attitude of marking time is beginning to worry them.

Talk of the Frick company grouping its loyal non-union employes in heretofore idle mines to resume operations caused speculation among the union groups. Spokesmen predicted trouble.

BLOODSHED FEARED

"It will mean bloodshed if Frick attempts anything like that. It would be grossly unfair if the company should discriminate against union workers and although I have preached peace and order to the men for weeks, such a move on the part of the company would be beyond the point of human endurance."

Cavalcante said he had informed Gov. Gifford Pinchot of the threatened move and declared a showdown was inevitable. He said:

"We will soon see which is the more powerful, the United States Steel Corporation (parent concern of the Frick Company) or the United States Government."

The code, Cavalcante asserted, represents the will of 95 per cent of the coal operators of the country and governs captive as well as other mines, and he declared he could not see why the Frick Company felt it was not included.

Picket lines were maintained throughout yesterday and early today at all of the mines in the district. Even a cold drizzling rain did not deter these determined men. They have erected shelters at their picket outposts. Camp fires blink fitfully all day and night and the pickets maintain their vigil.

GREENSBURG MINERS IDLE

GREENSBURG, Pa., Sept. 20.—Nearly 12,000 coal miners from this district, affiliated with the United Mine Workers of America, many of whom voted to return to work, remained idle today as swarms of pickets, whom union officials charged were "outsiders," appeared at workings.

About 2,000 miners voted to return yesterday, but when they appeared this morning they found pickets guarding entrances. At Jamison No. 20 mine, Jamison Coal and Coke Company, a number estimated at 1,500 men picketed and stopped miners. Officials at mine said the men arrived before daybreak traveling in nearly 100 automobiles. They were bound for Indiana County, but decided to stop and picket Jamison mine, operators said. Other district mines made no attempt to open.

Union District No. 3 heads blamed not only "outsiders," whom they claimed came from Ohio and other points, but insurgent groups from Districts Nos. 4 and 5 and communistic elements of the National Miners' Union.

No disorder was reported at any mines where workers refused to attempt to crash picket lines.

NEW BOMBINGS IN SCRANTON

SCRANTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Two more bombings, with slight injury to one man, today marked continuation of a strike against the Penn Anthracite Mining Company, called by members expelled from the United Mine Workers of America.

The blasts, which police say brought to six the number of bombings since the strike started several weeks ago, damaged the homes of John Kallachan at Sand Banks, and of John Sibka at North Scranton, employed at separate collieries of the Penn Anthracite.

COAL MEN SPEED AGREEMENT ON WAGE SCALE

No More Fighting Says J. D. A. Morrow; Lewis 'Satisfied'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Coal operators' committees and United Mine Workers officials made rapid progress yesterday on the voluminous details which must be included in the operators' contracts with the union under the soft coal code.

Both sides were hopeful that the contracts would be ready for signing today or Thursday. J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Northern Coal Control Association, said:

"It is not a matter of fighting. The argument is all over. We are going over the voluminous details of the contracts. There is a tremendous amount of work to be done."

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, said the negotiations of the day had been "satisfactory."

The details include the setting of tonnage rates—the minimum amount of tonnage to be produced by miners to receive the minimum daily rates and adjustments to meet the widely varying conditions existing in various mines.

Negotiations on the basic wage rates for Alabama were continued by NRA officials today, with Tennessee operators insisting that the differential between their mines and the Alabama mines be kept within 40 cents. The Tennessee rate is $4.20 a day, while the Alabamans insisted that $3 was the maximum they could pay.

The Alabama rates and those for the Western Kentucky coal region are the only ones not yet included in the coal code.

As discussion of the effect of the code on coal prices continued, leaders of the industry said they regarded an average jump of from 30 to 40 cents per ton at the mine as the greatest possible under the conditions now surrounding the industry.

They expressed the opinion that competition of fuel oil, natural gas and electric power would keep coal prices from going above 30-40 cents at this time.

Roosevelt Pleased With Progress, Says Pittman

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt was described as being highly pleased over the progress made by the NRA in getting the bituminous coal industry under a code of fair practices and generally satisfied with efforts to return prosperity, by Senator Key Pittman (Dem.), of Nevada, yesterday.

Pittman believed the President felt his signing of the coal code marked the turning point between unsettled economic conditions and a real march toward better times. He lunched with the President and neither mentioned inflation.

He contends a much better representation of producers can be obtained by holding the hearing here. The purpose is to draft an agreement covering prices of milk for the farmers and distributors.

Transcontinental Roads A National Need

Los Angeles, Cal.,

James T. Williams, Jr.,
Universal Service,
Washington, D. C.

There does not seem to be much progress being made with the public works program. Cannot you who are located at Washington urge greater progress in this direction?

That program is especially valuable in the early period of the return to prosperity. It puts the unemployed to work, saves them from being dependents on private charity, makes independent citizens of them again, and increases the purchasing power of the community.

In addition to that it accomplishes necessary objectives.

It performs things beneficial to the country.

It seems to me that one of the most beneficial projects to the nation as a whole is the completion of at least three great highways from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Highways exist, but they are not complete. They are interrupted here and there by considerable stretches of very bad road.

Consequently the use of these highways is not as universal, not as alluring, as it would be if the highways were perfected.

The benefit of these great highways when perfected would be many-sided.

It would not only benefit in practical commercial ways the states and communities through which they pass, but it would lead myriads of citizens into taking automobile trips in their own country, and into becoming familiar with what are to them distant parts of our country.

It would be educational, and inspirational.

It would make them better Americans.

In addition to that it would keep much money at home that is now spent in foreign travel.

And finally, these highways would provide not only avenues for busines and pleasure in times of peace, but they would be of great value in times of possible hostile invasion, when the railroads would be glutted with transportation, and when these highways could be used for the overflow and for the movement of defensive troops.

All these purposes make the completion of the highways I think a patrotic project, and one important to the country at any time, but especially important at this time, because the employment on them would be immediate and extensive, and the construction largely a matter of labor.

I do not think the federal government should place too much emphasis on the fact that the state governments are not alway doing their part in the co-operative construction of these highways.

In the first place, these great national highways are in the nature of things more a federal proposition than a state proposition, and the federal government could easily afford to supply the whole cost of construction, on account of the benefits accruing to the nation as a whole.

But if the government insists upon the states performing their part and the states are not financially able to do so, as some of them certainly are not at this time, then the government could surely devise some way by which the federal agencies could do the work and the states could issue promises to pay their part when prosperity returns.

The importance, however, of these highways as a national benefit, I repeat, is so great that the federal government should consider their construction from the national point of view and with the purpose of carrying out the national appropriations to relieve unemployment, and to create permanent national benefits.

STEEL LEADERS, NRA TO CONFER

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Leaders of the nation's steel industry and representatives of the National Recovery Administration today will foregather to discuss progress of the steel code and determine how the industry is operating under the Blue Eagle.

Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson may come here from Washington to sit in on the parley, it was said at headquarters of the American Iron and Steel Institute, but if he is unable to make the trip Deputy Administrator Kenneth M. Simpson, who handled the steel code hearings, and Donald Richberg, general counsel for the Recovery Administration, will be present.

Following adoption of the code for the industry several weeks ago, steel industry heads and NRA leaders decided upon a plan for administration. Since then, Steel Institute officials representing the industry's governing body, have been compiling statistics and gathering data for a formal report on condition of the industry, to be submitted at today's conference.

RETAIL CODE REVEALED BY NRA

Drug Stores' Pact Also Given; Price Control Plan

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Two codes of fair competition, one covering the general retail trade and the other drug stores, were made public today by Deputy Administrator A. D. Whiteside, of the NRA, with the announcement that they were now up to Hugh S. Johnson for decision.

As finally drafted the codes carried the much-controverted price-control provision framed so that every merchant would be required to keep his minimum prices at 10 per cent above "wholesale delivered price" of any merchandise except for special sales.

NOT PRICE-FIXING

Whiteside told newspapermen this could in no sense be construed a price-fixing provision since no profit could enter a retail transaction unless the merchant obtained 25 per cent above wholesale price.

He said its value would rest primarily in limiting retailers' losses and preventing continuance of "loss leader" selling by which merchants attract customers with low-priced goods in the hope they will buy items carrying a much higher profit.

The clause in the retail code carrying this provision now reads:

"In order to check predatory price-cutting and minimize operating losses resulting therefrom and in order to assure that the retailer shall be at least partially compensated for the service he renders the consumer, on and after the effective date of this code no retailer shall offer for sale, sell, exchange or give away any merchandise, except as provided in Section 2 of this article and in schedule A hereafter below a minimum price which shall be the wholesale delivered price as hereinafter defined with the addition of a charge of 10 per cent.

INTERPRETATION

"'Wholesale delivery price' as used herein means the lowest gross billing price, as of any date within 30 days prior to the date of resale, made to any retailer in the given market area less only such discounts as are exended to all retailers and plus delivery costs paid by the retailer."

The Section 2 following this article specified lower prices could be charged at bona-fide clearance sales, on highly perishable merchandise, imperfect or damaged goods clearly marked, discontinued lines and final liquidation.

The general or master code was submitted for 10 classes of retail trade: Department stores, furniture stores, general merchandise stores, hardware stores, limited price variety stores, mail order houses, men's clothing, music stores, shoe stores and women's specialty shops.

TAMMANY HALL DEALT BLOW

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—Tammany Hall counted a costly victory today from the results of yesterday's Democratic primary election, in which organization lines of both major parties gave way before the unexpected thrusts of enrolled voters.

While bluff, white-haired Mayor John P. O'Brien rode through to a decisive two-to-one victory as candidate for re-election, John F. Curry's braves found themselves overwhelmed by the forces of Frank J. Prial, independent candidate for comptroller.

On the Republican side, young Chase Mellen, Jr., carrying the banner of conservative Republicans of the old guard, appeared to have broken the 22-year grip of Samuel S. Koenig on the chairmanship of the New York County Republican committee.

Prial's defeat of John N. Harman came as a blow to Tammany. Running as an independent, Prial accomplished what was regarded as the impossible by turning an 85,000 majority over his Tammany opponent.

Roosevelt Leading Race To Return to Work

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt resumed his regular calling list today, but again remained away from his desk at the suggestion of his physician to assure complete recovery from a cold.

In his study on the second floor of the executive mansion, he received newspapermen for the regular semi-weekly interview and also opened the doors for callers who have been seeking his attention.

Stephen Early, a secretary to the President, reported that the slight fever which had accompanied the cold had dissipated.

A White House race is on—a race between President Roosevelt and Marvin H. McIntyre, one of his secretaries, to see who will get well and return to his desk first.

Last week Mr. Roosevelt insisted that "Mac" go to the Naval hospital and take a brief rest to correct an intestinal disorder resulting from nervous exhaustion.

On Monday the President found himself taking orders from a Naval physician to stay at home and nurse a slight cold.

So he promptly sent a challenge to "Mac" that he would beat him back to the executive office desk.

21 Guns Boom Salute To Hoover at Fair

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Pomp and ceremony marked the arrival of former President Herbert Hoover at A Century of Progress today.

Overruled in his request for simplicity during his visit here, the former President was greeted at the exposition grounds by a 21-gun salute, the flashing of tin cavalry hats and the tread of marching infantrymen.

Smiling and waving at a cheering throng, Mr. and Mrs. Hoover were welcomed by President Rufus Dawes and other fair dignitaries, while the distant guns boomed their tribute. Preceded by cavalry, the party then moved through crowded streets to the Court of Honor.

After reviewing the troops, the former President and party were escorted to the Administration Building for an official reception. Following the reception and luncheon, the only remaining formalities scheduled were a boat ride around the lagoon and an automobile tour. Thereafter the distinguished visitors were to be permitted to inspect the fair as private citizens.

BALCHEN BACK FOR OPERATION AFTER MYSTERY WALKOUT

FAMOUS FLIER MISSING FOR DAY

Undergoing Operation In South Africa Hospital

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Bernt Balchen, American aviator who disappeared yesterday when he was supposed to report for an appendicitis operation, finally showed up this noon at the Volks Hospital. Physicians said his condition made an operation necessary this afternoon.

During the period of his absence Balchen got in touch by telephone several times with Sir Hubert Wilkins, his fellow explorer, and other associates. He and Sir Hubert are en route to the Antarctic with the Lincoln Ellsworth Expedition.

The doctor with whom Balchen consulted after leaving the ship yesterday also said he received a telephone call this morning, in which Balchen said he would be ready for the operation at any time.

WALKS OUT ON DOCTOR

The flier left the ship on which he arrived with Sir Hubert for the Lincoln Ellsworth expedition to the Bay of Whales and started for the hospital in a taxi.

He met a doctor in a hotel room. They talked for a while and then Balchen excused himself, not to reappear. The taxi driver he had asked to wait for him finally returned to the ship, with Balchen's belongings.

Balchen, 35, was Admiral Richard E. Byrd's pilot across the Atlantic in 1927 and to the South Pole and was a member of the Amundsen North Pole expedition in 1926. He and his wife, the former Emy Soerlie, of Oslo, Norway, became American citizens a year after their marriage in 1930.

FORGOT HE'S NOT IN U. S.

Sir Hubert said his companion apparently forgot that he was not in the United States, "where taxi drivers are prepared to wait for any length of time." The explorer continued:

"The taxi driver yesterday became anxious about his fare, and after waiting more than four hours returned to the ship to bring back Balchen's things and claim the fare.

"Balchen's attack of apendicitis is mild, and as we have a doctor aboard, we were waiting for Balchen after the operation so that he would be able to recuperate aboard, en route to New Zealand."

The doctor said the pilot first arranged for the operation yesterday, but failed to appear at the appointed time. Later the surgeon revealed that it was set for tomorrow.

ASK NEW TRIAL FOR LAMSON

By WILLIS O'BRIEN
Universal Service.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Sept. 20.—David A. Lamson, pale and tense-nerved, stood up in court yesterday, lifted his chin, stared directly into the eyes of Superior Judge R. R. Syer, and prepared himself to hear the most dreadful words a man can hear, that he "shall be hanged by the neck until dead."

But Lamson, handsome former sales manager for the Stanford University Press, convicted of slugging to death his dark-eyed young wife last Memorial Day, did not hear those words.

His attorneys answered for him when Judge Syer asked the traditional question:

"Have you any legal reason to advance as to why sentence should not be pronounced upon you at this time?"

M. J. Rankin, associate of E. M. Rea in the defense, not only had one legal reason, but he had ten of them. He said:

"We ask a postponement, your honor. The transcript in this case contains more than 1100 pages, and we want an opportunity to study this so that we may elucidate our points intelligently."

After some discussion Judge Syer appointed next Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock as the time to hear Rankin's plea for a new trial.

DUPONT GLIDES 22 MILES

After two hours and 51 minutes in the air, du Pont landed at Grottoes.

The expedition headed by du Pont plans three assaults on the record today, if weather permits. du Pont; H. C. Haller, of Pittsburgh, and Warren E. Eaton, of New York City, will each take to the air in specially constructed planes in an effort to whip the 66-mile record

German Ex-Prince To Leave Detroit

MONTREAL, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Prince Louis Ferdinand, grandson of the former Kaiser Wilhelm, now employed in a Detroit automobile plant, will return to Germany in December, a friend, R. Henschel, of Kassel, Germany, said today.

Henschel, son of a locomotive manufacturer and active in the Nazi organization, has been visiting the prince.

OUSTED PASTOR WON'T RETURN

JONESBORO, Ark., Sept. 20.—(AP.)—The Rev. D. C. Applegate, whose efforts to conduct services at the Baptist Tabernacle last night ended abruptly when women members of the congregation appropriated his suspenders and threw him from the pulpit, said last night he would make no further attempt to occupy the pastorate.

The scene came as an unexpected move in the strife between opposing factions of the congregation. Ascending the rostrum at the evening service, Applegate announced he had been delegated by the Rev. Dale Crowley, erstwhile pastor, to conduct services.

Before he could proceed, however, a group of women swarmed over the pulpit, tore off part of his clothing, including his suspenders, and then threw him bodily from the platform into the audience.

The suspenders were cut into pieces and distributed as souvenirs.

ANNIE BESANT DIES AT 86 IN INDIA

Theosophist Leader Had Stormy Career; Fought British

MADRAS, India, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Dr. Annie Besant, who was known throughout the world for her leadership in theosophical activities, died here today. On October 1 she would have been 86 years old.

The peacefulness of her last few days was in vivid contrast to the storm of her life. She was in a state of half-consciousness for some time, never speaking at length even to her most intimate friends.

Dr. Besant had no malady except old age. She was mentally and physically worn out.

TENETS RENOUNCED

Many theosophists expressed the opinion that her last days were marred by a disappointment in Jeddu Krishnamurti, a Hindu in whom, Dr. Besant said at one time, the "Reincarnation of Christ" would be made manifest. Subsequently Krishnamurti announced that he no longer held with the tenets of Dr. Besant's religion.

The destiny of theosophy, and who is to succeed Dr. Besant, are questions much to the fore as a result of her death.

Many persons had expected that Krishnamurti would assume the leadership, but that idea was abandoned when he renounced his "mastership." Jinnarajah Dassa, vice president of the theosophical society, is mentioned as a possible successor.

STORMY CAREER

Few women in modern life have been active in so many fields of endeavor as Dr. Besant. Born in London, the daughter of William Page Wood, she married the Rev. Frank Besant at the age of 20, but obtained a separation six years later.

Early in her life she became an ardent freethinker. Lectures and writings on a wide field of subjects at length led her toward socialism of the more radical sort, and in 1885 she threw in her lot with India. In 1889 she joined the theosophical society, becoming president in 1907.

COUZENS RAPS BANK PROBE

DETROIT, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—United States Senator James Couzens, in a statement today, declared that Judge Harry B. Keidan, who sat as the recently-closed one-man grand jury investigating bank closings here, had prevented him from giving further testimony before the jury on the Detroit Bankers Company, holding company for the First National Bank.

In a lengthy discussion of the activities of the grand jury and the possibility of a payoff to depositors of the closed First National and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, the Senator charged that Judge Keidan had restricted his testimony, in his second appearance before the jury, to a reply to bankers who had denied the truth of statements he made in a previous appearance.

He said he had a large amount of evidence he intended to introduce, but that Judge Keidan told him he felt that such a presentation would "cause the bankers to again request a chance to be heard and further delay the conclusions of the grand jury."

CITY BANK FUND CLAIM AIRED

Judge James H. Gray, in Common Pleas Court, today took under consideration the claim of the City of Pittsburgh to collection of an unsecured deposit of $290,194 in funds in the Franklin Savings and Trust Company when it closed.

Assistant City Solicitor Thomas M. Benner argued today that the city's money, which should by ordinance have been secured by collateral posted by the bank, was a preferred claim and should be paid ahead of others. He admitted Roy D. Schooley, then City Treasurer, had failed to obtain security.

Attorneys for George F. Taylor, Jr., to whose account as Deputy Secretary of Banking in charge of the institution the city takes exception, argued the city's claim is on a par with that of other depositors and should be paid off only as other deposits are paid.

The failure of the bank in 1931 brought to light glaring irregularities in city and private offices. The suit will affect similar city deposits in other closed banks.

There was a marked change towards cooler over the Mississippi Valley states since yesterday morning, due to rising barometer. In the far West temperatures are rising again. Maximum temperatures yesterday of 90 degrees or higher were limited to the southern states.

USHERS BOUNCE FILM'S CRITIC

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Lincoln Kirstein, young intellectual from Boston, has had a new experience—that of being "bounced" by two movie ushers.

Kirstein, editor of "Hound and Horn" and son of a leading Boston merchant, went to a special film showing last night to protest what he considers "butchery" of Sergei Eisenstein's picture, "Thunder Over Mexico."

Before he could get very far with his protest, two ushers not only showed him the door but pushed him through it.

The film "Thunder Over Mexico" has aroused a raging controversy in artistic circles. Eisenstein, famous Russian director, spent 14 months in Mexico taking 200,000 feet of film for the picture. That was too much for Upton Sinclair, the novelist, who helped back the venture financially and who insists that Eisenstein spent more time and money during the filming than was expected. He turned the 200,000 feet over to a Hollywood producer to be cut and released in three separate features and several short subjects.

Urschel, Keenan Deaths Threatened by Kelly

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 19.—(AP.)—The life of Joseph B. Keenan, assistant attorney general leading the nation's drive against crime, has been threatened by George (Machine Gun) Kelly, kidnaper and bandit, it was learned on good authority today.

Keenan received the threat in an airmail letter from Chicago at the end of yesterday's Federal Court session, in which Harvey Bailey, Albert Bates and 10 other persons are on trial for the kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire.

There was an apparently well-founded rumor from the closely-guarded federal camp that Urschel himself received a threatening letter from Kelly just before he went on the witness stand yesterday to tell the story of his nine days' captivity.

It was understood further that the letters brazenly boasted that the $185,000 in Urschel ransom money which has not been recovered is being held intact to organize and pay off underworld forces for carrying out the death threats.

FRANCE FAVORS DISARMAMENT BY STAGES

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT.
International News Service.

PARIS, Sept. 20.—An agreement on disarmament by stages is the chief feature of the arms plan presented by France to Great Britain in the hope of halting Germany rearmament, International News Service learned today.

The plan was placed in the hands of Capt. Anthony Eden, of the British Foreign Office, by French spokesmen. The British cabinet is considering the plan today.

The two main points of the plan are:

1—Institution of control of the present state of armaments as the basis for future disarmament.

2—Disarmament by stages agreed to now and inserted in a formal convention.

Whether disarmament will begin in a year, as Britain wishes, or within four years as France proposes, is being left open for further argument.

U. S.-British Accord On Arms Indicated

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(INS.)—Intimation that Great Britain and the United States have reached a "gentleman's agreement" on projected supervision of armaments was given in official quarters today as the Cabinet met to discuss the arms situation.

An effort is being made, it was said, to reconcile the French attitude with the Anglo-American accord within the framework of a proposal being laid before the Cabinet by Capt. Anthony Eden, of the Foreign Office, for a "yes or no" decision following his conversations with French officials in Paris.

Official circles admitted that "helpful suggestions" from Premier Mussolini of Italy—reported to include concessions to Germany in the mattter of light tanks and aircraft—had considerably encouraged the Franco-British conversations.

Britain Fears U. S. Navy Program Threatens Parley

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—The British government told United States Ambassador-at-Large Norman H. Davis, on his recent visit here, that the American naval building program might make a bad impression on other countries on the eve of the disarmament Conference.

This authoritative explanation was advanced today for reports from Washington that Britain had requested the United States to defer its construction schedule.

It is understood Davis was informed that Britain was not herself worried about American construction, but feared others might be.

This was qualified by a statement that there might be apprehension in England if a naval race developed between Japan and America, in which case Britain might be forced to enter the competition.

CHAPLIN PROBES FUND FOR SONS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—Did Lita Grey Chaplin, actress, act wisely in spending a total of $33,994.62 for the care of her and Charles Chaplin's two sons during the period of September 1, 1931, to last July 1?

This question will be debated in Superior Judge C. S. Crail's court Monday afternoon.

FASCIST LEAGUE MOVE SEEN

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Universal Service.

GENEVA, Sept. 20.—With Austria torn between conflicting forces of Italian Fascism and those who would make it a Hitlerite annex of Germany, a confidential Italian manifesto has made its appearance in inner political circles which may throw some light on that struggle.

In some quarters, it is interpreted as a scarcely veiled decision and move by Premier Mussolini to create a solid bloc of Fascist states under the inspiration of Il Duce, to crowd back the influence of France at Geneva and elsewhere in Europe.

The manifesto of the "Central Council of Action Committee for Universality of Roma" declares:

"The fascist revolution against bolshevism and the old conservative world has created a new civilization."

The conception of a corporative state, victoriously realized in Italy, has created the foundation for a greater structure along those lines, it adds.

Roosevelt Firm On Building Navy To Treaty Limit

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—President Roosevelt intends to go ahead without restriction on the $238,000,000 program to build the Navy up to treaty limits.

Reports have been current from abroad that suggestions had been made to Norman H. Davis, America's roving ambassador, that there be some abandonment or curtailment of the building program.

The President let it be known that contracts have been let for the program, and that under no circumstances was there any intention of calling back these contracts or altering plans.

It appears that any suggestion that may have been made to the United States by Great Britain would concern the four class "B" cruisers called for by the program, which would lay down tonnages up to the last pound of the 10,000-ton limit, with six-inch guns.

The administration was unusually incensed over a report that the United States contemplated sending a special representative to the league.

In high official and diplomatic quarters it was branded as propaganda back of a drive to involve this country in foreign alliances and entanglements, which is strongly resented here.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull said:

"This government is not contemplating any change whatever in its political relations with the League. No project of such a nature has been considered or is being considered in this department."

League Plans Special American Section

GENEVA, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—With the American minister to Switzerland, Hugh R. Wilson, practically living in Geneva and with five members of the consular staff headed by Prentiss B. Gilbert devoting themselves exclusively to League of Nations questions, the league decided today to inaugurate a special American section.

Arthur Sweetser, of Boston, one of President Wilson's aides when the covenant was drafted in Paris, is slated to take charge.

Gilbert and four foreign service assistants will cover for Washington every detail of the forthcoming assembly and attend committee meetings.

American Ambassador-at-large Norman H. Davis, Minister Wilson and their staffs, probably will be here during the assembly for private conferences, so the Americans, though non-members of the League, are likely to have a personnel greater than powers who are permanent members of the council.

Woman Reports Theft of Coats

Two fur coats, valued at $1,400, and two traveling bags, valued at $105, were stolen last night from the home of Mrs. Flora Ahlberg, 5610 Fifth avenue, according to a police report. The thieves broke the glass in the front door.

NAVY OFFICIAL BACKS BUILDING

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Warnings that the American building program might bring on another Naval construction race were called "unjustified" last night by Henry L. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the Navy.

Speaking while reports still were current that Great Britain sought abandonment or curtailment of America's building program, Roosevelt contended an adequate navy was "economic life insurance." He said:

"One hears criticisms of our present naval building policy. We are warned that it might set a bad example to the other naval powers and encourage another naval race.

"How unjustified is this assertion can be seen from the fact that by 1936 when our new program is completed we shall still be 101 vessels short of our authorized strength, Great Britain will be 64 ships short and Japan will have in commission its full quota."

RESCUED FLIER RECOVERING

JACKSON, Mich., Sept. 20.—(AP.)—A husky young airmail pilot who "kept the mail up" until he fell in a storm rather than risk delay, and who lay injured for 63 hours in a tamarack swamp because he "had to stay with the mail" today was recovering from near-starvation and broken bones suffered in the crash.

He was Harold L. Neff, 26-year-old Cleveland flier, who lay near his plane in the swamp from 3 a. m. Saturday until Monday night, while his colleagues, aided by sheriff's officials in three states, searched unsuccessfully for him. He said today:

"I didn't dare go too far away because it was my job to stay with the ship and the mail. I yelled for help, but nobody heard me."

Davis Named Head By Insurance Men

Benjamin F. Davis, of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company, was elected president of the Pittsburgh Accident and Health Insurance Managers' Association for the coming year, it was announced today.

Autoist, Milk Driver Injured in Crash

Wayne Rawley, Jr., 25, of the Schenley Apartments, was injured early today in a head-on collision with a milk wagon in Forbes, near Wightman street. Rawley and the driver of the wagon, George Brown, 36, of 337 Pearl street, were taken to Homeopathic Hospital.

U. S. NATIONALS FLEEING FROM CENTRAL CUBA

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Reports of extreme and growing disorder in the interior of Cuba, from which many Americans were said to be fleeing to the protection of United States warships at coastal ports, were received today at the State Department.

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

HAVANA, Sept. 19.—Clashes between government troops and the rebel army led by Juan Blas Hernandez were expected momentarily today near Ranchero in Camaguey province.

Blas Hernandez and his band camped overnight between Moron and Ciego de Avila, with the government troops, only two miles away, cutting off his progress.

Army headquarters here still professed doubt over Blas Hernandez' true status, stating it was not known whether he was an anti-government rebel or a sort of Cuban K. K. K., seeking support of the government by forcibly settling strikes in the interior of the country.

REGARDED AS REBEL

Reports from the countryside said Blas Hernandez declared himself a patriot supporting the government of President Grau San Martin.

Army agents, however, learned he left Havana last week for the avowed purpose of starting a revolution, so they are treating him as a rebel.

No acts of violence have been reported yet except the slaughter of two cows to feed Blas Hernandez' army.

A spokesman for the army headquarters declared:

"It is very doubtful which side Blas Hernandez is fighting for, although he professes he is on a government mission."

Col. Fulgencio Batista, army chief of staff, said privately he would capture Blas Hernandez either by persuasion or by force.

READY FOR BATTLE

The army is ready for a battle, but Batista would prefer to take the rebel by deception or to have him surrender voluntarily, since that would create a better impression in the United States.

Meanwhile, President Grau San Martin left his opponents bewildered by capturing the laboring classes under his banner after he openly defied long-intrenched Cuban political leaders.

He first flatly refused to admit any politicians into his administration and then issued a decree for an eight-hour working day and another abolishing political parties.

The president's decision to ban himself and all associates from public office for six years after popular election of a new president next year damped the desires of politicians to enter his cabinet, but at the same time made them eager to control government patronage and influence in order to build up organizations for the coming elections.

REFUSES TO QUIT

Demands for Grau San Martin's resignation, lacking force, have been ignored. Official sources emphatically denied reports published in the United States that he President had offered to resign.

Since he enjoys the support of the army, no group will be able to oust him without winning over the troops.

Havana remained quiet and orderly, with the besieged ousted Army officers at the National Hotel presenting the only major problem in addition to the activities of Blas Hernandez.

The government expects an early solution of the controversy with the officers, since their food supplies are getting low. There will probably be developments within the next few days, with many of the officers leaving the hotel for their homes.

Malaria Plague Adds To Cuban Suffering

HAVANA, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Widespread outbreaks of malaria were added today to the burden of suffering Cuba. Many towns in the island reported numerous cases of the disease, and conditions were especially bad at Cienfuegos.

SPAIN TO TAKE IBANEZ BODY

MADRID, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—The body of Vicente Blasco Ibanez, famous Spanish novelist whose will forbade his burial in his native country, will be brought from Menton, France, to Valencia on October 29, a commission charged with removing the body announced today.

Three cruisers and a number of airplanes will escort it from Menton, and troops will accompany it to the Valencia City Hall, where high government officials will speak. Ambassadors of the United States, France and other nations will be invited to attend the ceremonies.

(Ibanez died in Menton in 1928. He was an impassioned agitator and was frequently imprisoned. His writings were ignored by the majority of Spaniards. Because of these circumstances, he lived for a long time in Paris and provided before he died that he should not be buried in Spain.)

France Resorts To Lottery to Raise Revenue

PARIS, Sept. 20.—(INS.)—For the first time in many years, France resorted to a state lottery today to aid in meeting public expenses and the response was so great that the first block of 2,000,000 tickets was sold within an hour.

Sale of the block, representing a value of 200,000,000 francs (approximately $12,000,000), began at 8 a. m. By 9 o'clock, all available tickets had been bought.

Forty per cent of the proceeds will go to the government for veterans' pensions and farm relief. The lottery will be drawn November 11.

WIFE INJURED IN CAR CRASH

Mrs. Dorothy Weber, of 1033 Sawmill Run boulevard, suffered bruises when an automobile driven by her husband, Martin C. Weber, 38, collided with a car operated by F. J. Marmion, 41, of 275 Dixon street, Mt. Lebanon, in Sawmill Run boulevard, last night, according to police. She was taken to South Side Hospital.

A wire fence prevented Marmion's car from rolling off the boulevard after the crash, police reported. He and Weber escaped injury.

BUTTONS BACK AFTER VISITS IN SUBURBS

"Buttons" is back in town again after three days in suburban territory.

But "Buttons" doesn't find it so easy to hop around as he did last week. Everybody seems to have become familiar with his fascinating job, and the minute he steps out of his car and rings a doorbell he is besieged by dozens in the neighborhood asking, "When are you going to 'page' my name in the Sun-Telegraph?"

"Buttons"

Now it happens that "Buttons" doesn't really do the "paging." His job is to deliver the money to the Sun-Telegraph readers whose names have been selected and whose names appear in the Want Ad pages in the Sun-Telegraph from day to day.

"Buttons has a mighty happy job, because every time he calls he leaves a cash award for some person in that home. "Buttons," you know, is boosting the "Spend a Dollar . . . Make a Job . . . Buy in September and Save," campaign and makes it possible for 11 Sun-Telegraph readers to do their part in this movement for recovery every day. Each day there is one award of $5 and 10 awards of $1.

Now if your name has not appeared in the list on the Want Ad pages, don't get discouraged. If it isn't there today, it may appear tomorrow. There will be a lot more names published and yours may be among them any day.

Watch the Sun-Telegraph, find your name when it appears and then get the thrill of a call with cash from "Buttons."

Index of Infant NRA Articles Fills 77 Pages

CHICAGO, Sept. 20—(AP.)—The American Library Association has issued the first edition of a cumulative bibliography on the NRA, covering the period from May to August.

It lists sources of official information on the Recovery Act, the codes of fair practices set up under it, and indexes articles showing reactions of business and industry to the New Deal.

Although NRA is only three months old, the list of articles already in print about it in magazines, books, pamphlets, trade journals and the like fills 77 mimeographed pages.

FLINN HIGHWAY WORK URGED

A committee of Allegheny and Butler County citizens meeting at the Duquesne Club yesterday decided to urge immediate completion of the William Flinn highway, primary route 8, to Butler, with funds to be obtained under the National Recovery Act.

Joseph C. Trees, County Commissioner C. C. McGovern and Senator Frank J. Harris were appointed to confer with Gov. Pinchot to request action to procure federal funds for the project.

The committee pointed out that the improvement would employ a large number of men, hasten the return of spending power to Western Pennsylvania and increase trade in the territory the road serves.

DAY'S FREEDOM COSTS 8 YEARS

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Emmett Bock yesterday faced the prospect of paying for a single day's freedom by being imprisoned eight years.

In a detective bureau cell he admitted, officers said, his identity as the man known as Thomas Malone, who in December, 1930, broke away from the London, O., Prison Farm unaware he was to have been granted parole the next day.

Bock was arrested by a detective yesterday at his home. He has been supporting himself, a wife and baby as a structural steel worker, a trade he learned during seven years of imprisonment for burglary.

He was sentenced to 5 to 15 years' imprisonment and learned today that Ohio authorities will demand that the maximum term be served because of his escape.

W. R. Hearst Sends Message to U. S. Jews

William Randolph Hearst yesterday sent a special message to the Jews in America on the eve of their Rosh Hashana, or New Year Day, in reply to requests for an expression from him by the Jewish Advocate, of Boston, and the Jewish Press, of Omaha, Neb.

Mr. Hearst's message follows:

"I hope this new year will inaugurate a new era of liberty and enlightenment through the world. At present the world seems plunging back into the dark ages of bigotry and cruelty, of prejudice and persecution.

"The duty of America should be to keep our part of the world bright with the light of liberty, cleansed of the black hatreds and evil antagonisms which breed like bats in the dark of ignorance and intolerance.

"Education and understanding will make us a race of brothers living in mutual affection and mutual appreciation.

"Thus may America become an example to the rest of the world, leading it back to the light and showing it not only the moral but the material benefit of tolerance and freedom."

2 HELD IN DUAL FARM SLAYING

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Arrest of Thomas Earnest Smith, 36, of Knox (Clarion County), in the double slaying of Albert Biegert, 72, and his sister, Hannah, 74, was announced by police last night.

Officers claim the prisoner has confessed the crime which occurred at the Biegert farm near Girard six weeks ago.

District Attorney Mortimer E. Graham said Smith implicated a half-breed Indian from the Indian Reservation at Salamanca, N. Y., in his confession. The Indian is in jail.

Miss Biegert was found beaten to death in the kitchen of the farmhouse by a state cattle tester. Her brother, also fatally beaten, was found nearby.

CHAPLIN HEADS RECOVERY BOARD

James C. Chaplin, president of the Colonial Trust Company, today was named chairman of the Pittsburgh District Recovery Board, according to Wilson K. Ray, executive secretary of the board and district manager for the Department of Commerce here.

The board will co-ordinate the work of the compliance boards in cities and towns in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia in effecting co-operation in enforcement of the NRA codes.

The election of Chaplin was by telephone from the seven members. The committee has held no meeting as yet.

CURB VIOLATIONS

Pittsburgh's NRA Conciliation Board will hold its first meeting at a luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce at 12:15 p. m. tomorrow, it was announced today by Frank C. Harper, executive secretary of the board and of the NRA in Pittsburgh.

The meeting will arrange methods of reviewing violations that have been under investigation by the NRA in the last three weeks, Harper said.

Approximately 700 alleged code violations have been reported to NRA headquarters in the Chamber and the investigation in each case must follow the routine prescribed by Washington. First the employer concerned is informed of the nature of the complaint and asked to give his understanding of the facts.

200 MORE SIGN

If he cannot show the charge is groundless and if he fails or refuses to comply after his obligation is explained, he will be summoned to a hearing before the whole board. If every attempt at conciliation fails, Harper says, the case will be reported to Washington with the recommendation that federal authorities remove the blue eagle from the employer's place of business.

Peter Glick, former secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry, is chairman of the board of 10 members, representing employers, labor, consumers and the general public.

The Chamber has turned over to Postmaster James Anderson 200 more signed employers' agreements and certificates of compliance. This makes a total of approximately 1,500 such agreements and certificates obtained in two weeks through the efforts of the Chamber.

Workers from the women's Auxiliary of the NRA are turning in signed consumer pledges at the rate of from 10,000 to 15,000 a day, according to Harper.

GANG HIJACKS 2 TRUCKS

MONROE, Mich., Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Five men, crews of two Louisville-to-Chicago merchandise trucks, reported to the Sheriff's office here this morning that a dozen men, masked and armed with machine guns, had hijacked their trucks near Columbus, Ind., Monday night and held them prisoner until 3 a. m. today, when they were dumped from a car along a highway in Monroe County.

The men, all from Chicago, said the hijackers removed 28,000 pounds of cigarets, tobacco and other merchandise from the two trucks.

Aged Widow Dies In Home By Noose

MEYERSDALE, Pa., Sept. 20.—(AP.)—A 72-year-old widow hanged herself today in the basement of her home. Mrs. Clara Hay, who had been ill for several weeks, was found by her grandniece, Elizabeth Hay, 18.

Funeral services will be held Saturday.

SCHOOL COSTS TANGLED BY NRA PRICES

Pittsburgh's Board of Public Education was coping with entanglements of NRA provisions today as firms contracted to provide the city's public school supplies during 1933-34 awaited its decision.

Faced with requests from various firms for modification of the board's contracts to permit an increase of prices due to operation of the recovery act, the board voted to defer action pending study of a written opinion submitted by Solicitor N. R. Criss at a meeting yesterday.

STANDS BY CONTRACTS

Pointing out that, by Pennsylvania court decisions, a contract is closed when a school district has solicited bids and let a contract based on those bids, Criss said in his report:

"If a school district could reopen the contract, the door to fraud would be opened wide and the laws which regulate the awarding of contracts by school districts would be nullified. It has been ruled that school districts are not subject to the provisions of the NIRA."

Expressing the opinion that the board of education is not legally bound to pay any processing tax or any increased cost of production resulting from "any cause whatsoever," Criss said:

"I believe the power of the board to make any adjustment along these lines is, in the most favorable view, extremely doubtful."

MIGHT REOPEN BIDS

Griss recommended cancellation of all contracts and reopening of bidding should the board be "influenced by equitable considerations."

While conservative dealers refused to bid in view of a questionable future, he declared, many contractors submitting bids "were face to face with the conditions but closed their eyes to what was ahead."

STOCK MARKET PROBE REVIVED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Senate stock market investigators were mobilizing today for resumption of their inquiry into J. P. Morgan & Co., and other bankers on October 3.

Chairman Fletcher called members of the banking committee to meet two weeks from today for hearings he announced probably would extend through October and November with a view to reporting back to the Senate in January.

Detailed plans for the inquiry will not be made public until Fletcher has conferred with Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel. The conference, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed because of injuries to the committee chairman in an automobile accident yesterday.

Death Takes Lead As Poll Victor Cries 'I Win'

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—(A.P.)—A note of tragedy was injected into the voting at suburban upper Darby, where, unofficially victorious in his quest for a councilmanic nomination, Robert B. Montgomery, 67, dropped dead as he announced: "I win—."

His unofficial margin of victory was 16 votes.

A physician said heart disease, aggravated by excitement, caused his death.

U. S. GIRL, PEER BREAK TROTH

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—English society received a surprise today when it was formally announced that the engagement was broken of young Lord Burgh, who comes from the ancient nobility, and Miss Elizabeth Rose Vincent, daughter of Arthur Vincent, of San Francisco.

The wedding had been set for October 18. Lord Burgh said "the engagement was broken off by mutual consent," but declined to discuss the matter further.

Lord Burgh, who is 27, went into business as a women's hat designer when he left the army five years ago and gave his first "show" at the American Women's Club in London.

He is the holder of a baronetcy created in 1529. Sir Edward Burgh, the oldest son of the first Lord Burgh, was the first husband of Katherine Parr, whose third husband was Henry VIII.

ROOSEVELT TO HEAR PLEA BY INFLATIONISTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt sent word today he would be glad to receive the southern delegation urging currency inflation but meanwhile he maintained his strict silence as to his views on the subject.

He went to his study in the executive mansion for the first time since his recent cold.

He will be unable to see the delegation of inflationists before tomorrow.

MUM ON STAND

Leaders in the cotton gathering had decided not to insist upon a conference with the President, tentatively agreeing to let a letter stand as their appeal.

The letter, signed by several score delegates late last night, said the situation in the cotton growing states "is desperate" and asked for "immediate effective action to raise the level of the price of cotton and other farm products" through inflation.

Mr. Roosevelt had on his desk today the inflation petition left at the White House yesterday by the southern inflationists. He had no comment on it pending a visit with the group.

An assertion that President Roosevelt gradually was bringing about inflation of the currency, but that "he would not even dare to admit it" was made today by Senator Thomas, (Dem.), Oklahoma, a leader in the inflation movement to increase farm commodity prices. He told newspapermen:

"It is my opinion that President Roosevelt does not want to make a statement on inflation because if he even hinted it commodity prices would jump too fast and too high before the money is distributed among people.

SEES STEADY RISE

"When all these codes are signed up under the NRA and millions of people are returned to work, then the President will be free to openly concede inflation. That time is now approaching rapidly. The cotton and other farmers now harvesting their crops want inflation immediately so they can obtain benefits from it."

Thomas said that "Mr. Roosevelt by a mere statement could increase prices of all commodities within a few minutes, but I think he is trying to bring it about gradually in order to avert anything drastic."

The administration, the Oklahoman said, was bringing about inflation in many ways.

He said it was rumored that the adminstration was seeking to organize a mortgage company to purchase a large quantity of cotton and possibly wheat to be sold to Russia or China on a credit basis.

RULE BOOSTS AID BUDGET

Homes with no employable person will no longer receive aid from state funds, it was announced here today by Wilber F. Maxwell, director of the Welfare Fund, and George P. Mills, executive secretary of the County Relief Board.

The change will necessitate an increase in the Welfare Fund's new budget but no estimate has been made as yet. It will probably show in the future operating cost of the Family Society, the Catholic Charities and the Red Cross, all members of the Welfare Fund, Mills said.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM WEAVER.....65 YEARS MARRIED

Clinton Pair Mark 65th Anniversary

Sixty-five years ago, a couple, both in their teens, hitched the horse to a buggy and started out from Clinton, 20 miles west of Pittsburgh.

William Weaver was a young sawyer, and on the old Weaver farm at Clinton, where his father before him was born, he worked in the mill.

And now they've celebrated. Nearly 50 children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren gathered in the white cottage on the Lincoln highway at Clinton, where the old folks, now past 80, have lived for 50 years. They made whoopee—in an old fashioned way, with reminiscences and such. For it was William and Jane Weaver's sixty-fifth anniversary of their wedding.

As Mr. Weaver said:

"To Pittsburgh was a three-hour drive with a fair horse; or an hour and a quarter to Coraopolis.

"We had the young couples of today beat. We didn't have to have a license. But there were some troubles driving, too, although nothing like the injuries and killings these automobiles make. On the way to our wedding, the buggy threw a tire, and I had to help the blacksmith put it on."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Weaver are glad prohibition is being repealed, saying:

"A certain rough type drank before prohibition and it didn't change them. They drank this mooney after, and it was worse."

Although nearly 85, Mrs. Weaver still keeps house for her husband. She admitted:

'BEST RECIPES' AWARDED $15

Where is there a woman who isn't proud of one or more of her own recipes for the selection, preparation and cooking of good things to eat?

It may be for a special pie, cake or pudding, for a salad or her own recipe for stuffing and roasting a chicken. Perhaps she has some special sauces of her own make, a pet recipe for "pick-me-ups," or she may be proud of some of the salads she makes.

These are the recipes that Prudence Penny is looking for—recipes that tell how to get out of the daily rut, how to give the table a change and how to get the best in the market for the least money. And these are the days when these favorite, proven recipes will be welcomed by the housewives.

The Sun-Telegraph will award $15 every day for the 11 best recipes submitted. There will be one award of $5 and 10 at $1. The awards will be made by a committee of experts on culinary art.

You can submit as many recipes as you wish and they may cover everything you think is good to eat. Many of the prize-winning recipes will be published. Address your entry to Prudence Penny, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., and watch this newspaper for the names of the winners and the publication of the prize-winning recipes.

GEN. ATTERBURY BALKS AT CUT

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—As the highest salaried railroad executive in the United States, Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania, today continued a "hold-out" from the plan of revising salaries of presidents of important railroads downward.

When Joseph B. Eastman began to function as federal co-ordinator of transportation, he asked that reductions be made in executives' salaries "in view of prevailing conditions."

The American Association of Railway executives has notified him that all railroads, with the exception of the Pennsylvania, have agreed to limit salaries of their presidents and other executives to a maximum of $60,000 a year. Atterbury is reported to receive a salary of $109,000 a year.

Just what steps Eastman will take in the event the Pennsylvania does not comply with his request for a reduction in Atterbury's salary were not disclosed today.

VIRGINIAN GETS MOLEY'S POST

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—R. Walton Moore, a former member of the House from Virginia, was named yesterday by President Roosevelt to be Assistant Secretary of State to succeed Raymond Moley.

The new appointee served on the Foreign Affairs Committee in the House during his 11 years' term and was a colleague there of Cordell Hull, the Secretary of State.

While Moley was closely associated with President Roosevelt in the war debt negotiations, there was no certainty that these functions would be included in the duties of Moore.

The President has indicated he would deal personally with the foreign nations on debts that come up for review this fall.

Facts . . .

about McCreery's 29th Anniversary

1 FORESIGHT . . . months ago it became positive that prices would be higher. The foresighted merchant had but one course open: to make commitments early, in order to pass on the consequent saving.

2 WE BOUGHT EARLY. . . very early. We had the specialists who buy for our 68 departments scout the markets for the best values obtainable.

3 WE BOUGHT BIG . . . very big. When most merchants were merely thinking about Fall, we were getting our deliveries of new and fresh merchandise, the choice of the season's style developments.

4 QUALITY. . . we sought it in every piece of merchandise we bought. We got it! Throughout the store you'll find goods of rigidly tested quality. . meeting the usual high McCreery standard.

5 STYLE . . . a process of elimination and the thorough knowledge of style trends on the part of our buyers has resulted in a selection of fashion-right merchandise, absolutely authentic in every detail.

7 NEWNESS . . . just out of their wrappings . . . all the merchandise is new and fresh, displayed for the first time on our well-stocked shelves and tables.

8 SERVICE . . . the usual attentive, courteous McCreery service even despite the tremendous activity we expect in every department. Well-trained, intelligent clerks to facilitate your shopping.

9 NEW EMPLOYEES . . . are eager to take your orders, to show their zeal in your behalf. The magnitude of this event, and our genuine desire to speed prosperity has created employment for scores of Pittsburgh men and women.

10 PROGRESS . . . our 29th Anniversary marks a milestone in the life of Pittsburgh as well as of McCreery's. It implies a steady pace forward, towards fine substantial standards of living. With little vaunting and boasting, McCreery has maintained progress as its keynote . . . by better service for our patrons . . . by modernizing and beautifying our store.

These facts bring out the reason why Pittsburghers await this great event with so much enthusiasm

McCREERY'S 29th ANNIVERSARY

STATE, COUNTY, BOROUGH, AND TOWNSHIP RESULTS

PENNA. CITIES, COUNTIES CAST HEAVY VOTE

Factional battles for party nominations were carried to the polls in almost every populous center in Pennsylvania yesterday as heavy voting was reported throughout the state.

There were many candidates for county and municipal offices in Western Pennsylvania, and intense interest was shown in both the Republican and Democratic primaries—the latter for the most part unprecedented in recent years.

WESTMORELAND COUNTY

Judge William T. Dom, Greensburg, candidate for re-election, and Fred B. Trescher, Jeannette, candidate for District Attorney, both Republicans, simply ran away in their respective races in yesterday's primary election in Westmoreland County.

The Democratic nomination for judge in which great interest was being shown on account of the split in the Democratic party will probably go to J. Hilary Keenan, Greensburg. The vote from 32 precincts being Keenan 1,277 and Dom 1,125.

Alex McConnell, Greensburg attorney, will receive the Republican nomination for Prothonotary, and Arthur E. Ewing, of Latrobe, captures the Republican nomination for Clerk of Courts to succeed himself.

Richard D. Laird will be the Democratic nominee for District Attorney. John H. McKlveen for Prothonotary and Ray Bortz is leading for the Democratic nomination for Clerk of Courts.

BEAVER COUNTY

David D. Boyd received the Republican nomination and Julius McBride the Democratic for prothontary of Beaver County. Early returns gave John C. Cato a 3-to-1 lead over Elmer H. Fisher as Republican nominee for Jury Commissioner with George Shield and Harry U. Kellar carrying few votes.

In the Beaver County municipalities, Daniel Moore, present burgess of Beaver, was leading Robert Stout by 12 votes in the Republican race for burgess. In Beaver Falls, Dennis Mutscheller was leading the present mayor, C. W. Calvin, by 2-to-1 in the Republican mayoralty returns. Eugene I. Newell was nominated City Treasurer and John E. Ewing City Controller on the Republican ticket. H. B. McCray was placed on the Republican ticket for Councilman while present Councilman Harry J. Brotherton and C. C. Criswell were in a close race for the remaining Republican Council nomination.

On the Democratic ticket for burgess of New Brighton, Edward Crombie was leading Perry A. Garrett, and on the Republican ticket, Frank B. Wilson had a lead of 25 votes on Fred Kennedy.

Morgan H. Sohn was renamed for burgess of Aliquippa by the Republicans and J. A. C. Russner will run as tax collector on the Republican ticket.

CRAWFORD COUNTY

With 51 out of 65 districts reported, according to the Associated Press, H. S. Nichols, Meadville, was conceded the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Crawford County. In a nip-and-tuck race for the Republican nomination as jury commissioner, Arthur I. Jenkins, Meadville, held a lead of less than 200 over Frank L. Peters, Saegertown.

Edgar Roudebush, of Blooming Valley, won the uncontested Democratic nomination for Sheriff.

BRADFORD CITY

Mayor Thomas P. Thompson, Jr., seeking re-election in Bradford, won the Republican nomination. Spencer M. De Golier, a former mayor, running on both Republican and Democratic tickets, gained the Democratic nomination.

ELK COUNTY

In Elk County Eugene H. Beard, the present judge, won renomination, being the only candidate on both tickets. Gerald B. Straub, of St. Mary's was nominated for District Attorney on both the Democratic and Republican tickets, and William C. Thomerson was nominated for Jury Commissioner on both tickets.

ERIE CITY COUNTY

Thomas Mehaffey, foe of Mayor James P. Bossler, was nominated on both the Republican and Democratic tickets for the post of finance director in the Erie City Council.

H. Lee Munger, street director and Mehaffey's running mate, captured the Republican nomination for that post but lost the Democratic selection to Stanley Dresser, who had the Mayor's support.

Early returns indicated County Controller Harvey Wills had captured both nominations for that job. Dell Deshne, of Erie, has apparently won the Republican nomination for Sheriff over Dr. Ralph McCord, former Northeast postmaster.

VENANGO COUNTY

Returns in Venago County showed the landslide nomination of Judge Lee A. McCracken for the Republican judgeship nomination over Daniel B. Goodwin and A. R. Osmer. Sixty-three precincts of 76 gave McCracken 9,361, Goodwin 2,130, Osmer 2,082. Garvaise G. Martin, Franklin attorney, with 1,324 in, defeated Nesbit with 951 for the Democratic judgeship nomination.

Other results showed: District Attorney Republican, Maurice P. Breene; Coroner, Dr. John Irwin Zerbe, Franklin; Sheriff, in a field of nine candidates, Herbert L. Beatty, Franklin, former district game protector. Beatty has 4,163 votes to Walter G. Hannas' 2,667 and Harry Moyers' 1,789.

Frampton B. Hall, incumbent Register and Recorder successor to the late Gen. George C. Rickards, attained the Republican nomination by 700 over E. M. Voorhies. Hall's vote was 2,902, Voorhies' 2,203 and Elmer Roeder's 1,927.

In the Democratic race for Register and Recorder Richard Fry, Oil City, led the field with 890 votes in 55 of 76 precints. W. W. Cubbon, Oil City, was second with 507.

WASHINGTON COUNTY

Director of Poor: Bigger 2,175, Devoss 1,509, Hallem 1,025.

For the Republican nomination for judge of Common Pleas, Erwin Cummins was unopposed, as was J. Boyd Crumrine for Orphans Court.

CLARION COUNTY

Harry M. Rimer, organization candidate, was nominated on the Republican ticket for Common Pleas Court Judge in Clarion County on practically complete unofficial returns.

BLAIR COUNTY

JEFFERSON COUNTY

R. E. Reiff, Pinchot appointee, was defeated in a bitter struggle for the Republican nomination for Treasurer of Jefferson County. Returns from 55 of 72 districts gave Reiff 1,412 votes, H. G. Bowers, 3,368. For District Attorney, Robert Morris received 3,311; W. L. Henry, 3,210.

LAWRENCE COUNTY

Edward Pritchard was nominated for Sheriff on the Republican ticket in Lawrence County, returns showed today, but an official count was expected to be necessary to determine the final outcome of the district attorney scrap.

M. L. Alley and J. G. Amore are the prosecutor opponents.

In other contests, Miss Jeannette Hutton, register and recorder, was holding a slight lead for renomination, with the count incomplete, and in New Castle, Joe Alexander and B. F. Butler were named Council candidates and Robert Strickler was leading by a slight margin for City Controller.

ARMSTRONG COUNTY

Forty-two out of 72 districts give:

For District Attorney, Republican, Jones, 5,033; Ashe, 4,083.

BUTLER COUNTY

George Bob Wick, defeated four years ago after term as Mayor of Butler, was nominated on Republican ticket. He defeated George M. Thompson. William J. Klingler was nominated by Democrats.

Judge Thomas W. Watson was nominated to succeed himself. He defeated William B. Purvis, J. Campbell Brandon and Howard I. Painter. Judge Watson was appointed two years ago by Gov. Gifford Pinchot. John H. Wilson, Butler attorney, was nominated by Democrats.

M'KEAN COUNTY

Returns from 44 of 51 districts give District Attorney Charles G. Hubbard 5,067 votes to 4,946 for Judge Joseph W. Bouton in the race for the Republican nomination for McKean County judge.

George Sutton apparently won the County Treasurer nomination. He has a lead of more than 200 over D. F. Repine, his nearest opponent.

J. A. Cleveland was nominated for Clerk of Courts and Lewis McCloskey for Jury Commissioner.

C. F. Feit, Sr., was nominated for Burgess of Kane over former Burgess E. H. Watkins.

KNOWLSON WINS IN MT. LEBANON

Mt. Lebanon complete returns gave the Republican nomination for Treasurer to Thomas R. Knowlson, with 1,374 votes.

Paul F. Kraber obtained the Republican nomination for Auditor with a vote of 1,535.

James W. McKelvie and A. C. Mills were successful School Director candidates, McKelvie with 1,820 votes and Mills 1,388, in a field of four.

For Township Commissioner, Robert K. Boyer defeated Clarence Scheck, 1,068 to 380, in the Fourth Ward fight.

In the Second Ward, Samuel A. Meneilly had 157 votes for the nomination against A. P. Good's 53, and L. D. McCandless' vote of 12.

LEET

H. W. Savage had 46 votes, Christy Von Guten 45, and William Cartwright 23. All were on both tickets.

Adolphus McLuckie and L. F. Bramble were named school directors. Leon Yeakel trailed. All were on both tickets.

KILBUCK

Kilbuck Township's candidates were unopposed. James R. Sprott, Republican nominee, for township supervisor, polled 70 votes. George M. Little received 74 for auditor, and Charles J. Hagan, on both the Republican and Democratic tickets, 72 for tax collector.

ROSS

As candidate for treasurer of Ross Township Oliver Wright was leading in both Republican and Democratic parties by a large majority. In seven out of nine districts the Republicans gave him 1,092 votes to 536 for Walter Holmes; the Democrats 183 votes to 70 votes for George A. Erdmann.

STOWE

Stowe Township complete returns give Louis W. Adams on the Republican ticket 650 votes for justice of the peace. Adams also won the Democratic nomination with 217 votes.

For township treasurer, Joseph D. Sarandria led the Republican ticket with 1,041 votes and the Democratic field with 443.

Carl L. Poznanski carried both Republican and Democratic tickets for controller, with 1,020 on the former and 336 on the latter.

Peter T. Stieski won both Republican and Democratic nominations for school director, with 874 Republican and 480 Democratic votes. W. Frank Kindle also won the Republican nomination for school director, his vote being 982, while Elenore Shea won a place on the Democratic ticket with 324 votes.

HAMPTON

Hampton Township's incomplete returns gave George Wylie the Republican nomination for township supervisor and Edward A. Trautman the Democratic nomination.

Elizabeth L. Harvey received the Republican nomination for tax collector, with Eleanor Ash Cronin successful on the Democratic ticket.

R. Myers Brown was Republican choice for auditor, with Charles J. Lipke Democratic aspirant.

Frank J. Hunter and Elmer G. Grant were Republican selections for school director, while Democratic voters chose Grant and Charles S. McKeen.

SEWICKLEY HEIGHTS

Sewickley Heights Township's complete returns showed William N. Smith nominated for township supervisor on the Republican ticket and Robert S. Sevin on the Democratic ticket.

Harold McK. Grubbs secured the Republican nomination for tax collector; J. C. Neald and Frank Hirtle, school directors and S. W. Brush, auditor.

ELIZABETH TOWNSHIP

Elizabeth Township's final returns showed Paul W. Norton and W. H. Heath the successful Republican candidates for justice of the peace. Norton and J. W. Rankin led the Democratic ticket for the office.

G. A. Lacey, Jr., and David M. Wray headed the Republican ticket for school directors. F. T. Muse secured the Republican nomination for auditor, and Robert McLay, the Republican nomination for treasurer.

NEVILLE

Neville Township's complete returns gave Paul D. Shanks the Republican and Democratic nomination for treasurer, while Cledwyn D. Francis was named nominee on both tickets for auditor. William A. Irvine and Frank W. Pearson were named Republican nominees for school director.

KENNEDY

Albert J. Dockweiler was the selection of Republican and Democratic voters of Kennedy Township for township supervisor at yesterday's primary.

F. J. Grogan and W. B. Zinkhan will be unopposed for justice of the peace, as will Lawrence G. Haubrick for tax collector, and Hubert Nolte for auditor. Charles F. Haag and William J. Ramsey will be unopposed for school director.

BRADDOCK

Other candidates nominated were Justice of the Peace, Theodore Wise Republican, and Andrew S. Kost, Democrat; Treasurer, James E. B. Crosby, Republican, and Joseph L. Rudman and Fred W. Azinger, Democrats, tied for the nomination; Auditor, Michael Kochis, Republican, and Aloysius Trotter, Democrat; School Director, William G. Airhart, unopposed. Bruce Hagill, Republican, and Mary Cunic, Democrat.

HARMAR

Charles F. Hodel, Republican, will be opposed by John B. Huber, Democrat, for township supervisor in Harmar Township, complete returns indicated today.

James W. Anderson and William G. Smeaton won the Republican nomination for justices of the peace while on the Democratic ticket their total vote was a tie. Lawrence C. Armstrong, Republican, will oppose Joseph Mikovich, Democrat, for tax collector; H. W. Field, Republican, by Sadie Lockerman, Democrat, for auditor. W. A. Hamilton, tied with George P. Borland, Republicans, won the nomination for school director. On the Democratic ticket, Borland was also nominated while selection of the second man was a tie between Hamilton and Harry Lenz.

RICHLAND

RESERVE

COUNTY COURT NOMINEES

BENJAMIN LENCHER

Judge Lencher, nominated by Republicans for election to the bench to which he was appointed.

JAMES L. O'TOOLE, JR.

Mr. O'Toole, nominated by Democratic voters for election to the bench of County Court.

FOREST VOTERS TO APPEAL

SELINSGROVE, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Several hundred Civilian Conservation Corps campers, most of them Philadelphians and World War veterans, marched down from their mountain retreat to vote, and, refused, declared they will ask that a new election be held.

Election officials say they believe it is the first test of the "reforestation army" on the members' right to ballot.

The campers registered a week ago, 268 strong, showing a Democratic preponderance of about two to one. Yesterday they tramped to Beaver Springs, in Spring Township, Ammon Smith, judge of elections, refused to hand them ballots.

The campers marched to Middleburg, the Snyder County seat. Francis Gilbert, county solicitor, communicated with George D. Thorn, chief of the State Elections Bureau at Harrisburg, and advised the campers that Thorn ruled they were ineligible to vote since the forest camps are not their permanent residence.

The campers declared that while they have little interest in the local primary, they wish to be qualified for the November general election with its larger issues.

O'Connell Kidnaping Inquiry Holds Four

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Two men and two women were detained for questioning here today in connection with the kidnaping of Lieut. John J. O'Connell in Albany last July and the robbery several months ago of a Rensselaer (N. Y.) bank in which one man was killed.

ROWAND, SMITH, MUSMANNO IN LEAD

almost 34,000 more than the next highest judicial poll, that of Judge Rowand.

The Democrats nominated without apparent difficulty their complete regular slate for their party nominations. Only in the Common Pleas Court race did their appear to be a doubt. Judge Musmanno threatened, from a gradually lessening distance, the third place held, according to present returns, by Andrew G. Smith.

The step-up-gentlemen-and-take-your-choice attitude on the judgeships left local leaders a choice in the Republican battle. And the varied tastes indicated that Judges Ralph Smith and Musmanno might eventually have a neck-and-neck race for the lead.

Strong organization support carried Smith, Rowand and Coleman in many of the strongholds, but in others, such as the Second, Third and Fourth Wards, Lindsay got help, as did Evans. Both were behind the leaders.

SMITH AIDED

The complicated contest, with only Rowand and Coleman definitely supported by the regular organization, helped Smith most. He appeared strong in both city and county districts.

Musmanno kept up a fairly even tenor.

Early reports had Candidate Lane, for Juvenile Court, far in the lead, but Schramm was narrowing the distance between them. Schramm had no difficulty getting the Democratic nomination.

Most intricate to determine, unless it was the help of District Attorney Andrew T. Park, was Smith's popularity in certain wards and districts where, as candidate against Park several years ago, Smith was hopelessly second. A reconciliation was effected several months ago between the two. Smith gleaned 114 votes in Senator James J. Coyne's home district—which indicates he was little neglected, if at all.

Coleman showed strength in the organization districts, but there were some exceptions. McKees Rocks' first district gave him 22 votes, and Rowand nearly 10 times as many.

CITY VOTE LIGHT

Lindsay's city vote was light, but with returns from the country, he began to reach out for a place in the sun.

As for the Democrats, those obviously nominated for the Common Pleas and other offices ran consistently together—far ahead of the rest of the pack. Republicans or those seeking both major party nominations had little chance, Musmanno being the exception.

Lencher and Piekarski, who ran far ahead in the Republican primary, dropped in the Democratic. James L. O'Toole, Jr., led the Democrats for the County Court, with Austin L. Staley far ahead of his nearest competitor, but somewhat behind O'Toole. The ratio was consistently 3 to 1 for the Democrats.

Probably a record breaker was the seventeenth district of the Fifth Ward, where David Roberts, Hill district politician, is influential. It showed on unofficial returns, three goose eggs in the Common Pleas judge column, one for Raymond B. Evans, one for Alexander P. Lindsay, and one for John J. Haggerty. And M. A. Musmanno got there his lowest vote, just 10. The favored candidates were successively 94, 113 and 291.

Burns Likely Mayor Of New Kensington

NEW KENSINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Daniel Burns appears likely to become the first mayor of New Kensington, which assumes the rank of third class city January 1.

Burns, burgess for two decades, won the Republican nomination. Democrats nominated Dr. D. O. Thomas in an election marked by two fist fights and one arrest.

REGULARS WIN ALDERMANIC NOMINATIONS

Regular Republican candidates for alderman appeared to be almost certain of victory on the basis of returns far from complete early today.

Alderman Charles Burke lost to Clarence Clagett for the Republican nomination in the Seventh Ward, 668 to 1,131. One district was missing.

In the Ninth Ward, Frank T. Halloran, present alderman and organization candidate, had a lead of more than 1600 votes over John L. Houlihan in 10 of the 12 districts in the ward. The vote was Halloran, 3,115; Houlihan, 1,455.

LOWRY RENOMINATED

The renomination of Harvey A. Lowry in the Eleventh Ward was indicated on the basis of returns from twelve of the eighteen districts. The vote was Lowry, 2,097, Harry E. Sherrer, 1,210.

A lead of 500 assured Clemons J. Gross the nomination in the Sixteenth Ward. Maurice McCann ran second.

GOLDSTEIN WINS

With one district missing in the Fourteenth Ward, Alderman Sol Goldstein, Republican, was renominated. There were 12 candidates and the vote for the four leaders was Goldstein, 2,020; James J. Laffey, 1,083; H. C. Cohn, 429, and William B. Stussle, 60.

Alderman Sam Abernathey was renominated over John A. Nuttridge in the Twenty-Second Ward with a clearance of more than 1,000 votes.

HEADLEY DEFEATED

Opposed by the organization, Alderman A. W. Headley, of the Twenty-fifth Ward, was defeated for the Republican nomination by Robert W. Helfrey, the organization candidate.

HENNING IN LEAD

VARE WINNER IN PHILA.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Turning back the opposition of Gov. Pinchot and other independents, the William S. Vare-supported candidates for City Hall "row-offices," on the basis of incomplete returns, triumphed in the Republican end of the primary election.

But the Pinchot elements were not to be denied completely. Linked with Al Smith and other factions, this same Pinchot group, on the face of yesterday's unofficial results, won all the row office nominations sponsored on the Democratic ticket.

Because of the unusually large Democratic registration and the medium-sized Independent vote polled against the regular Republican organization candidates, the Democratic nominations were not considered empty honors this year by political observers.

908-910 PENN AVE.-PITTSBURGH

CITY MISSES USUAL VOTE VIOLENCE

The wordy turbulence of Pittsburgh's most hectic primary had subsided today with the usual aftermath of violence strangely missing.

Nerves, frazzled by all-night vigils and hectic stumping of the last few days of the campaign, early this morning, however, produced the first of a probable series of petty disputes between candidates and election officials.

County Court Judge M. A. Musmanno, apparent winner of a Republican nomination to Common Pleas Court, was prepared to demand court permission to see the Bureau of Elections' tally sheets.

The request would follow a row in which Ray C. Dever, chief custodian of the bureau, refused them to him.

Musmanno complained that the tally sheets are open to public inspection by law. Dever, however, said that the extreme confusion in his office made it impossible to exhibit them, although he would be glad to do so as soon as things quieted down.

Less than a score of inconsequential court cases were left to mark the day's passing. Of the riots, shootings, stabbings of other years there were none.

Reports of coercion, trickery and intimidation poured in all day to election authorities. In most instances stealth replaced force and left little for the city, state or county police to act upon.

17 ARRESTS

There were 17 arrests, none the result of anything more sanguine than a fist fight. A dozen were for irregularities, most of them by election officials.

In Common Pleas Court, Judges James H. Gray and Ambrose B. Reid sat all day to hear complaints. Their work was complicated by the failure of election officials and voters to use voting machines properly, but they heard few pleas attributable to other causes.

William Rooker, captain of county police, reported last night that his 36 men had received a hundred complaints during the day. None was of a serious nature, he said.

Judge Gray held Frank Bennetz, judge of elections in the Fourth District of the Ninth Ward for a hearing Friday at 1 p. m., for violation of the election laws, after Bennetz had been hailed before him twice.

The first time Barbara Novesel, a watcher, complained that Bennetz was permitting city payrollers to instruct voters. On Bennetz's second appearance Overseer Thomas Johnson informed the court that Bennetz had allowed four persons to vote, although Johnson swore they did not live at the address given by them.

JUDGE FINED

Mike Regret, judge in the First District of the Second Ward, North Braddock, was fined $25 by Judge Gray because he refused to recognize the appointment of Harry E. Gibbons as overseer.

Attorneys John R. Frankel, A. M. Oliver and Ben Steinberg appeared before Judge Gray and asked that two county detectives be assigned to guard ballot boxes after they were brought in. Judge Gray made no order, but District Attorney Andrew T. Park promised the guard.

SLEUTH KEPT IDLE

So many police were scattered over the city on political errands that only one decetive, John Dean, was left at headquarters. He had nothing to do.

In the Seventh District of the Fifteenth Ward, Detective John Barrett arrested two men. William J. Guiney, 32, of 4204 Stanley street, a watcher for Judge Ralph H. Smith, he charged with inciting riot. The other, David E. Jones, 63, of 411 Kearcher street, a watcher for Lois McBride, was charged with interfering with an officer.

Earlier in the day Barrett arrested his brother, James, 34, of 408 Kearcher street, and Earl Grant, 37, of 445 Kearcher street, at the same polling place. They were charged with disorderly conduct.

In the Eighth District of the Nineteenth Ward, Joseph Petrolia, judge of elections; Adam Martin, Calvin Tresse and City Fireman Anthony Petrone were accused of violating the election laws by P. J. McArdle, Jr., son of the Independent mayoralty candidate.

They were released on their own recognizance by Judge Ambrose B. Reid, who set their hearing for September 26.

HERRON WINS; SLATE BROKEN BY MAGEE

English, 44,632; Duggan, 42,722; Little, 41,680; Magee, 41,910; Oliver, 40,400; Connelley, 39,989; Malone, 34,038; Tabor, 23,467; McKnight, 21,118; Stack, 15,046; Wolff, 13,405; Hough, 10,541; McNutt, 11,816; Waddell, 23,508; Wechsler, 8,946.

McNair carried through his councilmanic slate consisting of John J. Kane, Thomas J. Gallagher, Walter R. Demmler, George E. Evans and Thomas M. Huston. The efforts of Magee and James F. Malone to win Democratic nominations were frustrated by the solidarity of the McNair organization.

From the very first district Herron began to roll up a majority over his two opponents which on the final figures may be 10,000 more than the combined totals of Mackrell and McArdle.

CONTROLLED WARDS

The controlled organization wards gave the Mayor a huge vote, the Second especially, where the voting machines worked perfectly all day, snowing under the other two contenders. In independent wards as well, however, Herron continued to mass the vote. Herron councilmanic candidates ran level with him in the Second, but the story was not the same in all organization wards, and in some of these Magee made inroads.

In the Second, Herron beat Mackrell by 1,800 votes, and had a lead of 1,700 over the combined total of his foes. The Fifth was another where the Mayor ran strong, with almost 2 to 1 over Mackrell and McArdle combined.

He had as great a margin in the Sixth and rolled up a 4-to-1 majority in the Third. The story was the same wherever the organization held sway.

In the Seventh, which had been counted on as a Mackrell stronghold, the Register of Wills finished third, Herron carrying the ward with McArdle second. The Tenth Ward was another where the Mayor had a majority in the field of three.

BANNER STRONGHOLD

The Second was probably the banner organization stronghold, from a majority standpoint. Herron had 1,860; McArdle, 96, and Mackrell, 63.

In the Mayor's own district, the First of the Thirteenth Ward, he had 377 to 45 for McArdle and 40 for Mackrell. This ward, generally regarded as independent, gave Herron a total of 3,233; Mackrell, 1,100, and McArdle, 576.

The Fourth Ward, home of Senator James J. Coyne, of course, gave Herron a big lead, and the story was the same in all parts of the city.

Herron carried the Fourteenth Ward, which was an independent stronghold in the three-cornered mayoralty fight four years ago. In this ward he had 2,975 to 2,701 for McArdle and 1,795 for Mackrell.

McNair's victory over Henry was even more pronounced. The margin for the mayoralty candidate backed by County Chairman David L. Lawrence and Joseph F. Guffey ran from five to 10 to one in wards throughout the city. Democrats were counting on their substantial vote for the victory, together with the fact that apparently 30,000 Republicans stayed away from the polls yesterday, as a backlog for their November vote.

GROUP DISAPPOINTED

Independents were disappointed at the showing made by their councilmanic slate. Magee was indorsed by the Citizens League, which backed McArdle, but he had support in the Mackrell camp and in many organization districts.

Robert Waddell and Edward O. Tabor, on whom the independents had concentrated their strength, ran thousands of votes behind, with Waddell slightly in front of Tabor. Charles Wolff and Howard B. McNutt, the other two independent candidates, never were in the running. The Mackrell councilmanic slate also lagged, its leader being James F. Malone.

Confusion over the use of voting machines slowed up the voting, and thousands of voters were deprived of the right to ballot. In some districts both machines and paper ballots were employed, and this separated form of voting held up the tabulation by the election boards.

Homestead Keeps Cavanaugh; Wilkinsburg for Rhodes

Homestead's burgess fight appeared to be a 2 to 1 victory for Burgess J. J. Cavanaugh on the basis of incomplete returns today. The contest was heated and a large vote was cast.

Cavanaugh was opposed by Julius Hamrock, but the expected opposition dwindled during the early morning hours, the incumbent in the contested office defeating Hamrock in his own, the Third Ward, 318 to 310.

WILKINSBURG

Acting Burgess William Rhodes, of Wilkinsburg, received the Republican nomination for Burgess there, complete returns show, leading his nearest opponent, William P. Yocum, former commander of the David I. Rankin Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, by 120 votes.

Yocum, running on both tickets, secured the nomination on the Democratic ticket, leading his nearest competitor by more than 400.

The results culminated a nip-and-tuck election which was precipitated by a "blue law war."

Rhodes, on complaint of the Wilkinsburg Ministerial Association, threatened members of the veterans' post with arrest if they presented a Sunday night "relief" movie in violation of a borough ordinance.

As a result of Rhodes' action, Yocum entered the fight for Burgess.

Herbert Patterson held a commanding lead over a field of three aspirants for Councilman of the First Ward. Councilmen William Findley and James Steele were renominated.

FOREST HILLS

Forest Hills complete returns gave both the Republican and Democratic nomination for Burgess to Oscar A. Winnenberg.

Harry E. Waltz, running on both tickets, was unopposed as an aspirant to the auditor's office.

H. E. Heldeman was the successful Republican tax collector candidate, while Charles B. McIntyre won the Democratic nomination.

John W. Funk and Joy B. Wolf were successful candidates on both tickets for the school directorates.

A. L. Koch, E. F. Lowry, L. H. Wilcox and Robert N. Critchlow were successful Republican candidates for Council.

Clarence L. Boyd, James J. Kennedy, J. J. Boyle and M. G. Thompson were nominated on the Democratic ticket for Council.

MUNHALL

David Dixon and Thomas Bryan were apparent choices for nomination to school directorates.

DORMONT

Dormont Republicans nominated Charles Chamberlin for Burgess by a vote of almost two to one over his nearest rival. Other Republican candidates nominated were: Council, Earl Llewellyn, J. VOTE MACHINE INVESTIGATION PLEDGED election officials, pedestrians and policemen.

Confusion prevalent in the morning was carried to a happier ending in the late afternoon and evening as Common Pleas Court judges provided paper ballots and as mechanics repaired the machines.

And after the shouting was over, the inspector of voting machines in State Senator James J. Coyne's district — the Twelfth of the Fourth Ward—reported:

"The machines gave us no trouble at all. Jimmy Coyne told me himself that he thought they were fine."

FRANK SUSPICIOUS

County officials on the whole seemed to lean more and more toward the theory that incompetent election boards in the various election districts jammed the machines—mainly through ignorance instead of malice.

Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank, however, held to another theory — presumably one that premeditated sabotage had been practiced.

This hunch of Frank's was due largely to his possession of a mimeographed copy of a petition to court for a writ of mandamus requiring Bureau of Election officials to distribute ballots to replace decommissioned voting machines.

TOO MUCH FORESIGHT

Frank, seeming to think the petitions showed a little more than human foresight, said:

"The speed with which the filing of petitions followed news of the machines' failure to function is astonishing — and significant.

"I have one of the petitions which was presented and there is no question that it is a mimeographed product.

"It is my opinion that the petitions were probably drawn up Monday with the ward and district left blank. Those petitions were mimeographed facts —mimeographed before they were facts."

REES BLAMES IGNORANCE

But from the Bureau of Elections, directed by Maj. William T. Rees, came word that few definite signs of malicious tampering were found, and that 95 per cent of the trouble was due to the ignorance of the minor election officials in the districts.

Rees' opinion—so far as he had any—was:

"Until I make a thorough examination of the reports of the repairmen, I cannot determine whether the failure of the machines to function was due to sabotage, to improper training of the inspectors or to neglect on their part."

Rees also said some election officials, paid $5 for their time and trouble in learning the intricacies of the devices, had stood around in the corridors of the Court House while the instructions were being delivered, paying little or no attention to the le:tions.

Rees did charge, however, that there's a concerted move in some districts to confuse the elections bureau and destroy confidence in voting machines. Some districts made a point of having several persons call him with insignificant complaints at every opportunity, he said. He referred to one district in the Eleventh Ward where he received seven requests for ballots last evening following the breakdown of a machine.

"My men, some 50 mechanics, have answered about 70 calls.

"Three of those machines were, I believe, deliberately damaged and their may be a few more. But I can't tell for s- e until I talk to all my men.

MANY VOTERS SLOW

"It was ignorance of the election officials that caused almost all the trouble. They were inadequately trained. Neither voters nor election officials were properly versed in operations of the machines."

Lauer pointed to the First District of the First Ward, with a polling place in the City-County Building's basement, charging that it was one of three places where machines had been sabotaged.

There mechanics had to call three times to make minor adjustments before officials stopped complaining about the machines. In one case there, a screw had been removed from the device.

The story was the same throughout the city during the morning hours. The voting in district after district, in ward after ward, was crippled by breakdown of the machines—attributed to election officials' mistakes in putting them in operation.

An order was issued shortly thereafter and ballots were released to the polling places.

POLICE CARRY ORDERS

But before the court order could be delivered to election officials, more trouble was generated as city policemen according to Maj. Rees—appeared magically at the polling places with their own copies of the court orders, without the official seal, of course.

But whereas the court order specifically stated that the ballots were not to displace voting machines that functioned satisfactorily, these policemen, Rees asserted, told election boards that only ballots could be counted from that time on.

Asked if he was going to protest, Rees said:

"No. But I might, later."

CHARGE DUAL VOTES

Then followed a series of disputes wherein election board officials insisted on using ballots only, and, in one instance, are said to have permitted voting by machine and ballot by the same persons.

While that was being cleared up, a councilmanic candidate, Edward O. Tabor, went before Judges Gray, Reid and George V. Moore to ask them to verify a court order of last February requiring all ballot boxes and voting machines be taken to the Bureau of Elections as soon as the count was completed. The judges consented.

HEARS OF VIOLENCE

Tabor said he asked for reaffirmation of the order lest there be some loophole in the earlier decree or lest it be utterly ignored. He said:

"Our reports are that there have been various sluggings in the neighborhood of election boards throughout the city.

"As a matter of precaution and duty as a candidate and a private individual I think it is my duty to ask for the impounding of these boxes at the end of the count."

Attorney Edward G. Coll, acting for the Herron-Coyne forces, took exception to Tabor's request, demanding that Tabor "name the sluggings."

FRANK SEES PLOT

Tabor said the Citizens' League has a list of them but that he was unable at the time to produce it. The order was granted.

At the same hearing, Frank told the court:

"There is an organized effort to misconstrue the court's order about ballots and persuade voters to use them. The municipal police circulated the court's orders before the County Commissioners did."

The machines and ballot boxes were brought to Rees' office in the new County Building as fast as the count was completed in the districts, so far as could be learned.

Trouble in individual districts included failure of one of two machines in the Fifth District of the Nineteenth Ward to print the vote cast through its switches. The district is the home district of Chairman C. C. McGovern of the County Commission.

NOMINATED FOR SHERIFF

FRANK I. GOLLMAR
Sheriff Gollmar, the Republican incumbent, today nominated for re-election as Sheriff.

JOHN HEINZ

GOLLMAR LEADS SHERIFF RACE

Republican Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar and Democrat John Heinz will in all probability be chief contestants for the sheriff's office in the November election. Early returns in the primaries indicated they had far outdistanced their opponents.

Gollmar held second place in the Democratic primary where he also is listed.

The much discussed soldier vote failed to materialize for Robert K. failed to save Robert K. Cochrane, Jr., running second in the Republican and third in the Democratic contest, despite his indorsement by the American Veterans' Association, as well as the Citizens' League and forces supporting Joseph N. Mackrell.

Candidates Swap Parties, Both Win

MEADVILLE, Pa., Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Lawrence W. Koessling and Henry D. Veith swapped party affiliations in their contest for the office of city controller yesterday.

Koessling, normally identified as a Democrat, won the Republican nomination with 874 votes, 11 more than the total gained by Veith. Veith, a Republican, retaliated in polling 323 votes on the Democratic ticket to lead Koessling by six.

Brewery Heir Fights Suit by Follies Girls

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(INS.)—A motion asking for a bill of particulars as to the exact injuries and expenses claimed by two former Ziegfeld beauties who are demanding $500,000 damages from Louis J. Ehret, Jr., scion of brewery millions, and his mother, Mrs. Madeline Ehret, was pending in Supreme Court today.

The motion was aimed at Eileen Wenzel and Vera McDermott, injured in a Central Park automobile acident when they were driven home by Ehret after a party, on June 19, 1932.

Democratic Mule Celebrates, Lands In Lockup

While the elephant patiently awaited complete results of yesterday's primary, the mule started out to celebrate. And as the case with most premature celebrations, it ended abruptly in jail.

George Brown, chief life guard at the Mt. Lebanon swimming pool, found him wandering aimlessly in Cochran road. Knowing the political status of the mule at that particular hour, he decided all wasn't well and as the animal couldn't give an account of his movements, steered him to the Mt. Lebanon Police Station.

ENJOY THIS WELCH WAY TO REDUCE

Noted food authorities have now worked out the ideal way to reduce—and the beautiful thing about their plan is that all the time you are losing weight you are actually gaining new-found health and energy.

This delightful new method takes advantage of the amazing health-properties in Welch's Certified-Pure, Pasteurized Grape Juice, a product long recommended by physicians the world over. They insist that Welch's belongs on every reducing diet, because its non-fattening grape sugar forces the body to burn up its fat . . . at the same time satisfying that craving for sweets and rich, fattening foods.

Welch's contains minerals vital to one's health. It helps make red blood. It contains more Vitamin B than orange juice. It cleanses the entire system. People everywhere report that after following the Welch way to weight reduction they feel more vigorous and alert than they had felt in years.

Start today. Drink a glass of Welch's with and betwen low-calory meals, and before retiring. Welch's may be diluted with one-third water. Continue—and experience the wonderful difference.

Send for booklet, "Keeping Your Weight Down," yours free for the asking.

If You Have Children

Welch has published another booklet, called "Red-Blooded Children." It describes a wonderful method of building up run-down youngsters. If you will send your name and address to The Welch Grape Juice Co., Dept. 1624, Westfield, N. Y., you will receive either or both of these booklets FREE.

IMPORTANT: Insist on Welch's. It is the exclusive Welch Process that retains in the bottled juice the healthful properties of ripe grapes so essential to the system. Only Welch's is Certified Pure and Pasteurized. It contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no water, and above all, no tartaric acid crystals. It is selling at the lowest price in 35 years, and is even cheaper by the case. Send for free booklet TODAY.

LEIPZIG UNDER GUARD AS RED TRIAL NEARS

International News Service.

LEIPZIG, Germany, Sept. 20.—Public safety measures without a parallel in recent history were taken today to prevent disorders when the Supreme Court of Germany assembles Thursday to try five alleged Communists for the fire which gutted the Reichstag building in Berlin last February.

For the past two days, no airplanes have flown over Leipzig, and none will be permitted to cross the city until October 7, at which time the Reich's most sensational trial is expected to have been concluded.

All newspapermen and all visitors—even diplomats—will be searched for arms before they are admitted to the courtroom. A limited number of cameramen will be permitted to attend, but their cameras will be closely inspected.

The five defendants who will be brought before the supreme tribunal of the Reich are charged with "high treason and other crimes"—the burning of the Reichstag being among them. When they are led from their cells into the courtroom, police and Nazi storm troopers will surround them on every side.

The defendants are Marinus van der Luebbe, alleged Dutch Communist; Ernst Torgler, formerly Communist floor leader in the Reichstag, and Georgi Dimitroff, Blagoi Popoff and Wassil Teneff, Bulgarian political refugees linked by police with the bombing of the Sveti Kral Cathedral in Sovia in 1925, which took a toll of 200 lives.

Note on Pink Chemise Interrupts Fire Probe

International News Service.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—The meeting of the unofficial international committee investigating the origin of the German Reichstag fire last February was dramatically interrupted today when an unidentified man entered the room and handed the committee a small piece of a pink silk chemise.

The piece of silk had been smuggled from Germany and bore a penciled message from imprisoned Communist comrades of Ernst Torgler, former Communist leader in the Reichstag and one of the five men who go on trial at Leipzig, Germany, tomorrow, charged with causing the Reichstag blaze. It read:

"We are grateful for your heroic work. They are planning to slaughter us all but the revolution will live. Down with the Social Democratic traitors! Long live the revolution!"

BUY IN SEPTEMBER AND BUY AMERICAN

"How do you like my NRA Hat?"

★

This is the eleventh illustrated editorial—of a series now appearing in the Hearst Newspapers—on the importance of the Buy Now movement as a contribution to National Recovery.

★

By spending wisely now . . . she's right in style . . . and helping speed up Recovery

WHEN MRS. AMERICA DECIDES her old hat won't do a second season . . . something is bound to happen! And when you multiply this incident by millions of women . . then you are looking at the National Recovery Program at work.

Boiled down to the President's own expression, the essence of this program is simply . . . "ACTION NOW!"

Yes, something has happened in America. If you could sit in the cockpit of a fast plane and fly over the new industrial South—the steel mills in Pittsburgh—the teeming agriculture of the West—you'd get a thrilling picture of Recovery.

Men are at work again! Industry has picked up its tools. Farmers are back behind their plows. America is going places.

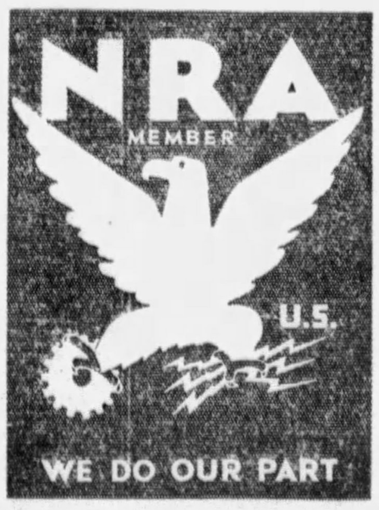
On July 24th, when the President made his appeal to American Industry, he started the wheels in motion.

He asked every employer in the country to join in this movement to speed the return of normal business volume. He asked them to raise wages, shorten hours — and thus put unemployed people back to work.

His second step was an appeal to American merchants. The big department store as well as the grocer and the drug store on the corner. All were asked to help. And they came into line. Signed their codes. The "Blue Eagle" appeared in thousands of windows. Your merchants did their part gladly.

NOW the next move of this broad program is up to the people! Will you do your part to keep these wheels of recovery running smoothly?

You must start to buy—and remember, every purchase HELPS. A loaf of bread, a new radio, a new car bought from a dealer helps to give people JOBS they deserve.



Do you realize what your purchases mean to this country? The few pennies you spend for the most trifling articles . . . have the power to put men back to work.

That is why your participation — your buying — is so vital and important right now in the President's Recovery Program.

It is everyone's responsibility. Everyone who has a job. We are the ones who must shoulder most of this burden.

We need a new mental attitude. We've got to quit "scrimping" and over-saving. No one is asking us to be extravagant. But we must spend our money to buy the things we need TODAY.

Spend sensibly—live up to your standard. Buy once more in keeping with your income. Do that and you will have done your share in leading this march toward better times.

Pawnbroker Defiant When Durant Takes Girl's Ring to Him

CHAPTER XII.

"Let bewilderment lead you into no bedroom," grinned Durant. "So will you avoid juries and judges and all the horrors of divorce proceedings. And now, what about a cup of coffee?"

The valet stared at his master. "You mean two cups of coffee, don't you, sir?"

Embarrassment had left his manner now. His voice was flat and accusatory. Durant smiled at him.

"I remember that when I took Tony Gazotti's case you stepped out of character, Layton. You told me not to jeopardize my career by taking a case where the evidence was so overwhelmingly against my client. You were not alone in that attitude. Everyone felt as you did. And everyone would feel, looking at the present evidence, exactly as you feel now. But, remember Gazotti."

"Yes, sir," said Layton quickly, "I'm sorry, sir. I might have known, you being what you are, that——"

Again Durant shook a finger at him. "Too hasty, Layton. You lack the judicial mind, the impartial openness of one who seeks the truth. You sway too quickly. You think you know the kind of man I am. I assure you, Layton, that I haven't the faintest idea of what I am. So your idea must be even dimmer. You may incorporate this little paragraph into your sometime memoirs of my career. And now, will you serve breakfast for two on the porch?"

He sat a moment after Layton had vanished in the direction of the kitchen, pondering the question which he had raised himself. What kind of man was he? Only last night he had been stricken twice to the heart, once because Sue Leonard was in danger and once again because she drove him from her presence. And yet, a few hours later, he had found gayety in the companionship of Gertie Waxted. Was it possible that he, who had always held himself fastidiously aloof from the more intimate delights of Broadway, had at last found that those delights might be well worth while?

A Thoughtful Girl

He shrugged his shoulders, tied the cord of the dressing gown around him and walked to the bedroom door. He knocked gently and a gay voice bade him enter. He opened the door and beheld a vision more charming than he had dared to hope for. She was sitting up in bed, propped by pillows, whose whiteness made her hair more raven. The makeup which he had thought a trifle too pronounced last night was absent now, save for a touch of rouge upon her lips. But her cheeks were rosy as a child's, as though freshly scrubbed, and her eyes, lacking that black below them, were bright and round. She wore a pair of his pajamas and the throat, which was exposed, was quite the loveliest Durant had ever seen.

"I thought you'd never wake up," she complained with a smile. "Six times I've peeked through that door and you

Synopsis

Jackson Durant, young lawyer, has alienated his society friends and lost his fiancee, Sue Leonard, because of his success as the "mouthpiece" who won the acquittal of the notorious Tony Gazotti. Miss Leonard then becomes engaged to Tom Siddall, youthful broker. Shortly afterwards Siddall is arrested, charged with the murder of Mimi Montagne, who was shot dead on the terrace of a penthouse owned by Jim Crelliman. Sue begs Durant to get busy in Siddall's behalf. Durant believes the broker is innocent and secures the aid of Gazotti, who introduces him to Gertie Waxted, closest friend of the murdered entertainer. The lawyer takes Gertie to his apartment for questioning. His valet, Layton, is bewildered by the strange situation . . .

'PROSPERITY' SONG ON AIR

Poets and musicians put their heads together and decided the Sun-Telegraph's "Spend in September" move should have its own theme song.

Result: Happy Felton and his orchestra are playing "Prosperity" on their noon Urban Room radio broadcasts over station KDKA every day this week.

Harry Mathews, 722 Anderson street, New Kensington, wrote the song, and Felton, who attended Bellevue High School before becoming a nationally known orchestra conductor, offered to put it on the air.

The choruses give this advice:

"The NRA needs you and you, to spend a dollar and make a job.

"The NRA needs you and you, in September buy American.

"It's up to you to see this thing through, put your shoulder to the wheel."

Vilma Banky Asks Bank Accounting

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Vilma Banky, film actress, filed suit yesterday in Superior Court against the Bank of America National Trust and Savings Association asking an accounting of certificates and cash placed in trust by her and claiming losses of $150,000.

The actress charged substitution of unsecured notes and purchases of alleged worthless stock with her money. She claimed also she had lost approximately $60,000 through mismanagement of her account.

Two Parties' Winners for Common Pleas Court Bench Nominations

M. A. MUSMANNO

Judge Musmanno, County court, candidate for Democratic and Republican nominations for the Common Pleas court bench.

RALPH H. SMITH

HARRY H. ROWAND

A. MARSHALL THOMPSON

JOHN J. KENNEDY

Mr. Kennedy, today certain of Democratic nomination for the Common Pleas Court bench.

STOUT SHIFTED TO DETROIT

C. O. Stout, assistant investigator in charge of the federal prohibition enforcement unit, yesterday received notice from Washington of his transfer to Detroit, where he will serve in the same capacity.

Until the recent merger of several investigating units in the Department of Justice, Stout was agent in charge of special investigators for the Prohibition Department, which operated independently of the district enforcement unit.

J. M. Moss transferred from Philadelphia to take the place of Robert S. Krause as investigator in charge of the Pittsburgh Prohibition office, is expected to assume charge this week. Krause was transferred to Oklahoma City as investigator in charge. Col. J. L. Reese, acting assistant investigator in charge at Detroit, replaces Stout here.

Ex-Football Star Wins in Harrisburg

HARRISBURG, Sept. 20—(AP.)—In one of their few victories in yesterday's primary, Pinchot Republicans succeeded in nominating J. Calvin Frank, former Penn State football star, for Harrisburg City Council.

Complete unofficial returns gave Frank a margin of 470 votes over Councilman Herman A. Earley, backed by the Republican organization for renomination.

ACID THROWER SENTENCED

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—A woman's plea for mercy for a former husband who seared her face with acid, failed to save him yesterday from a penitentiary sentence.

Common Pleas Judge Samuel Silbert ordered the husband, John J. Vay, to the penitentiary for a one to 10 years' sentence pronounced for the acid-throwing in 1928.

Vay, who jumped a $10,000 appeal bond here when sentenced, was returned recently from Dallas, Tex., where he had been arrested on a charge of impersonating an army officer.

Before Judge Silvert several days ago, the couple pleaded they had been remarried since their 1928 separation. Mrs. Vay pleaded for dismissal of the sentence for the sake of their two children, and even confessed in court an incident with "another man," claiming it justified her husband's act in hurling the acid.

But today Judge Silbert disclosed the couple's "remarriage" was to persons other than themselves, and announced that "Vay needs punishment."

QUIVERING NERVES

Monessen Rivals On Two Tickets, Both Win

MONESSEN, Pa., Sept. 20.—James Gold and Carl Woodward, rival mayoralty candidates in the primary election—both ran on the Republican and Democratic tickets—will be rivals in the general election on the basis on incomplete returns today.

Gold won over Woodward for the Democratic nomination by a vote of 2,080 to 758, while on the Republican ticket Woodward was returned the winner by a vote of 1,223 to 1,168.

Judge Dies After Choking on Bone

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Judge A. Stanford Lyon, of the County Criminal Court, died in a hospital here yesterday after an operation to remove a sliver of steak bone that had lodged in his throat at dinner.

HELD IN SLAYING OF AGED PAIR

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Thomas Earnest Smith, 36-year-old Knox (Pa.) farmhand, is in County Jail charged with slaying Albert Biegert, 72, and his sister, Hannah, 75, on their farm August 4.

Police say he has confessed and that his motive was robbery, although he found little of value on the Biegert farm.

A woman and a half-breed Indian also are held on Smith's story that they negotiated with him to kill the woman's husband for $500. They said they "kidded" Smith about the alleged proposed killing but claimed they were only jesting.

According to police, Smith told them he attacked Miss Biegert with a hammer and then killed her brother with a pitchfork.

INSURANCE FAKE HOLDS 6 MORE

Six more persons were held for court action today in Central Police Court by Magistrate Leo Rothenburg on charges of conspiracy to cheat and defraud in connection with an alleged fake auto insurance ring.

The informations, involving an alleged fake accident in Windsor street, August 18, were made by the Ocean Accident Insurance Company and the National Life and Accident Company.

Those held were James Polatino, 4686 Lorrigan street; Joseph Ricco, 808 Greenfield avenue; Giovanni Ruggerio, 342 Formard avenue; Sebastian Oliveri, 3800 Frazer street; Leger DeGurin, 5872 Shady-Forbes terrace, and Joseph Murphy, 3748 Frazer street.

Ruggerio, Samuel Consigilo, 1014 Maple way, and Rapheal Cyrone, of 3823 Bates street were to be arraigned on similar charges today before Alderman Thomas Jones involving an accident last December in Middle road, Shaler Township.

DODGE VALUES ASTONISH LOW PRICE TRUCK BUYERS

"How Can They Include Such Costly Features..yet Sell With the Lowest?" Thousands Ask..

4 MAIN BEARINGS... THAT COSTS DODGE MONEY, I KNOW
VALVE SEAT INSERTS... THEY COST REAL MONEY, TOO
FULL PRESSURE LUBRICATION... THAT'S EXPENSIVE

Compare DODGE Advantages WITH ANY OTHER LOW-PRICED TRUCK

- VALVE SEAT INSERTS—no valve grinding expense for at least 30,000 miles.
- 4 MAIN BEARINGS—less engine vibration—less wear.
- 4 PISTON RINGS—seal power, save gas.
- FULL PRESSURE LUBRICATION—bearings last longer.
- OIL FILTER—saves oil.
- FULL FLOATING REAR AXLE—strongest known construction.
- HYDRAULIC BRAKES—stay equalized, reduce tire wear.

1½-TON CHASSIS AND CAB 6 CYL. 131" W.B. . . . $580, CHASSIS 6 CYL. 131" W.B. $490 · · · 2-TON CHASSIS 6 CYL. 136" W.B. $795

Yes, Dodge Trucks are now priced right down with the very lowest. But that's where the similarity ends. In ruggedness . . . in long life . . . and low operating costs, Dodge is alone. Head and shoulders, the outstanding buy.

Dodge has over two dozen features that cost real money to include. They're there because they make the truck better—save operating costs and repair bills. Everybody knows that 4 main bearings are better than 3. No one questions that 4 piston rings seal power and oil better than 3. Tests prove Valve Seat Inserts eliminate valve grinding costs for 30,000 miles and more. Hydraulic brakes stay equalized, save relining, reduce tire wear. Everybody knows it costs money to include an Oil Filter, big Radiator, big Cast Iron Brake Drums and an engine block of Chrome-Nickel-Molybdenum-Iron.

Yet, amazing as it sounds, Dodge gives you all these quality features, while no other low-priced truck has even half of them—and most of them haven't even 2 or 3. Before you buy any truck, go to your Dodge Dealer and learn about these costly quality features. You'll be astonished at how much more value you get in Dodge.

NRA ELECTRIC LEAGUE OF PITTSBURGH

SCHOOL HEADS AMUSED AT 'RADICALS'

Anti-War Plea Made To Prospective Students

Students about to enter the University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Institute of Technology were urged today by the National Student League to refuse membership in the R. O. T. C., a training department for military science. The students were told that by joining they would help to prepare "for a new world slaughter."

Officials at the two schools meanwhile took the Student League action as "only radical propaganda" and as somewhat of a joke. Lieut. Col. Edward J. Cullen, professor of military science and tactics at Pitt, said:

"Let them go ahead and play—they have to have some way of amusing themselves. I take it as a joke and it hasn't bothered anybody. It is a group of radicals seeking publicity in the papers."

HANDBILLS CIRCULATED

"War is certain as long as war preparations go on. The responsibility for causing war rests with those who prepare for war. The R. O. T. C. prepares you for war. That is its only excuse for existence. Freshmen, why be cannon fodder? Don't join the R. O. T. C."

PLEASED WITH RESPONSE

Grumet was seemingly pleased with the results his organization is getting. He said:

"The freshmen read the hand bills and then folded them and put them in their pockets. Their response was better than I expected."

Chancellor John G. Bowman, of Pitt, had said:

"Such propaganda is universal. It doesn't do the youngster any harm to take sides on the question. We are going to let the students do as they please. There is no harm in it."

LETTERS SENT

Letters expressing sentiments similar to those in the hand bill were sent students at Pitt and Tech. The letters said:

"We feel assured that you will give us your support by refusing to join the R.O.T.C. You can see beneath the gaudy brown and blue and gold regalia and false scholastic appearance of the R.O.T.C."

A. W. Tarboll, dean of men at Tech, said:

HELD UP NEAR POLICE STATION

William Keller, whose address was listed as "Kentucky" on a police report, was beaten and robbed of $40 by two men a half square from Central Police Station last night.

Keller told police he met the men shortly after arriving in the city yesterday afternoon. They invited him for a stroll and gave him a drink, he reported. At First avenue and Blockhouse way, the strangers pounced upon him and robbed him of his cash, Keller said.

Real Wet Can Vote in Sunshine Or Cloudburst

-By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER-

Strange thing about repeal is that it requires clear skies and sunshine to bring the dry vote out.

A wet will vote in any kind of weather. He will register during a primary blizzard, cast his ballot in a tornado and rush into a forest fire to get a flambeau for the torchlight parade.

We concede that 13 years of bootleg shellacking has made the wet climate-proof. The only difference repeal will make is in his illumination. The wet used to get his current alternating. Now he can get it direct.

Before leaving his Idaho and New Mexico home yesterday the dry looked at the celestial firmament to observe the sun, moon and stars on their rural free delivery route.

These three mild heavenly bodies mean nothing to the wet. He is voting for constellations, eclipses, meteors, shooting stars and comets.

DR. J. ALVIN ORR, JR.

Was Chief Surgeon Of U. P.'s in Africa; Overwork Blamed

Dr. J. Alvin Orr, Jr., son of Dr. J. Alvin Orr, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church, North Side, died in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, Africa, Sunday, it was learned here today. Overwork as a medical missionary was believed to have caused the illness leading to his death.

In 1931 he was appointed chief surgeon and doctor of the George Memorial Hospital in Addis Ababa by the United Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions and took over his duties in October of the same year. The one physician aiding him died about a year later, leaving Dr. Orr in charge of all the medical duties of the hospital.

Dr. Orr was born in Philadelphia in 1903 and was a graduate of Allegheny High School, Muskingum College and the University of Pennsylvania Medical College. His interneship was served in Allegheny General Hospital.

He leaves his father, a brother, James, and two sisters, Miss Marjorie and Miss Eleanor Orr.

FAKE BILL CASE JAILS 3 MORE

Nelson and Charles Horn, members of a York, Pa., engraving firm and an employe, Theodore W. Hertzog, were under arrest in York today as Secret Service agents reported they had broken up a counterfeiting ring which printed more than 5,000 bogus $10 notes.

Four men and a woman were arrested by the agents in the Pittsburgh district during a 9-month investigation.

The three taken in York were said by the agents to have made plates and tools for counterfeiting Federal Reserve Bank notes bearing the names of the institution in Cleveland, Philadelphia and Chicago.

Those held here include Penrod Spangler, of Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. David C. Moore, of Uniontown; Frank C. Collier, also of Uniontown, and Richard Breese, of Grove City. The agents charge Breese had the printing presses and other equipment buried upon his farm.

BLONDE TO GET $50,000

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—A contract of settlement, whereby Mrs. Grace Carolyn Thomasson will receive $50,000 and relinquish claims against the estate of her elderly husband, Hugh W. Thomasson, was approved in Probate Court yesterday.

The settlement will bring to an end a long series of suits, court hearings and cross actions growing out of the marriage of Mrs. Thomasson to the wealthy St. Louis real estate owner.

Relatives opposed the marriage and asserted Thomasson had been "kidnaped" by his comparatively youthful blonde wife. After the legality of one marriage was challenged the couple went through a second ceremony.

Acmetonia Lock Fund Allocated

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—The War Department said yesterday that $900,000 allocated to improvement of the Allegheny River in Pennsylvania would be used for construction of a dam and abutment at new Lock No. 3 near Acmetonia, Pa., and for shaping and riprapping the bank of Fourteen Mile Island.

Bids on the work will be opened at the United States engineers office at Pittsburgh, September 27. The department said it would require completion within about 18 working months.

Losing Sight, Girl Visits Chevalier

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20.—Facing complete blindness in four months, Blanche Cameron, a Lincoln (Neb.) school teacher, is leaving Hollywood with a treasured memory to carry into the darkened years.

She has met Maurice Chevalier, the star whom she has idolized on the screen and to whom she recently sent a pathetic letter:

"Please come home soon and make another picture. The doctors tell me that in six months I will be totally blind. Before then, I want to see you just one more time on the screen."

The day he received this letter, Chevalier personally replied and sent Blanche Cameron a large autographed picture. The heads of the Paramount studio took note too. A print of "The Way to Love" was all ready to be rushed to Lincoln for a private showing when another letter arrived.

Mr. Chevalier

Blanche Cameron was on her way to Berkeley to see more doctors. She was stopping off a day in Hollywood. Would it be possible to see Mr. Chevalier for a few minutes.

The night before she arrived, the French star was injured in an automobile accident. But still he didn't forget. Instead of meeting her favorite at the studio, the school teacher was invited to his home. When they introduced her, she was almost inarticulate. All she could say was: "Maurice!"

Soon, however, they became friends. They talked for an hour while he comforted her. And when she left, she said:

"Now that I have seen him and talked to him, it won't be so hard. I have something to carry with me into the darkness."

Speaking at the M. G. M. luncheon to honor May Robson's 50 years as an actress, Polly Moran put it this way:

"I was very proud to learn that I was to be in a picture with May. Then I found out something. Instead of cutting to a rock or a tree, they're going to cut to me."

In the midst of her second blood-transfusion at the hospital, Lilyan Tashman swears she got an idea for a film story. She can show you the completed story, too, that she wrote during her illness. But she won't let you read it until it is copyrighted. The idea is too original.

Guess Charlie Chaplin means business this time about beginning his picture. He's starting to pace around the lot and to pause for moments at a time in deep contemplation. Sure signs of approaching activity, if you know this strange little man. As Charlie puts it himself:

"I'm like a little boy on the edge of a swimming pool. I want to dive in, but I can't quite make up my mind."

Mr. Chaplin

Variety, Film Pitt Plan

Vaudeville and a feature picture are the policy adopted for the Pitt, which will open Friday, September 29. There will be eight stage acts and a first-run photoplay in each bill, and it is stated that a moderate scale of prices will prevail.

The theater has been entirely redecorated from pit to ceiling. The stage has been refloored and other improvements have been made. Now being installed is the latest improvement in "sound" for pictures, known as "wide range," the first of its kind in a downtown theater. It permits reproduction of extremes of sound, from a whisper to thunder, in natural tone and volume. Betterment of dialogue is one of the claims made for the new method.

The programs in the Pitt will be presented continuously from 12 noon until 11 p. m.

Child Doing Film Bit Wins Attention

'Sunday Afternoon' Warner Film

"One Sunday Afternoon," featuring Gary Cooper and Fay Wray, will be the Warner photoplay opening Friday. It was originally announced for the Stanley.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

George M. Cohan, who will be seen in the Nixon next week in the Theater Guild premiere of "Ah Wilderness," new Eugene O'Neill play, is one of the most prolific playwrights in the United States himself. He is credited with about two score of plays and musical comedies, and he has collaborated in about an equal number of others, although he has claimed no credit in any of the latter. He also has composed many popular songs, and is engaged on one at present that he is thinking of titling "Fair Weather." He also continues to write a play each year. The box office sale of seats for "Ah Wilderness" will open tomorrow.

* * *

The second Theater Guild play of the season will be "Mary of Scotland," to be presented in the Nixon the week of October 30. It is by Maxwell Anderson, and it will have Helen Hayes in the title role. Mr. Anderson will be remembered as the author of "Both Your Houses," satire that won the Pulitzer prize last season, and of "Elizabeth the Queen," in which the Guild presented Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt in 1930. This will be one of the subscription plays of the American Theater Society, which continues to receive subscriptions at its office in the Nixon Theater Building.

* * *

El Brendel, whose character comedy has brought laughter into many a picture, finally has reached stardom, and his first picture in that capacity will be "Olson's Night Out." John Arledge will play the juvenile lead.

Movie Alice Is Small

Charlotte Henry, Brooklyn girl today was selected to create on the screen the immortal Lewis Carroll heroine of "Alice in Wonderland" and "Through the Looking-Glass," has had some of stage and screen experience. She has appeared in four or five Hollywood productions, in very minor parts, and before she came to Hollywood, four years ago, she played in "Courage" on the New York stage.

Miss Henry is just five feet tall, weighs 104 pounds, has light brown hair, a fair complexion, blue-green eyes and is extraordinarily youthful.

SALLY EILERS, HOOT DIVORCED

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20. — There can be no reconciliation between Sally Eilers and Hoot Gibson now. A Mexican divorce giving Sally her marital freedom was granted her August 28. So carefully did Sally and Hoot guard the plans for a Mexican divorce that not even their friends knew that a suit had been filed in Chihuahua charging incompatibility. Sally, home from a holiday in Yosemite, said:

"Neither Hoot nor I wanted any more publicity. We figured if we obtained a divorce here in Los Angeles there would be more talk which neither of us wanted at this time."

The Gibson matrimonial difficulties have been aired in the newspapers ever since their first separation over a year ago. Certain motion picture writers insisted that this last separation, when Sally went to Europe, was only another quarrel, but those who have been close to the Gibsons realized that finis was written on their romance.

AIMEE TO BUILD TEMPLE IN N. Y.

By DOROTHY ROE
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton plans to build a replica of her Los Angeles Angelus Temple at New York.

She announced the project today, as she sat, surrounded by reporters, waiting to pay her respects to Director Grover Whalen at the Pennsylvania Hotel headquarters of the NRA.

A symphony in brown, Sister Aimee smiled and said softly:

"Yes, we've discussed building a temple in New York for a long time. Now I have asked a real estate firm to submit to me three sites—one on the East Side, one on the West Side and one on the Bowery."

The real estate firm confirmed the statement.

And, if it can possibly be arranged, the New York temple of the Four Square Gospel will be right in the heart of Broadway, where Aimee will make her stage debut Friday night.

Dry Agent Held In Suit Over Estate

GETTYSBURG, Sept. 20. — (AP.)—Frank S. Weaver, of near Gettysburg, a federal prohibition agent, was arrested yesterday and released in $1,000 bail on a charge of failing to comply with a court order regarding distribution of his father's estate.

Weaver, executor of the estate of Jacob M. Weaver, had been ordered by the court to distribute the estate's proceeds on April 15.

American Weekly Dramas Now On 170 Stations

A new record for broadcasting is established with this week's American Weekly radio drama "The Case of Sally Smith." It will go on the air over 170 stations in the United States and Canada, the greatest number of outlets ever utilized by a single sponsor.

The dramatization, heard over Cincinnati and Altoona stations today and tomorrow, and 13 other transmitters in and about Pittsburgh Friday and Saturday, raises the interesting question, "Must a Woman be Beautiful to be Loved?" Two actresses of renown, Jean Colbert and Alice Davenport play the leading roles.

Based on a two-page story appearing in next Sunday's American Weekly magazine, distributed with the Sun-Telegraph, "The Case of Sally Smith" is heard over WLW, Cincinnati, this evening at 7:45 (standard time), and WFBG, Altoona, at 3 p. m. (daylight saving time), Thursday.

Football Players On Air Tonight

Tonight's 7 o'clock program of the Trained Seals will be their last Wednesday evening appearance. Beginning next week they will be heard Thursday evenings at 7:15.

'By the Old Distillery' May Be Theme Song

By AIRCASTER

It was at the time when beer was about to be legalized that the inquiring radio reporters quizzed the network headmen about liquor programs, and were told, quite definitely, that whisky and hard stuff of similar character never would be advertised via the kilocycles.

Beer was all right to ballyhoo. But no self-respecting radio web could or would take a chance of offending the good folk of Kansas, Indiana and other similar regions with commercial compliments to John Barleycorn.

Tempting

But now, with events racing toward unanimous repeal of prohibition, the righteous decision of the headmen doesn't sound like such good business. Particularly does it annoy them to know that if they say yes there is no less than $150,000 already put aside by a half dozen distilleries for as many one-shot programs to celebrate prohibition's knell.

One Pittsburgh distiller has already placed $70,000 in the hands of Lord and Thomas to be spent thus, on a single broadcast, coast to coast. . . . One wonders if the web chieftains will change their minds!

CBS vs. Cantor

Eddie Cantor is going to have plenty of competition when he returns to the mike next month—which is something he never had to contend with before.

CBS, hitherto disposed to concede a Sunday night audience from 8 to 9 to Cantor and Rubinoff, now figures on the recapture of that following with a setup of extraordinary proportions.

Beginning October 1, there's to be a 50-piece orchestra, with Freddy Rich as pilot, which, with a chorus of 20 and a cast of actors, will dramatize various musical compositions.

There'll be various soloists, and Mildred Bailey and other features which will make up rather a nifty hour.

Local Highlights on WJAS Tonight

Entertainment you may like. Jeanne Dix's songs in the early evening hours and Peyton's Frivolities at 11:30.

'SALADA' TEA

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

It was one of those rainy, miserable days. The proprietor of an East End cleaning establishment was all alone. His employes had gone out on strike. Even if there was no business he was thankful for a warm, comfortable place to sit, to contemplate the strike as well as the driving rain outside. He noticed two men pacing up and down in front of his store. He investigated further and discovered that they were pickets. He was lonely, the pickets were drenched and shivering, so he invited them inside to do their picketing, and made tea.

When someone asked Barbara, Attorney Frank McCulloch's 3-year-old daughter, whether her dady was a Democrat or Republican, she replied, "My daddy's a good daddy."

* * *

As a rule nothing is so disgusting to a 7-year-old than to try to see a parade from behind three or four rows of milling and pushing adults. That was the predicament of Jack Morris, Bigelow street, during the NRA parade. He turned his back to the street and when mother scolded for what seemed to her a peevish gesture he pointed to the mirror above a Fifth avenue store window. There in distinct reflection moved the parade.

Proud of his discovery, he passed the word along, and in a few minutes those about him followed the example of the observant youngster.

News of a betrothal of an eastern girl to a Pittsburgh son comes today from Mamaroneck, N. Y. The Joseph Cashmans, of Mamaroneck, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth, to John George Stephenson III, son of Mrs. John George Stephenson, Jr., of Pittsburgh, and of the late Mr. Stephenson.

Elizabeth was graduated from Highland Hall, Hollidaysburg, Pa., and from Wellesley College, class of 1931. At Wellesley, she was a member of Alpha Kappa Chi Society.

Her fiance, who did his preparatory work at Arnold, was graduated from Princeton with the class of 1931. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society, and his clubs are the Princeton Gateway Club and the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club of Pittsburgh. Mr. Stephenson is now a student at the Harvard Law School.

* * *

Today brings an engagement of marked interest to Pittsburgh's social set. The Moses Bedell Suydams, of Pembroke place, announce the engagement of their daughter, Catherine Suydam, to James McCutcheon, son of Mrs. Thomas Grant McCutcheon, of Castleman street.

Announce Betrothal

* * *

Engaged To Wed

Her betrothal to Wallace Coyle Cochrane, son of the William W. Cochranes, of South Negley avenue, was announced by her parents at a birthday party her mother gave for her in the family home yesterday afternoon.

Mary attended Winchester School in Pittsburgh, and National Park Seminary in Washington. Her fiance attended Marquette in Milwaukee. He was formerly of Milwaukee, by the way.

Friends of Pittsburgh novelist and social registerite Mrs. Elizabeth Moorhead Vermorcken are delighted that Mrs. Vermorcken will open her home, 5308 Ellsworth avenue, this winter, after all.

Returning To City

Mrs. Vermorcken is expected in Pittsburgh this week. She has been spending the summer at Beachmere, Ogunquit, Me., and visited Mrs. Winfield K. Shiras at Norfolk, Conn., before leaving for Pittsburgh.

Pittsburghers Visit New York and Shore

Recent Pittsburgh guests at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, were Mr. and Mrs. W. S. McAbee and A. W. McAbee, of Gertrude street; T. M. Harris, Dan Gleich and Robert C. Montgomery.

Sojourning at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall, Atlantic City, are Mrs. George D. Wick, Miss Ruth Wick and George D. Wick, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Craig, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. May, Mrs. C. M. Brilles, Miss H. M. Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gaber, George Dengel and Miss Anna K. Dice, all of Pittsburgh.

Numerous Affairs Given for Bride Of October

A bride of October 5 is being much feted in the weeks prior to her marriage. She is Miss Catherine Mary Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Leo Campbell, of Cedar boulevard, Mt. Lebanon. On that day she will marry Charles C. Curran, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Curran, of Roselawn avenue, Mt. Lebanon, in St. Bernard's Church.

Miss Dorothy E. Ransel, who is to be the maid of honor, gave an evening bridge in her home in Latrobe, the past weekend in honor of Miss Campbell.

Her aunt, Miss Marie M. Seubert, also of Latrobe, entertained for her too. Just who will give the rehearsal party isn't being announced yet.

College Club to Offer Several New Classes For Winter Season

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Innovations to be introduced at the College Club this season will include several new classes offered by the educational committee. These include classes in French literature, elementary French, courses in modern art, the machinery of government, English diction, money and banking, music appreciation and parent education. In addition to the customary general readers, other reading groups and a drama group will be organized, the latter dealing with writing and production.

Although a fashion tea next Wednesday is the first event, the season will not formally open until the president's reception on October 6. After that the regular Friday afternoon lectures will begin, speakers listed for the month being Judge Sara Soffel, J. Fred Lissfelt, music critic of the Sun-Telegraph who, with Henry Harris, will give a lecture recital on Chopin, and Miss Charlotte Carr, state secretary of labor and industry, who will speak on "Industrial Problems in Pennsylvania."

Social affairs will begin October 9 with the regular Monday night open house, a custom which is to continue weekly through the season. A bridge luncheon, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Clyde Stewart Rine, is set for October 16, and there's a Halloween dinner-dance with Mrs. Lawrence H. Miller as chairman on the twenty-first. Mrs. Karl Randall's special activities calendar promises to be especially full. On this is a garden group which will begin its meetings on October 5 when Mrs. Alexander P. Lindsay will speak. A class in needlecraft will meet the second and fourth Thursday of each month and on October 12 knitted dresses and coats are to be modeled.

Goucher Alumnae Club To Fete New Members

The Goucher College Alumnae Club will open its year's activities with a tea for new members in the home of Miss Louisa Knox, Brighton road, Ben Avon, on Saturday. Guests will include the 1933 graduates living in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

Officers elected for the coming year are: Mrs. A. H. Parlett, president; Mrs. C. M. Wellons, vice president; Miss Pauline Mills, recording secretary; Mrs. Willis E. Boothe, corresponding secretary; Mrs. William Wightman, treasurer. Miss Louisa Knox is chairman of the program committee.

Gossipy Chat

By NANCY JANE

The Howard Beatty Smiths, of Murdoch street, and their three children, have only their German shepherd dog left of all their summer menagerie.

This spring they already had the dog. Then they acquired a pair of ducks, dubbed Jack and Jill at once. Jack and Jill used to disport themselves on warm summer days in a baby bathtub. One of the children found a bunny with a broken leg, which received careful nursing. Next one of the little girls caught a bat in a coffee can. And the final addition was a pigeon. But fate intervened, and now only the dog is left.

At Maxada School, the little girls will have uniforms this year. They're to be diminutive jumper dresses of light weight dark red wool, with puffed sleeves distinguishing the blouses.

Principal to Address Wilkinsburg P. T. A.

Robert Beaton, principal of Wilkinsburg Junior High School, will make an address of welcome when the school Parent-Teacher Association meets Monday afternoon. Trumpet duets will be played by Edgar Lewis and Herbert Earhart, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Rogers.

Mothers of Langley High students have been invited by that P. T. A. unit to attend a junior-senior tea on Monday afternoon. They will gather in the auditorium to hear an address on "Mothers, Children, Citizenship" by Dr. Auleene Marley Jamison and a musical program by Dorothy Ryan Nesbit. Later tea will be served in the gymnasium with Mrs. Ross I. Whaley as hostess chairman.

Regent Square Women's Club Opens on Monday

Speakers listed for this season by the Regent Square Woman's Club include Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, Dr. Max Schoen, Elmer Kenyon, the Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers and the Rev. Orva Lee Ice. The year, opening with a picnic yesterday, will close next June with a bridge breakfast. Mrs. John Allison is the new president.

AMERICAN DESIGNER CREATES DOUBLE-DUTY EVENING GOWN

THE AMERICAN couture—not so long ago it was an unrecognizable thing! An American designer was considered just another dressmaker, gone dramatic, for in those days no dress without a famous French label had any value. Today, as anyone the least bit acquainted with feminine fashion knows, the mark of "American Original" has become an indication of importance in any discussion of the mode.

* * *

THERE ARE two schools of American designers, those who create by keeping in constant touch with Paris, go abroad frequently and never miss a single French trick. The other school of designers believes in its own independence thoroughly. It never looks across the sea to the capital from whence style has flowed for generations. It avoids seeing anyone else's work, in order not to be influenced by anything. It's adherents are real pioneers, in the full sense of the word. But both schools combine to form a quickly growing rank of American designers. We owe them our allegiance.

* * *

THE EVENING gown in the accompanying drawing illustrates well the ingenuity of one of our most brilliant young designers. Look at both figures closely. They're a great deal alike. The big news about them is the fact that both actually originate from the same dress . . . yes it's a two-piece evening gown with two separate blouses.

* * *

IF ONLY this were a color photograph you could see the exquisite coloring of the brocade evening vest on the left. It looks like a rare old piece of Persian cloth that has been tucked away for centuries. And then look at the other blouse. For the night when you are weary of the brocaded top for the black satin skirt, try the other of a rose-quartz pink satin.

* * *

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

Girls Who Marry Shiftless Men Face Unhappiness

Is it up to Peggy to "inspire" the big boy by marrying him?

And if she does, will he snap out of his slump and forge ahead to success?

She'd just love to do it—but Mama has other ideas. That, to Peggy's notion, just proves that Mama's an Old Meany and prejudiced against poor Tommy.

So she wants us to tell Mama just how it is, and, incidentally, where to get off.

Will we?

Listen!

Dear Elsie—

I am coming to you because I know you have noble ideals and understand people, and I want some help.

You see I am in love, but my mother doesn't approve of either that or my ideals, and I feel that if you tell her what you think, she will see how I feel, and how Tommy, the boy I love, needs me.

You see Tommy is a rather odd person. He is very fine and sensitive, and the way things are he just doesn't see a great deal to live or work for. But he says my love inspires him, and that it is the only thing that does.

He has had a pretty hard time since he was graduated from college. He hasn't been able to get work. He lives with his folks now and helps his father with his little business, but he gets very discouraged.

He says, though, that if I will just believe in him and marry him, it will give him something to strive for, something to make working worth while, and he is sure that if I do marry him he can go out and land a job, just because it will give him so much courage and purpose—which seems reasonable to me.

MOTHER OBJECTS

But my mother is very unsympathetic. She is prejudiced against Tommy, and says that I am being very foolish to think of him the way I do. She is always making mean remarks about him, and telling me that he is worthless.

I know it would be the making of him, if I were there to help him and encourage him. He wants me to marry him right away, but there is no use for me to tell my mother all this. She just doesn't understand.

Don't you think I should help him, now, when he needs me? I long to inspire him to do big things. I love him and want to help him. Sometimes I think it would be best for us to just slip off and get married. We don't have to have anyone's consent. I am 19 and he is 24.

Please help me. PEGGY.

INVITING GRIEF

Don't I think you should "help him"?

How about him being man enough to help himself, Peggy? And if he isn't, how do you think he'll ever take care of you?

Yes, I know it makes you feel big and noble to listen to him spouting about how much you could mean in his life, but the brutal truth is my dear that he isn't a Fine, Sensitive Soul. He's just a weak moocher, looking for a leaning post. And if you let him lean on you, you'll be buying yourself plenty of grief.

For, regardless of what he says, he will never be anything but weak; and when he is confronted by the heavy responsibilities of marriage, it won't inspire him to get out and hustle. It'll merely inspire him with resentment—and more and bigger whines. He'll either duck out, or leave you the job of rustling for grub.

Don't marry any man who hasn't the gumption to stand on his own feet and be his own inspiration. It may listen pretty to "help him to do big things," but 10 years from now, when he'll still be looking for "help" and blaming you for his weakness, it won't be so sweet.

So I'd advise you to listen to Mama—and give him his walking papers.

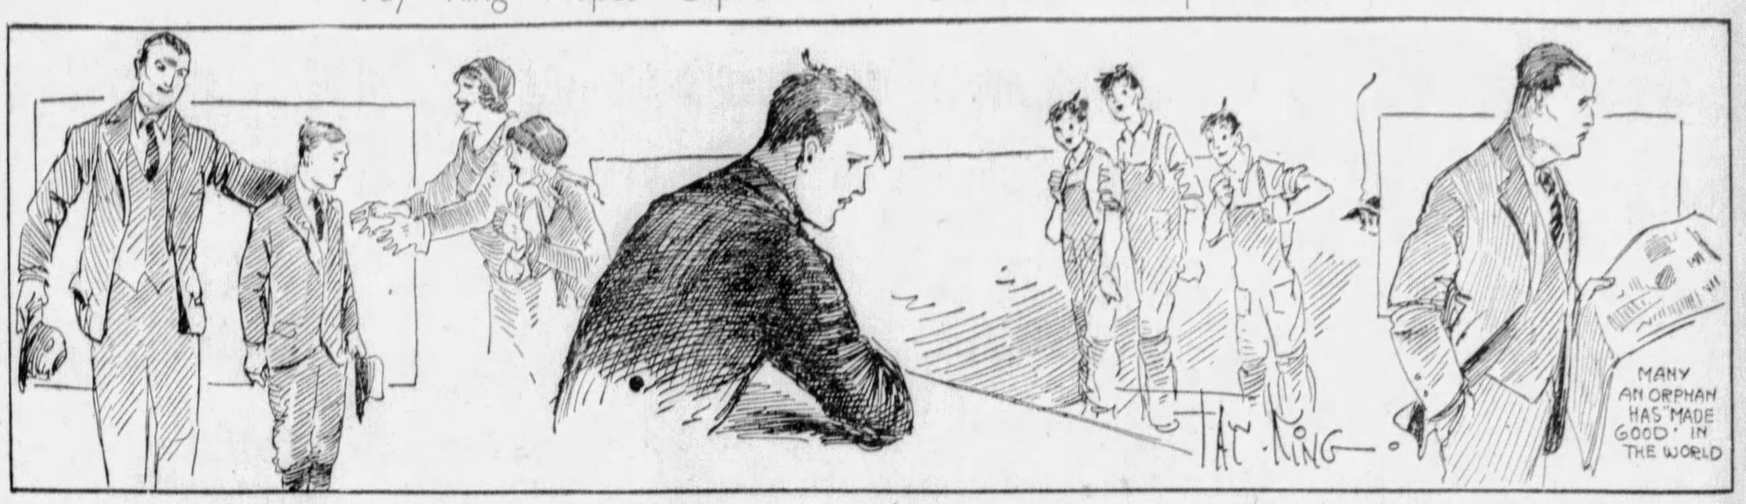
Fay King Hopes Orphan Will Overcome "Adoption" Failure



By FAY KING

Because an orphan boy resembled their son who died, a family took the boy into their home. But it didn't work out. Quite soon the boy was returned to the orphanage.

We hope the boy will not let this unfortunate episode discourage him.

Already at an age of comprehension, he wanted to sell newspapers. This has been a first plan for independence in the life of many orphans who have become worthy citizens.

It was easy for the family to shower affection on the boy for he was so like one already dear to them. But to him they could only seem kind strangers.

It takes time to win real love.

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

Madge's Suspicions About Avis Arlen Are Verified

I stiffened instinctively as Avis Arlen voiced her disappointment that she was not "going to the farm to see No-el—and Mary." The brazen assurance of the girl, who, only a few months before, had made so crass and so unsuccessful a play for Noel, roused every bit of my antagonism.

"Noel and Mary are so busy and so absorbed that it is useless for anyone to try to see them. They are to be married in two days. You will see them then, I trust, for I am writing to your mother tonight inviting you both to the wedding."

"You are not telling Miss Arlen any news," Hugh said lightly, and I could have blessed him for the adroitness with which he was playing into my hands. 'She was—"

He broke off abruptly, as a small ferret-faced man who had alighted from the same car as had Avis, approached us and said ingratiatingly to Hugh:

"Could you oblige me with a match?"

Hugh held out his box, then, ignoring the man's thanks and his evident desire to engage him in conversation, he put one hand on my arm and one upon Avis Arlen's, guiding us dexterously into the waiting room.

"As I was saying," he said with one eye upon the door, "Miss Arlen told me of the marriage yesterday. Here comes that man again along the platform. We'll walk down the room a bit."

"Isn't he horrid?" Avis gurgled, and from my experience of her, I knew what was coming. "He just ogled me all the way down from New York. I'm so glad you're here, Major Grantland. You'll take care of him, won't you?"

NO RETURN TICKET

"I'll try," Hugh said grimly, bringing us to rest at one end of the station. "Miss Graham, I should advise going into the little sitting room which the station here provides for women, staying in there until just a minute or two before train time. Have you a return ticket, Miss Arlen?"

"No, I haven't," she said. "I didn't know but perhaps somebody would be driving back to New York, so I didn't get one."

"Then please permit me," Hugh said, with a low bow. "I'll have it ready for you. Better go inside now."

"My ankle is still not quite right," I said, and with quick, meticulous courtesy, Avis supported me into the little sitting room as if I had been a helpless cripple, and seated me in a big rocking chair.

There was malice in the light blue eyes that looked out at me from under the long, curling, artificial lashes that had replaced the mascaraed ones which I remembered so unpleasantly.

"I'm afraid I shouldn't be so correct in my behavior if I were in your place, Mrs. Graham," she cooed. "Maj. Grantland is so frightfully fascinating, I should want to spin the return journey out as long as possible.

PRODUCES LETTER

There was that in her expression which not only enraged me, but made me feel subtly lowered in my own estimation. There was no mistaking her meaning. She was convinced that I was indulging in a secret flirtation with the handsome army officer.

Ostentatiously I looked at my wrist watch.

"I am sorry," I said, ignoring her little speech altogether, "but I must remind you that we have very little time. Won't you tell me what it is you wish of me? You seemed to think it so very important when you telephoned me."

"Oh; it is!" Her manner underwent a sudden change, became melodramatic in the extreme. "If you fail me—but you can't. You are so kind, you must be merciful to me."

I mentally added a grim "a sinner," to her unconscious quotation of the ages old prayer, but she was hurrying on, and I felt compelled to pay strict attention to what she was saying. I had the same feeling, I imagine, that one would have in watching the movements of a cobra. One would never feel safe in turning one's eyes away for even an infinitesimal fraction of a second.

"I will do anything in my power to aid you," I told her enigmatically, and, thrusting her hand into her bag, she held out the letter to Philip Veritzen, in my handwriting, which I had last seen when Lillian herself went to the hotel post box to be sure that it was properly mailed.

"It's about this," she said.

Household Hints

Aluminum saucepan lids get very hot. To avoid burnt fingers, clip a spring peg to the handle of the lid.

Keep your stock of perishable foods very low in the hot weather. Stewed fruits should be boiled up again rather than left for more than a day; anything at all questionable should be thrown away at once.

Mosquito bites can be prevented as a rule if all exposed parts of the skin are rubbed with oil of geranium, menthal, lavender or eucalyptus. Boracic, in powder or lotion form, is an alternative for people who do not care to use oils, but it needs to be more frequently applied, as its effect is weaker.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Cause of Rickets Sought for Three Hundred Years

Rickets is not an affliction of modern times. It was first described in 1650 by the eminent English physician, Francis Glisson. At that time a severe epidemic was raging in London. A commissioin composed of prominent physicians and scientists was formed to study the disease and find a cure for it.

Dr. Copeland

However almost 300 years passed before the actual cause of rickets was found. In 1914 it was discovered that rickets developed when there was lack of vitamin D in the diet. That vitamin supplies the body with a substance necessary for normal growth and the development of strong bones and teeth.

I am glad to say that the disease is not as common as in the days of Glisson. We know how to prevent it. Adequate sunlight and the early administration of cod liver oil will guard the child against rickets.

Mothers of young infants are advised to give cod liver oil as early as the fourth week of life. This treatment should be continued through the second year. In addition, the child should be exposed to the beneficial action of the rays of the sun whenever possible.

Though most mothers are familiar with the value of cod liver oil and the danger of rickets, hospital authorities still report the finding of this disease in many infants where there has been neglect of the necessary precautions.

Often a child is found to be restless and irritable. His normal progress in growth and development is slow. He does not gain in weight, has poor appetite, and suffers from constipation, nausea and vomiting. Rickets should be suspected in the little sufferer, and immediate steps taken to cure it.

Rickets is a disease that should never be neglected. When overlooked, it leads to permanent changes in the bony structure of the body. Disabling deformities may result. Before the present knowledge of rickets was at our disposal and the disease little understood, cases of knock-knees, bowlegs and other deformities of the body were common afflictions of children.

In serious cases of rickets, the skull becomes square in shape and has rough edges. In addition, the ribs and wrists have bony swellings and the bones are extremely weak. The weakness of bone tissue may lead to a curvature of the spine and other abnormal defects.

Though rickets is not a fatal disease it is a serious disturbance. It greatly undermines the health of the child and makes him more susceptible to infectious diseases. The child who has been a victim of rickets may develop "tetany," of which I have told you, and other serious constitutional disturbances.

Since the prevention of this disease is far easier than its cure, it is essential that every effort be made to prevent its occurrence. If there is a young infant in your home be sure that he is receiving sufficient amounts of cod liver oil, and that his diet contains foods rich in lime and phosphorous. If he has not made the necessary progress and is underweight I would advise that you consult with your physician.

Contract Bridge -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Grand Slam Bidding

The bidding of Grand Slams requires the greatest precision of inferences and the most absolute correctness in conveying information to partner during the auction as to the Aces and other key cards which are essential to the success of a contract to take all 13 tricks. Because the four-Five Notrump Convention of the Culbertson System is the only precise method of showing Aces wholesale, it has taken the Contract Bridge playing public of the world by storm. It was the greatest single factor in the recent victory of the American team in the first world-wide championship match held in London with the magnificent trophy donated by Mr. Charles M. Schwab as a prize.

Especially in tournament play do the hit-or-miss methods of bidding Slams stand out prominently. A recent state-wide tournament produced the following hand, in which only one pair reached the laydown Grand Slam. The hand was submitted to me with a request for the proper bidding:

East, Dealer.

	♠ Q 7 ♡ J 8 7 5 ◇ 9 3 ♣ Q J 5 4 3
♠ A J 6 5 3 ♡ 9 6 ◇ A K Q 8 ♣ A 9	North West East South	♠ K 10 9 8 2 ♡ A K ◇ J 4 2 ♣ K 8 2
	♠ 4 ♡ Q 10 4 3 2 ◇ 10 7 6 5 ♣ 10 7 6

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	Pass	3 ◇ (1)	Pass
3 ♠ (2)	Pass	5 N T (3)	Pass
6 ◇ (4)	Pass	7 ♠ or	Pass
Pass	Pass	7 N T (5)

1—Obviously a very fine Forcing Takeout. The hand contains 4 honor-tricks and a magnificent fit with the partner's trump suit, and has obviously all the earmarks of a Slam of some description.

2—While East's trump suit is not rebiddable, the hand as a whole has enough rebid value to make it advisable to bid three spades rather than three notrump. It is improbable, moreover, that the Forcing Takeout would be made without a fair fit in the spade suit.

3—The conventional bid showing possession of three Aces and the King of a bid suit.

4—East must now sign off by bidding the lower ranking of the bid suits.

5—Whether West bids seven notrump or seven spades depends entirely upon whether the hand is being played at Rubber Bridge or in a tournament. In tournament play the seven notrump contract is probably preferred, but in rubber Bridge prudence dictates the choice of a suit.

TODAY'S QUESTION

What should North respond to an Opening bid of one heart by South, with the following holding?

♠ — ♡ Q 10 9 8 6 3 ◇ A 10 7 2 ♣ A J 3

Answer—Four hearts: If South then bids four spades, North should "sign off" with a bid of five hearts.

Correct Manners

By CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

On a Visit

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

As an avid reader of your column, from which I receive much help and information, I would like your advice on this matter.

In a few days I am to visit my young man friend's aunt. The call is just for the day and she returns with us. Here is what is bothering me:

1—Should I take a gift of candy to her . . . or nothing?

2—Should a bread and butter letter be written, and when?

3—Upon the return trip, should I sit in the back of the car with her, or remain in the front seat with my friend?

As this is my first visit to his people, I wish to do the correct thing.

Accept my sincere thanks and may your coulmn be a blessing to people, like myself, who possess ordinary manners, but not the fine points. H.

Thak you, with all my heart, for your kind and appreciative words about my column—what a friendly girl you are!

1—I think that it would be a very pleasant gesture for you to take a box of candy, or a box of flowers with you, when you go to make this call. It is, of course, not necessary, but it is just one of those delightful ways we are given of showing that we are appreciative people.

2—And too I would very much like to know that you will write this kind hostess a note of thanks and of appreciation of her hospitality. She will be delighted with this evidence of your graciousness.

3—I am so glad that you asked me this question! By all means sit in the back of the car with your hostess. It would give her a poor impression of you and of your man friend if you took the seat with him in the front.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

We look to the ribs for textile weaves, since ribbed material, whether woolen or silk, is most important. A walking dress is made of brown faille with a rib almost as wide as an ottoman silk. The sailor collar is of all-over stitched cire soutache braid, and the dress is marked by much intricate seaming.

Into the pillbox hat go many of our smartest young heads, since the pillbox turban is a youthful style that is always liked. A new model is in black sheer velvet with a red, white and black feather fancy posed to give height.

We are headed for new hats. The latest models are ever so becoming. Typical is a delightful modified tricorne of brown ribbed velvet, with a top trimming of rust-colored ostrich tips.

Feathers sprout on all the new dresses, in divers ways. For instance, a dress of black velvet has shoulder straps and a necklace all made of immense lilies with yellow centers, made of lovely white and yellow feathers. A dress to dream about!

Sleek heads mean satin hats, of course. One of the loveliest hats of the early autumn is a simple skull-cap of very dark blue satin, with a large chou of the material bunched over the left ear. The material is held by a small jeweled pin, a contrast to the dark satin.

A new thought for these times is flowers—fresh or frankly artificial—in the hair. One beautiful lady wears, just across the top of her rolled-up curls, a garland of poppies and corn flowers, with a matching bracelet high on each arm.

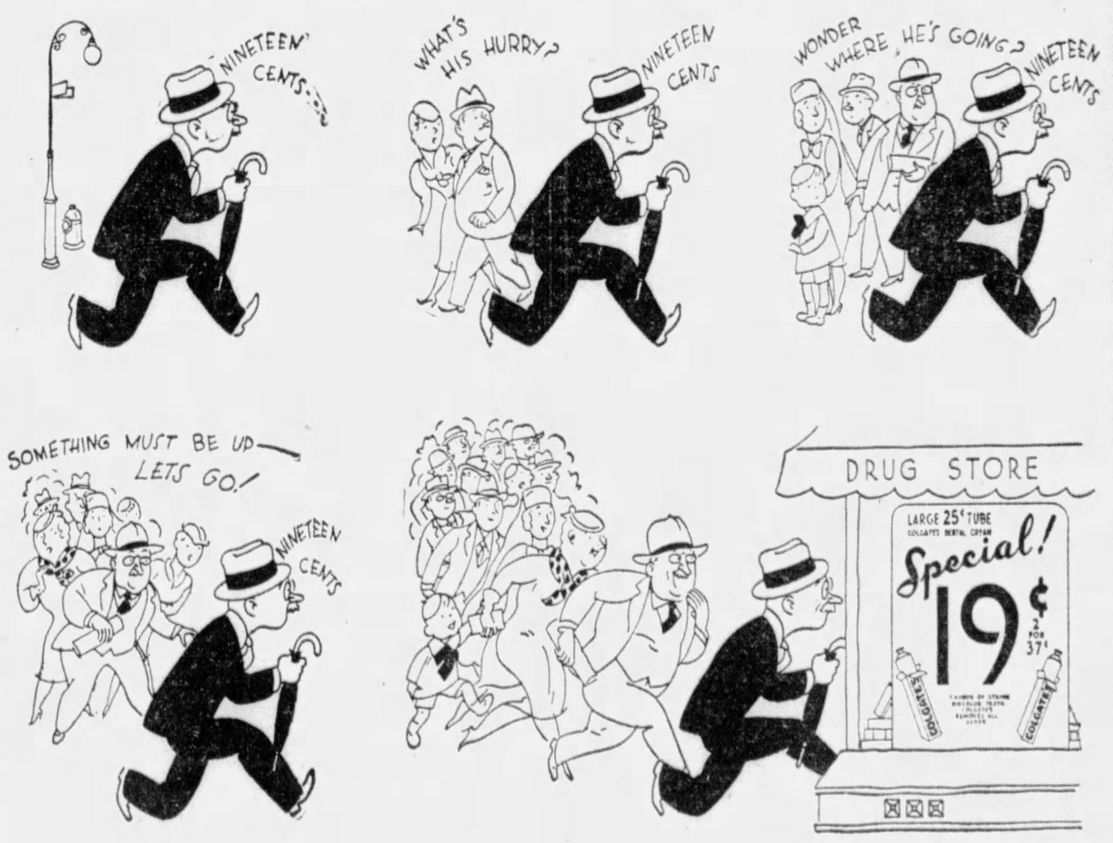
BIG BOX 25¢

FOR A LIMITED TIME ONLY!



No wonder people are rushing to stock up on Colgate's. At 25c it was a great buy! And at 19c!—it is a great toothpaste bargain.

Here is a toothpaste that has a big edge on other toothpastes. Colgate's removes all the 7 stains that discolor teeth—not 2 or 3 or 4 like the usual toothpaste does—but ALL.

Two Actions Needed

Know why? Because Colgate's has two cleansing actions—where most toothpastes have only one. And oh! how those teeth of yours need BOTH actions.

For all stains will not yield to one cleansing action—and if you don't remove them all, they gradually build up, dulling your teeth, clouding their natural brilliance—hiding their natural color.

Teeth Become Cleaner

So try Colgate's today. Let the two actions begin working for you. The emulsive action will dissolve and wash away some of the stains. The safe, gentle polishing action will remove the stains that are left.

At the end of 10 days, look in the mirror—and see the best-looking teeth you've ever had. See how sparkling—how gleaming they can really be.

SPECIAL

For a limited time only you can get the large 25¢ tube for 19¢. Go to your dealer's today—and take advantage of this Special offer.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Giant Honors Well Earned. Fitz Best of Knucklers.
Few Braves Big Winners. Navy Game Holds Appeal.
Old Boxer Baseball Asset. Brilliant Trio Coming.

TERRYS BEAT HANDICAPS TO TAKE FLAG.

Though contrary to general spring expectations and to every angle of paper baseball form at the time, the pennant victory just clinched by the New York Giants is none the less popular around the circuit. The triumph of the players so ably led by Bill Terry in his first full season as a manager is all the more creditable because few thought they had a chance to finish higher than fifth or sixth place, and in spite of keen disappointment at the failure of the Pirates to fulfill spring flag hopes, Pittsburgh fans, like those in other National League cities, admire the Giants for their successful fight against what at one time looked like hopeless odds.

Bill Terry

The Terrymen had a lot of obstacles to combat during the winning drive, which they started with only two established pitchers, with no shortstop, and with a second baseman who was a question mark on account of an ailing throwing arm. Injuries to star players like Terry, Jackson and Ryan added further handicaps during the season; Davis and Clark turned out total losses, and Vergez was lost right at the beginning of the final trip that called for 17 games almost in a row with such formidable flag rivals as the Braves, the Pirates and the Cubs, one of the toughest road finishes any leader ever had to face.

Nothing stopped the Giants, however, and a rare spirit of fight and hustle, a will to win, behind a combination of great pitching, steady catching and tight infield defensive play, kept them in first place from June 10 to the end of the fight. The clinching of the pennant climaxed a fight that was as game as it was brilliant. The Giants richly deserve all that they have gained. If they won over better clubs it is all the more to their credit.

NO BRAVE 20-GAME WINNER SINCE 1921

If Ben Cantwell manages to hang up that elusive twentieth victory for the Boston Nationals before the season ends he will become the first Brave pitcher in 12 seasons to win that number of games in a single campaign. The last 20-game winner for the Braves was Joe Oeschger, who registered 20 victories against 14 defeats in 1921, the year after he pitched his famous 26-inning tie against Leon Cadore, of the Dodgers, the longest game by innings ever played in the major leagues.

Two notable pitchers of modern baseball who preceded Oeschger as 20-game winners for the same club were Bill James and Dick Rudolph. In 1914, when the Braves made their celebrated dash from last place to the pennant in two and a half months, James won 26 and lost 7, while Rudolph won 27 and lost 10. Rudolph reached the mark again in 1915, when he won 22 and lost 19.

OLD FIGHTER SUCCESS AS GIANT TRAINER

An obscure but by no means unimportant factor in the pennant success of the Giants was an old ring fighter, Willie Schaeffer, who fought 160 professional battles, including a 10-rounder with Benny Leonard back in 1914. Much of the credit is due to Schaeffer for the fact that the New York club has had the best-conditioned pitching staff in the National League this year.

The Giants feared that an elbow kink would keep Hal Schumacher from pitching much this month, but Schaeffer cured the trouble and Schumie came back in great style. Schaeffer has remedied kindred ailments among the other New York players from time to time and kept the whole club on the right physical edge. As Coach Tom Clarke says, it's Terry

PHILS ASSIST GIANTS WIN PENNANT

PIRATES' BOX SCORES OF YESTERDAY ON PAGE 26.

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The Phearless Phils won the National League pennant for Memphis Bill Terry's Giants as they split even with the Buccos yesterday in a doubleheader at Forbes Field. The magical stunt was put over in the second clash of the day, after the Pirates had won the opening fight.

Phil Collins and his chums trimmed the Oaklanders, 3 to 2, in the nightcap. Meantime, the league leaders were flopping all over the place in St. Louis, but despite their bad defeat at the hands of the Cardinals they were qualified to put on the big celebration when the news of the Philly victory reached that city.

Larry French registered his eighteenth victory of the season as he turned back the Quakers, 2 to 1, in the first clash of yesterday. Tommy Thevenow was the big hero of the triumph, for it was Tom who drove in both of Pittsburgh's runs. French was opposed by Reggie Grabowski, who was a star in defeat. Hal Smith lost the verdict to Collins in the afterpiece.

Pirate President Bill Benswanger and Manager George Gibson last night wired pennant congratulations to Manager Bill Terry and his National League champions.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE ANNUAL MIRACLE OF ST. GENNARO—St. Gennaro, who was Bishop of Beneventum, was martyred in the Christian massacres of Diocletian in 305. His body was brought from Pozzuoli to Naples, where he was honorably interred in the church. His blood has been preserved in a glass phial, about 4 inches high and 2½ inches in diameter. Annually, on the Feast of St. Gennaro, September 19, the phial is brought out from its concealment and, as soon as it is placed in view of the Saint's silver bust, the dried blood is seen to detach itself from the sides of the phial, and, after a slow liquefaction, begins to bubble as if freshly shed. The officiating priests then announce "Il Miracolo E. Fatto" (The Miracle has been achieved). Chemists who have critically examined the phial are at a loss to account for the apparent miracle, still they maintain that were it a trick it would have been long since exposed in the 544 years, since the blood first liquefied in 1389.

TOMORROW: THE MOST MUSTACHED KING.

The city has had a lot of top-notch college and school teams, and some high-grade sandlot elevens, but now it enters the big league of the paid sport.

Promoter Art Rooney's Pittsburgh Pirates, boasting some 25 former college and sandlot stars, are set to make their bow in the National Professional Football League against Tim O'Mara's New York Giants under the lights at Forbes Field at 8:30 o'clock.

NEWMAN IN LINEUP

Leading the New York attack will be Harry Newman, former Michigan quarterback star, who succeeded Benny Friedman as an all-America performer for the Wolverines.

Coach Jap Douds, himself a former Wash-Jeff and pro league tackle star, has a classy array to toss against the Giants. The Pirates likely will line up with Tesser and Moss at the ends, Artman and Rhodes at the tackles, Janecek and Letsinger at the guards, Oehler at center and Shaffer, Moore, Holm and Brovelli in the backfield.

EXPECT GOOD CROWD

Indications point to a large crowd being on hand for the opening game, if for no other reason than to see the type of game they play. Several pro game rules differ from those in effect among college teams.

The goal posts are back on the goal line, forward passing is permitted from any point behind the line of scrimmage and the college clipping and blocking rules will not be enforced. The ball is not dead when a player slips or stumbles.

The Giants arrived in town last night and are quartered at the Schenley Hotel. They came direct from the training camp at Pompton Lakes, N. J.

CHESS TOURNEY CARDED

The annual Western Pennsylvania championship chess tournament will open at the Pittsburgh Chess Club on October 16. Entries are being received by Louis Joffe, club secretary, at 418 Investment Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

William Harold Terry, the sturdy young man from Memphis who took over the management of the New York Giants a year ago when John McGraw retired, led his club back home from the West today with the National League pennant added to its luggage.

Meanwhile the Washington Senators, who were believed to have sewed up the American League championship while the surprising Giants were still regarded as an uncertain quantity, were marking time along the pennant trail, needing two more decisions for them or against the New York Yankees to clinch the other place in the world series.

GIANTS CINCH TOP

The Giants settled the National League race yesterday, or rather had it settled for them, when the Phillies knocked their last rivals, the Pittsburgh Pirates, out of the running. Knowing they were "in" from the second inning on, the Giants went down to a 12-to-3 defeat at the hands of the St. Louis Cardinals in the last game of their Western tour.

After beating the Phils, 2 to 1, behind Larry French's pitching in the opener for their eighty-second victory of the season, the Buccos took their sixty-fifth defeat when the Phils put on an eighth-inning rally for a 3-2 win.

The American League race tightened up meanwhile as the Senators, with a chance to clinch the pennant right in front of them, lost their second straight game to the St. Louis Browns, 4 to 0, when Dick Coffman allowed the league leaders only six hits. The Yankees did their part toward staying in the race by overwhelming the Chicago White Sox, 10-1 and 10-3.

TO FETE GIANTS

The Giants, who couldn't even draw a big crowd on their own home grounds early in the season, had a big welcoming party ahead of them at the end of their homeward journey as champions with a parade through town to the city hall for an official greeting as the climax tomorrow morning. It was all the warmer, perhaps, because the team which won the thirteenth pennant for a New York National League club, thus equaling the major league record made by the Chicago Cubs last year, was one which fooled the experts and the fans alike in taking the title.

Outside of the games which had a direct bearing on the pennant races, there was little of importance in yesterday's major league program. Jimmie Foxx took a place in the spotlight as he walloped his forty-sixth home run of the season to help the Philadelphia Athletics beat Detroit, 5 to 2. Bill Werber, of Boston, also did some serious clouting, contributing two doubles and a triple to the Red Sox's 4-3 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

Another Bostonian, Ed Brandt, of the Braves, turned in a four-hit flinging performance to give his club a 3-0 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. The Brooklyn Dodgers had a field day at bat with three Chicago aces, Lon Warneke, Bud Tinning and Charley Root as their victims, and shellacked the Cubs 12 to 3.

Star Pitcher in Series

BILL HOFFMAN . . . IMMACULATE HEART MOUND ACE

Pitching in four games in as many days, two of them complete battles and two of them in relief role, Hoffman has proved himself the star of the National Baseball Federation series in progress on local fields. His team, Immaculate Heart, has come through all of its games with a clean slate and meets Youngstown in a semi-final round game today. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

SPORT VIGNETTES

It's getting so very few of our oldest inhabitants can recall when the playoff series in the City League got under way . . . Back in April, a news service poll of the sports writers picked the Yankees to win the pennant in the American League and the Pirates in the National, with the New York Giants sixth in their circuit . . . Now the Giants and Senators are first . . . The sports scribes can't be wrong; it must be the leagues.

Two thousand, nine hundred and eighty-three persons were registered with the Allegheny Mountain Association, of the A. A. U., during the past year, of whom 2,900 were athletes and the other 83 cross-country runners and weight-lifters . . . That fellow Majeske on the Immaculate Heart baseball team in the National Baseball Federation tournament is none other than Johnny Windsor, the light-heavyweight boxer . . . Paul Birch, of the same team, is the Dukes' basketball star, and Catcher Paul Lacher works in the stereotyping department of the very newspaper you are reading now.

Harry Newman, the Jewish lad from Cleveland, who followed in the footsteps of Benny Freidman as all-America quarterback at Michigan and makes his professional debut with the New York Giants against the Pittsburgh Pirates at Forbes Field tonight, is a nephew of Miles Finsterwald, head of the Fintex Corporation. . . . The Jewish football fans are going for him in a big way and he figures to be one of the league's best drawing cards, as Freidman always has been.

Ted Yarosz' second victory over Vince Dundee at Newark the other night should just about convince Dundee that his vanquisher is a little more than "just a guy with an awkward style who caught me on an off night," as he said following his first defeat, at Forbes Field . . . Among things the country can do very well without is Jack Sharkey's "comeback" campaign . . . If a defeat by King Levinsky is any part of a comeback, Jack had better try staying away.

Tony Herrera's defeat by Edouardo Duarry at Erie was not surprising, in view of the fact that two knockdowns decided the issue . . . Duarry showed in a couple of bouts here that he is a great puncher . . . Incidentally, there would be a good return match—Herrera and Duarry—for a local promoter to grab off, if we had a promoter and he had an arena in which to stage a show . . . Right now there isn't one who has the eggs to go along with ham for an order.

This day will be famous in local history for the fact that it sees the Pittsburgh Pirate baseballers end their home season and the Pittsburgh Pirate footballers pick up and try to win the National League pennant . . . The Pirate gridders, by the way, will use the military huddle made famous by Chick Meehan when he was coach at New York University.—HARRY KECK.

LOCAL TOSSERS GAIN TOURNEY SEMI-FINALS

The Immaculate Heart nine, Pittsburgh's representative in the National Baseball Federation title tourney in progress here, defeated Pontiac in its fourth-round game at Greenlee Field yesterday afternoon by a 7-to-6 score, and will meet Youngstown in a semi-final round game at the same park at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon.

The other semi-final contest brings Cleveland, the defending champion, and Dayton together, the game being scheduled for Frick Park at the same time.

Bill Hoffman won his third game of the tourney for Immaculate Heart yesterday. He relieved Anderson in the eighth, put down a threatening Pontiac rally and held the Michigan nine safe in the final inning.

In other fourth-round games yesterday, Dayton nosed out Flint, 4 to 2, and Cleveland eliminated Dearborn, 7 to 3. The scores:

BALD TO FACE TEST IN LOCAL NET PLAY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Three third-round frays and one quarter-final battle grace today's card as the eleventh annual Harvard Cup net tourney and the interscholastic singles championship of Allegheny County move on from the University of Pittsburgh courts to those of Shady Side Academy.

Blatt furnished yesterday's feature by thumping Bernard Greenberg, Allderdice crack, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5. The redoubtable Bald breezed through two rivals, Jim Holt, of Schenley, and Lewis Way, of Coraopolis, with total loss of but three games.

Rain cut short last evening's program in the Stanton Heights invitation men's doubles event with but one tussle completed. This lone melee saw the Edgewood combine, John Brown and Eddie Alcorn, nose out the home array of George Henderson and Karl Wolfe, 7-5, 6-4.

The Harvard Cup summary:

Second round, upper half—G. Laurent Blatt, Central Catholic, defeated Bernard Greenberg, Taylor Allderdice, 4-6, 6-3, 7-5; S. K. Pollock, Arnold School, defeated Ralph Logan, Allegheny, 6-3, 7-5.

Lower half—Ralph Bald, Mt. Lebanon, defeated James S. Holt, Schenley 6-0, 6-2; George Dixon, Carrick, won from Kenneth Ritenour, South Hills, by default.

Third round, upper half—Robert Burnett, Wilkinsburg, defeated Ray McColligan, Duquesne University Prep, 6-4, 6-4; William Miller, Taylor Allderdice, defeated Don C. Borland, Edgewood, 6-2, 6-3.

Lower half—Ralph Bald, Mt. Lebanon, defeated Lewis Way, Coraopolis, 6-1, 6-0; Allerton Miller, Shady Side Academy, defeated John Mogan, Carrick, 6-3, 8-6; James Arensberg, Shady Side Academy, defeated Charles Ammon, Coraopolis, 6-3, 6-0.

Miss Hilda Johnson won the McBride Park girls tennis title yesterday, defeating her sister, Loretta, 3-6, 7-5, 9-7 in the tourney finale. In the men's singles, Jack Raley defeated Jimmy Marsh, 6-0, 6-0 and Ralph Holt won over John Morgan, 6-0, 4-6, 6-3.

In the mixed doubles, Raley and Mary Burgin defeated Bud Galvin and Emma Boravich, 6-1, 6-1.

Harpster Believes Rules Now 'Changeproof'

By Howard Harpster

Carnegie Tech Head Football Coach. All-America Quarterback, 1929.

With the rule bringing the ball in 10 yards from the sideline when it is declared dead within that territory, I believe the Football Rules Committee has made its last major change for some time to come.

The rules committee and coaches alike feel the game now is practically as safe as it can be made by rules, and that it is interesting and pleasing to watch. In the past, it was utterly impossible for the general public to keep up with the game, for as soon as the rules were well learned for one season they would be changed for the following year, with the result that only the most ardent fans could keep pace with them. Not only was it confusing to the public, but it also was quite difficult for the officials, coaches and players to remember "the latest" in certain phases of the game.

Howard Harpster

PLAY CALLED BACK

A few years ago, a lateral pass which struck the ground was dead at the spot. The following year the lateral pass was made a free ball, which could be advanced by the offensive team or recovered by the defense. When the new ruling first came into effect, I worked out a lateral pass for my team for the opening kickoff, and we tried it out in one of our games. The quarterback received the ball and started up the center of the field. When about to be tackled, he turned and threw a lateral pass to a halfback near the sideline. The pass was short, but the halfback picked up the ball on the first bounce and ran some 50 yards, deep into the opponent's territory. The referee blew his whistle and declared the ball dead at the spot where it had struck the ground, and, accordingly, it was brought back and our 50-yard gain went for naught.

The official who called this play is well thought of in the Pittsburgh district, and works many games each season, but, with the frequent changing of the rules, he became momentarily confused and forgot that he was officiating in 1929 instead of in 1928.

Although it is rarely that an official becomes confused by the rule changes, it is common to see the players do things which are now illegal, although legal a season or two ago. For example, 1928 was the last year a defensive player could pick up a fumble and advance the ball, but even today, five years later, you will see often a long run by a defensive player after scooping up an opponent's fumble. A few of the spectators still will cheer the run, although for the most part the ruling is generally known and the largest

HULL REJOINS BOBCATS

STAR TO FACE DUKES HERE FRIDAY

By JESS CARVER

That bit of news out of Buckhannon yest'day to the effect that Clark Hull, hard-hitting fullback, had put in an unexpected but welcome appearance at West Virginia Wesleyan was not exactly calculated to cause Duquesne University's Dukes to break out with any wild cheering.

The Dukes have a football date with Wesleyan (to be known from here on as the Bobcats) Friday night at Forbes Field. The contest figured to be tough enough when it was taken into account that the Bobcats had a well drilled and heavy line, but now that Hull is back—look out!

HAD BROKEN JAW

Hull was smacked on the whiskers with a baseball this summer and suffered a fracture of the jaw bone. It was feared that he'd be unable to play football this fall, but Hull fooled 'em. He'll be in there Friday night and his presence in the Bobcat lineup means trouble and worriment to the Dukers.

The dope on the Bluff is that Jim MacDonald will be available for starting duty this week. Big Jim drew a mess of boils out of the grab bag of luck and was able to play only a minute or two against Waynesburg. He apparently has recovered now however, and they are counting on his starting at right halfback Friday.

FRESHMEN REPORT

Things are moving fairly smoothly at Pitt and Tech. The good Dr. Sutherland gave his Panthers two stiff sessions yesterday, sans scrimmage, and the freshmen reported to Dr. Skip Gougler.

At Tech, Howard Harpster continued its work with the backfield. He knows about as much how his backs will eventually line up as he knows about the age of Ali Ben Baba's pet camel and he never even heard of said beast.

Pitt and Tech made it known yesterday that any boy or girl under 14 years of age, with 15 cents, will be admitted to the football games at the Pitt Stadium this fall.

It looked like old home week as football coaches, players, officials and the plain, or garden variety of fans, turned up at the Keystone Club last night to hear Walter E. Okeson, Eastern football commissioner, discourse on the gridiron rules.

TITLE SERIES OPENED

Three mushball league championship series will be opened tonight. St. Joseph's Casino meets the Pittsburgh Celtics at the Stanton Heights Field in the first of three games for the East Liberty loop title. Walker Mills opposes Sturgeon at McDonald in the Panhandle League series liftlifter, and Cuddy and Beadling meet at Finks Field, Bridgeville.

for inspiration, Mancuso for steadying the pitchers, and Schaeffer for keeping 'em in shape.

FITZSIMMONS BEST KNUCKLE-BALL HURLER

Culminating in his narrow escape from serious injury when hit by a batted ball, this season has been a rough one for Fred Fitzsimmons, a series of ups and downs, with many disappointments and bad breaks in spite of his hard work as a member of the Giants' Big Four. But he has continued to be the standout of the majors at one specialty, the only pitcher in the big show who can throw the knuckle ball with speed. Others use it as a floater, and many of them use it as a change-of-pace ball.

Fred Fitzsimmons

Fitzsimmons says he had the knuckler when he joined the Giants in 1925, but could not put anything behind it. Only in the last five years has he mastered the trick of throwing it with speed. He thinks it would take any pitcher that long to develop a really good knckle ball. And the hurler must teach it to himself, Fitzsimmons adds. The instructor can do little more than tell the pitcher how the ball is held, just as Carl Hubbell can't explain what he does just when that screw ball leaves his fingers. Incidentally, one of the first men to perfect the knuckler, if not actually the inventor, was a Pittsburgher, Lew Moren, while with the Phillies from 1907 to 1910.

NAVY TO PRESENT FAMOUS STARS HERE

When the Navy football team meets Pitt here on October 14, not only will two of the favorite teams for the eastern championship be out to try to eliminate each other from the race, but three of the outstanding gridders of the East will be making their first Pittsburgh appearance.

The three stars slated to perform for the Navy are Chung-Hoon, famous Hawaiian halfback; Bob Harbold, crack center, and Fid Murray, brilliant pass-receiving end. Chung-Hoon, who started out in Hawaii kicking a football with his bare feet, is one of the greatest forward passers in the country, a fine kicker and shifty in the open field. A good passer always has been poison to the Panthers, and Chung-Hoon is just that.

HARBOLD NOTED AS VICIOUS TACKLER

Harbold, the Navy center, is a brother of the famous old Army end of that name. Navy coaches pronounce him the most vicious tackler to don a football uniform at Annapolis for many a year. So rugged and durable is Harbold that the Navy strategy board has decided to move his veteran understudy, Cutter, a 210-pounder, over to a tackle berth and rely on an untried newcomer on the squad to replace Harbold if that ever is necessary, which the coaches appear to doubt.

Bob Harbold

Fid Murray, star end and captain, is likely to be on the receiving end of most of Chung-Hoon's passes. He has one of the best pairs of hands in the game when it comes to snaring aerials, and it is not expected he will be put to any great effort to catch the accurate leaves of the Hawaiian. Murray has been a regular for two seasons, and has played against the best and held his own with them. His duel with Pitt's Muggsy Skladany ought to be well worth watching, and reminiscent of the Donchess-Fesler battle of 1929.

Quigley, Pro Gridders With Seals Tonight

ERNIE QUIGLEY

A talk on football by Ernie Quigley, National League umpire and famous football official, and a parade of the professional players who will inaugurate the National League season at Forbes Field will make up the weekly program of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight.

A number of the players of the Pittsburgh and New York clubs will be brought before the microphone to speak to the fans before going out to Forbes Field for their inaugural battle.

Quigley is no stranger to Trained Seals fans. He has been on the program before, speaking on baseball. He is just as much a big league football man as he is a major league baseball official.

This will be the last Wednesday evening program of the Seals. Beginning next week they will be heard on Thursdays at 7:15 o'clock.

ESPINOSA REPEATS

AKRON, O., Sept. 20.—(AP.)—With a score of 277 for 72 holes, five strokes below par, Al Espinosa, professional at Akron Portage, yesterday retained his crown in the Ohio open golf championship. Al Alcroft, of Youngstown, finished second with 282, two strokes under perfect figures. Lloyd Gullickson, of Cleveland, and Ed Kerby, of Akron, were tied for third with 285 each.

MEDA VICTOR

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 20.—(AP.)—W. N. Reynolds' Meda, driven by Ben White, won the forty-first renewal of the Kentucky Futurity handily yesterday in 2:03½, and 2:03½. The first heat equalled the season's record for 3-year-old trotters.

CASEY EXPECTS FEWER GRID INJURIES

By EDDIE CASEY.

Member All-America Board of Football. (Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.)

A number of requests have been received asking me to reply to Dr. Stevens—hoping, I presume, that I would challenge his remarks. I am in complete accord with his statements regarding the necessity of eliminating dangerous play, and especially low tackling. Low tackling is not necessary, and few coaches stress it today. A hard running, shifty back cannot be stopped that way, but must be tackled high to bring him down. Furthermore, there is not only the element of physical danger to the man tackled below the knees, but also great danger to the man tackling because of the way in which the bodies fall.

Eddie Casey

My opinion is that 1933 will see fewer injuries because of new regulations and improved precautions.

NAVY FAVORED OVER ARMY

With champions in tennis and traditional winners in all fields of sport getting their bumps, why wouldn't 1933 be the year for the Navy to turn the football tables and beat the Army? With Rip Miller and his Notre Dame system firmly intrenched at Annapolis, and with a brand new football administration at West Point just getting its bearings, my tip to the Middies is—"This looks like your year!" And while it is a little early to hazard a guess, I'm willing to take a chance and would like to be the first to pick the Navy to win in November.

Cornell and Pennsylvania always are possible leaders in any football season. Dobie's team did not finish strong last year, but the old master undoubtedly will bring his team down the stretch in good trim this season. Penn earned a sweet victory in the final game last season against the Ithacans and is out to duplicate last year's feat.

COLUMBIA TO BE STRONG

I look for Columbia to continue its upward surge this year. In my opinion, the Lions have one of the ablest coaches in the country in Lou Little. His success in developing winning teams is almost unsurpassed in the East. As a cornerstone to a great football structure the Lions have one of the great backfield performers of recent years in Capt. Montgomery, and he should raise havoc with Columbia's opponents.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—I see Babe Ruth denies he is going to retire. The Babe claims he will remain in baseball as long as his legs are good. That is just as long as Marlene Dietrich will last in moving pictures.

Nick Altrock

Just the same, when he's gone, lots of people are going to miss the Babe—and I don't mean just the folks that run hot dog stands. Babe is still the only guy in baseball that can bunt a three-bagger.

I guess he won't be snatching any $100,000 salary next year, but at the same time you won't find Mr. Ruth signing up for peanuts, either. I understand Babe has got enough socked away in the bank to keep the coyotes off his rubber doormat for good. And he's been a free spender, at that. I know some ball players that when they start saving for a rainy day you would think they were saving for a flood.

But Babe is one of the few guys that could eat his cake and have it, too. And more power to any one who could sock money in a bank and still have the bank open.

VALLEY SCHOOL TEAMS BUSY

By JULIUS LEVIN

Quite an attractive schedule of high school football games will be offered the fans in the Allegheny Valley this week-end when contenders for the W. P. I. A. L. championships swing into action.

The two most important engagements find Butler at Vandergrift on Saturday and Leechburg at Springdale on Friday. Butler was eliminated from the class A race last season by Vandergrift and will be out to avenge that 6-0 setback.

Springdale, co-champion in class B in 1932, faces its first test of the season in Leechburg. Springdale this season is operating as a class A school. Herb Ripper, Springdale coach, has been forced to rebuild his championship eleven.

Tarentum High School, coached by Johnny Dreshar, former Carnegie Tech star, hopes to start its regular season with a victory over Etna High School in a night duel at Tarentum Friday. Tarentum was beaten in a pre-season contest by an aggressive alumni aggregation, 6-0.

RULES OKAYED BY HARPSTER

NEW RULE HELPS

More recently, "the dead ball rule" was put into effect. It stipulates that the ball is dead when any part of the runner's person except his hands or feet touches the ground. Although this is a splendid rule, and helps to eliminate piling on and injuries, it is hardly fair to expect all runners to stay down after hitting the ground when they have been taught for years to jump up and continue until put down.

I am for letting the rules alone for a time and so enable the officials to do their work more easily, the coaches to work out new plays, instead of continually deciphering the rules, the players to make fewer mistakes, and the public to know what's going on. My platform is for no more rule changes, to simplify the rules we have, and for everyone to have a little fun instead of all work out of the game.

SASSO WINNER IN TOURNEY

Leonard Sasso, of Chartiers Heights, who shot a 74 to lead the qualifiers in the annual Chartiers Heights invitation tournament yesterday, reached the second round when he defeated Dr. H. C. Metz, 5 and 4.

One of the surprises was the defeat of Fred Brand, Jr., 2 and 1, by Al Avetta.

In other matches played in the championship flight, J. F. Kraft defeated A. G. Barclay, 6 and 5; Sid Carson defeated E. A. Eisenbeis, 8 and 7; Robert Barr defeated Bill Mercer, 3 and 2; R. B. Parker defeated John Harper, 1 up; C. H. Schusler defeated Pat McDonough, 1 up, and S. H. Fairweather defeated Tom Barr, 3 and 2.

SAGS, RALLIES BLUR MARKET PICTURE

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Topsy-turvey financial markets today presented an enigma to bullish and bearish forces alike as contrary trends appeared in most speculative and investment categories.

Stocks seemingly were inclined to the hysterical and a series of slumps and rallies blurred the trading picture in such a manner that its outlines generally were indiscernible. Prices broke shortly after the opening under a barrage of profit taking. The ticker tape ran behind and large blocks of the recent favorites were sold for losses of 1 to 3 or more points. Then there was a moderate recovery and another sag in the second hour. The activity tended to die down on the mild rallies. Grains, cotton and other commodities were rather heavy. The dollar dropped to a new low in terms of gold currencies, but steadied later. Highest grade bonds continued weak.

Metal shares failed to respond to another advance in the price of gold to $32.28 an ounce. United States Smelting was off about 4, while losses of 1 to 2 or more were recorded by Cerro de Pasco, Kennecott, American Smelting, Anaconda, Alaska Juneau and St. Joseph Lead. Homestake gave up 10 points. Other losers of 1 to 3 or more included American Telephone, United States Steel, New York Central, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, National Distillers, Chrysler, Allied Chemical, Case, American Can, Western Union, Westinghouse and Goodycar. Even the oils were easier.

Financial observers seemingly were unable to give an explanation for the weird actions of the security and commodity markets. Economic and inflationary indications were of such a contradictory nature, commission houses reported, that the outlook was one of much uncertainty.

The speculative contingent was highly interested in the remarks of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace at Chicago regarding the probability of higher prices for cereals "within a few months, perhaps within a few weeks, if some of our plans mature properly." A little confusing to the inflationists was the Secretary's quoted opinion that "there is danger that optimism, price-fixing and inflation will all of them tend to increase rather than reduce the lack of balance resulting from our creditor position, our high tariffs, our surplus acres and our excess stocks of fundamental goods."

Reports of heavy foreign selling of American securities during the past several days were not verified by leading brokerage houses which handle considerable European business. While there have been a number of small selling orders from abroad—mostly in the odd-lot or 100-share class—little sizeable liquidation has been in evidence. The greater part of the selling, it was said, has been coming from London and continental banks which, apparently, were acting for their customers.

Just what the foreign stake in American securities is at the present time is a question. Bankers in a position to form a rough estimate believe it is not large. During the past spring and summer there was said to have been much important speculative purchasing. Profit taking, however, is believed to have greatly reduced the aggregate. Most large investments, acquired by foreigners last year, are understood to have been liquidated during the summer.

Dollar exchange began the day here with a sharp decline. Sterling rose 5 cents to $4.85 at the opening, or almost its old parity, compared with the year's high of $4.86 1/2. French francs climbed 9 points to 6.14 cents, a new peak.

WHEAT TAKES TUMBLE

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Wheat futures dropped nearly 2 cents to 95 3/4 cents early today before meeting with support while corn tumbled more than a cent to 54 3/8 cents. There was a moderate recovery but the buying lacked aggressiveness and prices ruled near the early lows.

Oats and rye displayed strong resistence to the selling, the former easing fractionally. Liverpool was 1/4 to 3/8d higher and Winnipeg was unchanged to 1/8 cent higher.

A rallying tendency developed as a result of somewhat enlarged buying on setbacks. Recoveries, however, were confined mostly to about a cent a bushel, and were not well maintained.

Letters Show Public's Mind Now Stirred

By B. C. FORBES

MEN'S MINDS are stirred. Never before did so many communications pour into this column. They come from all classes, from our Owen D. Youngs and other large employers, from merchants, from small real estate owners harassed by inability to meet mortgages, from tenants, from wage earners galore, from bankers and many from individuals unable to borow from banks, from salesmen and sales managers, from amateur economists, from dreamers who have sure-fire panaceas to cure everything.

Mr. Forbes

If it be true that prosperity lulls, it assuredly is true that depression arouses.

LET US, today, consider pointed extracts from some of the more timely letters received.

"We are offering our salesmen, who work on a commission basis, a 25 per cent commission bonus plus extra cash prizes, for September should they reach a minimum of 100 per cent of their quota.

"Coming at the height of the oil-burning season, we feel that this is a real contribution to the 'Buy in September' campaign. We quite agree with your recent statement that, if we are going to stimulate buying power, we must first stimulate earning power."

DIRECTOR D. P. Porterfield, United Typothetae of America, in commending this column's indorsement of vigorous selling campaigns, encloses a just-issued bulletin headed: "Printing Orders Won't Grow on Codes." A pithy extract:

"President Roosevelt recently said, 'I ask that management give first consideration to improvement of operating figures by greatly increased sales. Under codes, just as formerly, the money to pay wages must come from the only possible source, namely, from sales at a profit. The best they can do is to organize to make sales and then apportion a fair share of the proceeds of sales to wages."

A PATHETIC letter:

"We are an aged couple who have all we own invested in a very attractive store-building which was leased at $250 a month, but now rented at $140. The tenant has signed the NRA and threatens to move if we don't cut still more.

"We cannot afford to let him go as this is our bread and butter. Expenses on the place are $440 taxes, interest on $7,000 insurance, maintenance of street lights, etc.

A. P. IZARD, National Tailoring Company:

"Millions of people happily engaged in open shops want no interference by labor union leaders. Yet these millions have no representation whatever in any of the NRA considerations.

"They do not want to pay any unnecessary dues to labor leaders. Yet union labor leaders through intimidation are attempting to force these people to join their union, arguing that they cannot get the benefits of NRA unless they do. This is a mistake."

L. F. BIRDSONG, of Birdsong & Potchernick:

"Almost all NRA efforts are directed toward the employer as the one to make the proposition work. The greatest amount of pressure and propaganda should be directed toward the consumer or buyer, who should stop chiseling methods and permit the seller to make a small profit.

"The government itself must, without further delay and red tape, get money in circulation by spending. The three-and-a-half billion dollar recovery fund is as nothing unless it is spent and spent at once."

"Our president has had printed on the back of all our salesmen's calling cards this statement written by you: 'Every order I book puts men and women to work and hastens the return of prosperity and happiness.'"

EDWARD L. SMEAD, Mexico:

"Why not prohibit the import of everything from countries which have defaulted either in interest or principal of their debt to the United States, unless payment for goods is applied toward liquidation of overdue debts?"

Moves to Hasten Loans to Farmers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—A plan to hasten the flow of money into the farm belt so as to get it moving at the rate of $50,000,000 a month by December was outlined today by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., governor of the Farm Credit Administration.

His plan contemplates putting $400,000,000 into the farm belt through farm mortgage loans in the next six months.

GOLD STANDARD ABANDONMENT UNLIKELY

By LEWIS HANEY,
Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—There has been considerable talk lately concerning the possibility of a general abandonment of the gold standard. Most of the discussion centers in the question, can France be forced off gold?

Unquestionably France is having difficulty in solving the problem of balancing her budget. Some observers reason that she will eventually resort to inflation again, and give up her adherence to gold. This, they think, would carry the whole world off and possibly result in a permanent change in our attitude toward the precious metal.

In that event, say they, there would be no demand for gold except in the arts—for jewelry, dentistry, etc.—and the value of gold would thus be reduced.

NEED SOME STANDARD

This chain of events seems to me to be highly unrealistic and improbable.

1—In the first place, I reason that some standard for money is a practical necessity. The so-called "commodity standard" is really no standard at all. (It is just an average of the prices of many commodities, and its meaning depends on which one of them you are interested in. As a means of regulating prices by a "managed currency," it is utterly futile, because you could get the same average price in several hundred different ways). So we must have some definite quantity of a suitable substance as a basis of comparison.

2—In the second place, no substance has proved as good as gold for this purpose. I will not restate the reason here, but will merely say the temporary breakdown of the gold standard has been the result of extraordinary, abnormal and (I believe) passing conditions.

Are foreign trade, or the Democratic form of government, things of the past? They have broken down, too. Our system of banking broke down—is banking therefore bad?

PREDICTS COMEBACK

Once debts are settled, and the economic warfare of today is ended, all these things will again function.

In an insane asylum, a sane man seems out of place. So in an economically mad world, sound institutions and practices seem to break down. No monetary standard could work under such artificial and abnormal conditions as have prevailed during the last three years.

3—In the third place, I ask, what is the reason for the vast gold hoards of the United States and France? What about the sizeable gold reserves of the Bank of England? Do you think Uncle Sam wants to have his billions of gold demonetized?

On all sides we see governments and banks continuing to acquire gold.

WOULD LOSE FORTUNES

The United States and French governments would lose enormous assets if their gold piles lost value. More than that, our government is doubtless figuring on a big profit when it decides to revalue the gold it has taken away from us. It is the biggest gold speculator in the world. What chance is there, then, that it would favor cutting the value away from its hoard?

England, too, has large bank reserves in gold, and I think she would use her exchange equalization fund for the purpose of maintaining the price of gold, thus preventing losses.

4. Individuals everywhere tend to hoard gold as debased currencies are resorted to. Men distrust "paper money" as being mere credit. Such money is subject to political control and to "management" for doubtful social reforms and business recovery schemes.

5—We need some foreign trade and exchange. But this would be very difficult without a single and definite standard. And different "managed currencies," not freely convertible into the standard, would not work.

So I do not see any decreased interest in gold, nor any probability that it will lose its value. I doubt that there will be any general abandonment of the gold standard—unless world conditions should get so bad that neither you nor I would desire to consider the possibilities.

POWER OUTPUT GAIN LARGER

"I never smoke before breakfast, and I didn't dare ring or holler. When a gentleman is having his beauty sleep it doesn't seem fair to wake him up."

"A girl of thoughtfulness as well as of beauty and charm," laughed Durant.

"Have I got those things?" she asked.

"Can you doubt it?" he countered.

Her smile was quizzical. "I can't be too sure," she told him. "I suppose you want your shower. You need a shave, too."

Durant blushed. "I could do with both," he admitted.

Invited to Stay

She kicked the covers from her, and a pair of tiny feet hit the floor. She looked absurdly young in his voluminous pajamas.

"I'm all bathed and laved and fresh and fragrant," she chuckled. "While you're taking your bath I'll get dressed. But hurry, because I'm starved."

He hurried; in exactly 12 minutes he came out upon the penthouse porch to find her busied with breakfast.

"Couldn't wait," she informed him. "I'm healthy. That gloomy old valet of yours has had two shocks. One was at finding me here and the other was at my appetite."

"He'll be used to those shocks in a few days," said Durant.

The girl set down her coffee cup. "I don't get you," she said.

"It's cool up here. With the whole town baking, can you imagine a pleasanter spot than this? I'll get you a backless bathing suit and you can get a better tan than you would at Atlantic City."

"Said the spider to the fly, eh? Only," and her eyes narrowed, "you're a funny kind of spider. I never met a spider like you."

"You mean you don't like me?"

"I mean I think you're swell. But—why would you want me to stay here? You—well, I don't have to finish it. You don't exactly crave me." She stared at him. "Still in love with somebody else—or just decent?"

"Maybe I think you're decent," he evaded.

"What made you think that? A girl that comes up to a man's apartment ——"

"But she doesn't have to stay for the sunrise, and then to see the sunset," she objected.

"If she's a really swell girl, she might stay a couple of weeks," he said.

Over the rim of her coffee cup she looked a question.

"I'm going to be frank with you," he told her. "I'm going to tell you why I kept you here last night."

"I know why you didn't keep me," she giggled.

"Don't be too challenging," he advised.

"If a challenge is to be accepted, I'm the original champion defier," she said.

Asks for Ring

He ignored this. "I think you have courage," he said. "You guessed last night that I wanted to question you about Mimi's death. You might also have guessed that if Siddall didn't kill her, whoever did shoot her might object to sudden friendship between us?"

"I guessed that," she said simply. "And while I'd seen you around town and was tickled to death when Tony made a date for me with you, I still wasn't prepared to take any risks for you. But I am now. I like you. Better than that. What do you want me to do? Do you honestly think Siddall didn't kill Mimi?"

"I honestly think so," he replied.

She frowned slightly. "If I didn't like you at all I'd take big chances to get the person that bumped off Mimi. The way I feel about you, I'd take big chances anyway. What do you want me to do?"

"I want you to stay here. I don't want you to leave here, for any reason whatsoever, until I say so. Now, will you lend me that diamond ring of yours?"

"Ooh, just a gigolo, after all, eh? My bank account is in the Fifth National. Do I write a check for all of it?"

He shook his head. He liked the mockery in her big black eyes. And as she handed him the ring which she took from her finger the pajama jacket slipped from one shoulder and its rounded softness was as entrancing as her throat.

"I'm accepting jewelry this year, but no money," he grinned. "And now, if you'll let me have the key to your apartment I'll be running along."

"Mercy me! You ask almost everything, don't you? And what's that for?"

"If you're moving in here for a couple of weeks you'll need your things. I'm getting them."

"There might be a lot of talk if people knew I was living with you," she reminded him.

"And that wouldn't be too good for you, would it?"

Sees Pawnbroker

She shrugged carelessly. "I know what I am and I don't care a hoot what other people think. But you—what about you?"

"I don't care, either."

"And you honestly think I'd better stay here?"

He chuckled. "No; I'm merely trying to take advantage of you."

"Keep trying; you may have luck," she smiled.

Yet she departed from her gay mood long enough to promise him faithfully that she would remain in his apartment. And as he went out, he took Layton aside and warned him that Miss Waxted might be in danger and that he relied upon the valet to protect her. Then, with the key to her apartment and her diamond ring in his pocket, he took a taxi to the pawnshop of Levitoff, the man whose testimony was the clinching bit of evidence against Tom Siddall.

"You want five hundred on this ring?" The pawnbroker eyed his customer shrewdly. He pushed the ring back across the counter. "Not interested," he said.

"Why not? It's genuine, isn't it?"

Levitoff nodded. "Sure it is. But you ain't. Why does Jackson Durant, with all his money, want to borrow on a girl's ring? The answer is, he doesn't. He wants to look over old Levitoff. Well, look at him." He straightened up and stared defiantly at his would-be customer.

"Much obliged. Now you look at me. Suppose I offer to lend you five hundred on no security at all? What then?" asked Durant.

"I'd still say I ain't interested," said Levitoff. "Now get out before I call the police and tell them that a witness against Siddall is being threatened by a lawyer that's working for Siddall."

"Who said I was working for Siddall?" asked Durant.

THE MESSAGE

Jim was camping with his scout troop when the scout-master handed him a message to be delivered many miles away without delay. Halfway Jim met friends picnicing. They invited him to join their feast. With aching heart Jim refused but delivered the message and brought the answer, as instructed "without delay." Who, do you think felt better that evening, the picnicers or Jim? (Character Building)

SOLAR SYSTEM'S BIRTH

There are different theories about it. Laplace's nebular theory advanced the breaking apart of a spiral nebula as cause, the nucleus becoming the sun and the peripheral parts the planets. A newer theory sees the cause in the gravitational pull of a giant star passing near the sun millions of years ago. The giant star pulled masses of burning gases from the sun—which was much bigger than today. These gases whirled about their own axis and about the sun forming later the planets and their moons, as shown above. (Craig, Johnson: Pathways in Science.)

ELECTROLYTIC HYDROGEN-OXYGEN GENERATOR

It is an electric cell filled with acid or alkali solution. The anode is nickelplated. Electric direct current liberates oxygen at the anode (+ electrode) and hydrogen at the cathode (— electrode). An asbestos diaphragm is placed between each pair of electrodes, so the gases are separated and very pure. The cell furnishes per used kilowatt hour electric power 3.75 cubic feet oxygen and 7.5 cubic feet hydrogen. (Thompson: Electrochemistry.)

HAMMURAPI RECEIVING LAWS FROM SUN-GOD

Like the Nile, the Euphrates-Tigris Valley had an early culture, one of the foremost being that of the Babylonians. They believed their laws came from the Sun-God. Hammurapi (2240-2185 B. C.) the founder, ruler and lawgiver, laid down a code which in part reads like a document of today. His empire extended from the Persian Gulf to the Mediterranean Sea. After him the power of the first Babylonian Empire declined. (Pahlow: Man's Great Adventures.) (World History.)

SIR HUMPHREY CLAIMS (1583) NEW FOUNDLAND

Sir Humphrey's voyage is of importance, as the Royal British patent he obtained called distinctly for discovery and occupation of heathen land not possessed by any Christian prince. He landed and took possession of Newfoundland in the name of Queen Elizabeth, but perished at sea while returning with the remains of his crippled expedition. THE TWO-STROKE OTTO CYCLE ENGINE

It completes suction, compression, explosion and exhaust in two strokes.

1. Piston moving upward compresses gasoline vapor and air mixture, preparing it for a more efficient explosion. An electric spark from the spark-plug causes the explosion, and the piston is pressed downward.

2. At the end of this stroke the piston sets free the exhaust and transfer ports. Through the former the combustion gases escape, through the latter the air—compressed by the piston in the crank case—enters. The outward rush of the exhaust gases creates vacuum in the cylinder which opens the check-valve, sucking in gasoline vapor and additional air from the carburetor. The two-cycle engine is simple and powerful (no exhaust and intake valves and governing mechanism and twice as many explosions as in the four-cycle engine) but wasteful in fuel. Therefore its use is restricted. (Elliott & Consoliver: The Gasoline Automobile.) (Transportation.)

ROOTS

After the Constitution had been accepted, many problems arose over the interpretation of the individual passages. It was John Marshall, chief justice, 1801-1835, who expounded this fundamental law. He ruled: . . . "The Supreme Court is the proper tribunal to pass finally upon the validity of the laws" . . . —opening the way to correct possible errors of legislation. Junior Patrol Mail Box

Wear your badge, fellows!

Every now and then we hear from a Junior Patrol member who has lost his badge or card. When they tell us about it and send a new pledge slip or copy of a pledge slip we send them a new card and badge right away.

The Junior Patrol membership campaign is still going on. If we can, we would like to have twice as many kids belonging to the Junior Patrol by Thanksgiving than we have now. The bigger your club, the more fun you can have. You can form teams to play football and basketball and you can have committees in charge of all your parties and outings.

Some clubs report that they are having a lot of fun with contests. One good contest we have heard about is a spelling bee. The leader should be someone who can pronounce all the words correctly, and he should hold a dictionary. The contestants can either spell the words out loud or write them down on paper.

That reminds us—there is a dandy contest in the American Weekly Magazine that comes with every Sunday Sun-Telegraph. Look it up, fellows, and ask your parents to look it up. Maybe you can win a wonderful prize.

Here's a letter from Lois Morrison, of Sandy Creek road, Wilkinsburg. We remember that we didn't have her right address before and that's why she didn't get a new badge and card when she asked for them before. She writes:

"I would like to start a club but there is not enough children to start a club in this neighborhood. I want to tell you that most children are careful about crossing the road. I most always wait till all children get across the road, then I go across."

Maybe there are more children in your neighborhood than you think, Lois. We are glad that you are so careful and we know that most children are careful crossing streets.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am.
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.

What Is to Be Will Be

With all our codes and gadgeteering we still scramm along at our old established gait. So far as we can figure, you cannot make a thing happen until it gets here.

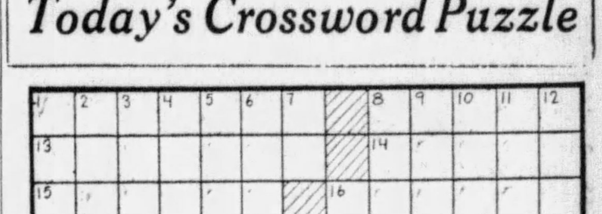
You can't startle the public much. Take away its beer and it invents substitutes. Take away the substitutes and it invents beer.

Thirteen years later it is told it can have beer again. It celebrated for a night and a day. Then it went fishing.

There were no torchlight parades or skyrockets. The only squawk on the new beer was from the younger punks who had never tasted the old. The old battle cry was, "Keep the government out of business." Now, if the government wasn't in business there wouldn't be any business.

The farmers get paid for plowing their crops under. Next year they dig it up again and sell it for medicinal roots and herbs. You can borrow money from Washington to pay a man who lives in Portland or you can be born in Maine and draw an old-age pension in Arkansas.



You can be divorced in Nevada, married in Pennsylvania and be single in Georgia, all at the same time. Nobody cares what happens so long as it doesn't happen to them. This is a Democratic government and every move is a novelty. We guarantee a surprise in every package.

Twenty years ago we denounced every thing socialistic. Now, we are way past the stage. We used to be envious of bankers who went to work at nine and quit at three. Now, we all work five days a week and we didn't have to pay a doctor five dollars for the advice.

Are we getting effeminate or merely sensible? Nobody knows and nobody gets indignant enough to write a letter to the editor of a magazine. We are drifting along with the tide and making daisy chains out of the seaweed. That's the way it should be. Nobody can astonish us after Arizona voted wet. Like the eleven of diamonds, we didn't think it was in the cards.

There ain't a bit of gold in circulation these days and nobody misses it. We still have that sturdy old pocket battleship, the American dollar bill. So why worry? The greatest necessities of life are cigarets and postage stamps. And they can always be borrowed.

A Campaign for Pure Air

Neighboring Communities Should Be Asked to Aid in The Attack on Atmospheric Pollution.

Dr. W. W. McFarland, director of the City Health Department, has done a commendable thing in appointing a committee of distinguished local scientists and physicians to organize a campaign for the purification of the air.

It is now generally recognized that impurities in the air—and we have in mind, not disease-breeding bacteria but smoke and dust—are contributory factors, if not directly responsible, for diseases of the respiratory system and other ills.

The Journal of the American Medical Association referred to these evils only last week in an editorial entitled "Stop the Dust." And the American Journal of the Medical Sciences treats of the same subject in an article in its August number by H. B. Meller, head of the air pollution investigation of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research and chief of the City Bureau of Smoke Regulation.

A vigorous attack on atmospheric contamination is to be welcomed; but the effort, to attain the largest possible measure of success, should not be confined to the city. The co-operation of all the neighboring boroughs and cities should be sought.

Consecrating a Bishop

Pittsburghers of All Faiths Will Bid Father Hayes Godspeed in His New Mission.

Pittsburgh is to witness tomorrow one of the most impressive and colorful ceremonies of the Catholic Church—the consecration of a bishop.

The occasion will be doubly interesting by reason of the fact that the recipient of the honor is a native son of Pittsburgh and one of the greatly loved priests of the local diocese—the Most Rev. Ralph L. Hayes, D. D.

Father Hayes, who has been appointed Bishop of Helena, Mont., by Pope Pius XI, was born in the West End on September 21, 1884; he is to be consecrated, accordingly, on his forty-ninth birthday. He is the first boy born and reared in Pittsburgh to be elevated to the episcopate. He has been connected with various of the local parish churches, most recently as pastor of St. Catherine's in Beechview, and for eight years was superintendent of Pittsburghs' parochial schools.

Pittsburghers of all faiths are proud of the honor that Father Hayes has brought the city, and will bid him godspeed in his new mission.

Rising Prices

The Way to Meet the Situation Is to Strive to Put More Money in the Hands of the Consumers.

The State Relief Board has at last sensibly taken cognizance of the rise in the cost of living and has raised the weekly food allowance for persons on the welfare list from 90 cents to $1.10 a week.

Miss Jessie J. Turnbull, president of the Hospital Association of Pennsylvania, also calls attention in a public statement to the advance in commodity prices, which is adding considerably to the difficulties that the hospitals are experiencing in meeting their bills.

The situation may as well be faced boldly. While the administration at Washington promises to guard against unconscionable profiteering, an advance in commodity prices is part of the recovery plan and is expected to be beneficial ultimately to all classes of the people.

The proper way to overcome the temporary difficulties that it may create, as in the case of the hospitals of which Miss Turnbull speaks, is to put more money in the hands of the consumers.

The rise in prices, by stimulating buying, and thus increasing the production of goods and leading to the employment of more workers, will help to accomplish that very end—that is, to provide the people with additional money to meet the advance in commodity costs.

High School in Prison

Convicts' Educational Attainments Speak Well for the Western Penitentiary.

Three prisoners in the Western Penitentiary have reached a new peak in convicts' educational attainments by passing, with good marks, pre-professional examinations in high school algebra and English conducted by the Department of Public Instruction.

They studied in the prison school, and also through correspondence courses.

Their achievements are a testimonial to the good management of the penitentiary. They bear witness that criminals are not merely being punished but are being fitted to take honorable places in society on their release.

What a fine tribute it is to Warden Stanley P. Ashe that he has been able to kindle ambition—ambition of the right kind—in his proteges!

Elm Trees Threatened

Let Everybody Help the Department of Agriculture in Its Efforts to Save Them.

The spreading chestnut tree, under which the village smithy stood, is dead; and so are all our chestnut trees, killed by a mysterious blight.

Now comes the distressing announcement that another of our majestic shade trees—the American elm, called by Michaux, the French botanist, "the most magnificent vegetable of the temperate zone"—is threatened.

The Department of Agriculture at Harrisburg reports that a serious epidemic disease has appeared in elm trees in Ohio and New Jersey. Pennsylvanians are asked to co-operate in an effort to save our own elms.

If you find the leaves of an elm tree wilting, curling up, becoming dry and crisp while still green, and dropping prematurely, you are asked to cut a twig the size of a lead pencil or slightly larger and approximately eight inches long, and send it to K. W. Lauer, Bureau of Plant Industry, Harrisburg, Pa., for microscopic examination.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Bouquets and Brickbats

"Dear Helen Rowland," writes Faith Baldwin, famous author of many delightful best-sellers, "Count me out on that 'Denatured Marriage' gag. That Doctor from Hawaii (who seems to have been married 30 years, old-fashioned style, to the same Frau) asked me for an opinion.

* * *

"I wrote and said it was a swell idea for folks with lots of money and temperament. Otherwise, the bunk. I suffer intensely in my common sense to feel that you would believe me capable of such muddled thoughts. More power to you—etc. Yours, Is-MY-Face-Red.

"FAITH BALDWIN."

Miss Baldwin refers to an article in which I kidded the idea, originated by a psychiatrist and presumably advocated by many famous writers, that husband and wife should occupy separate establishments, to preserve the romance and charm of marriage.

* * *

I heartily agree with Miss Baldwin that for most people "twin-establishments" would be the bunk. But, for temperamentalists and those who are married to them, I should go the doctor one better, and recommend separate cities.

* * *

"Since when," writes a highly interesting and ultra-modern young woman, "did the feminine 'soul and instinct' become purer and higher than the masculine? Our grandmothers were forced to adopt a saintliness which they were far from feeling, because of their financial dependence upon men.

"We girls of 1933 do not feel that marriage and men are God's gift to women. Where is your spirit, Miss Rowland, to advocate the double standard or anything even remotely resembling it? Women have adopted this (the modern) mode of life, in order to show man that they will not TOLERATE philanderings."

* * *

So! Women have decided to take up philandering, in order to show men that they won't TOLERATE "philandering." A war to end all wars!

* * *

Of course, no man can philander, all by HIMSELF. So, women have decided to help him out, in order to restrain him. And this is the logical argument I always receive, whenever I suggest that women are playing man's game and handing him all the trump-cards!

* * *

Grandmother may have been a "whited sepulchre" (although I don't believe it) but you can't help reflecting that she got a lot more out of love and marriage than women get today. And in grandfather's day, when a husband wandered from his Own Fireside, it was NEWS!

NEWPORT DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 20.—This de luxe Elysium for the staple rich shows something of depression's wear and tear. At least the edges are frayed. And even famous Bellevue avenue and the hidden chalets slumped 10 miles along its shore do not suggest much sparkle for Maury Paul's society chat.

Many were not open all summer. Newport's sinking spell antedates the Wall street crackup. A newer generation of rich leisure seekers has turned to the Hamptons, East and South, on Long Island. Yet seasoned wealth, especially the grande dames, clings to this spa for the well born.

Such names as Gould, Astor, Lowe, Geolet, Vanderbilt and Belmont are conspicuous as home owners. Social bars are still racked high, but a few of the nouveaux riches have hurdled them. In ways America's grandest residential area, its hotels are second rate and need the plumber's art.

The business center suggests Weimar, Germany. In the center a quaint old square, with antiquated band stand and sidewalks, is dotted with the comfortably retired. The neatly clipped white mustache reigns. No see-saw of Palm Beach's youthful spirits. Age is in the saddle.

* * *

However, Newport's perfumed purlieus are still suffocating with footmen-on-the-box grandeur. The proletariat feels it doesn't belong amid the high hedges, iron fences and bricked walls that enclose the mammoth mansions. In this district sidewalks are never used. No one thinks of walking. The idea!

* * *

Bailey Beach is a celebrated stretch of sea coast. During season no other shore is so studded with 18-karat society page names. Yet Jones beach, for a natural setting and vista, has it beaten all hollow. Beyond Bailey is another beach for exclusive use of chauffers, maids, gardners, butlers and others below stairs. I paid a visit, hoping to see one of those owl-eyed, still-elbowed Jeeveses all tricked out in a bathing costume.

* * *

A familiar Newport character is a tubby, white-haired cop, with a Charles Winninger face, who stands at a prominent corner on umbrellaed perch, wig-wagging traffic. He is a Sunny Jim, loquacious and never administering rebuke. And his is the prize domain for infrequent accidents. In flushed years his gratuities from the rich totaled several thousands a season.

* * *

The Cliff Walk, beloved by Romeos and Juliets for so many years, is a moonlightly promenade edging the rythmic beat of the surf. Necking, as a word, was minted here and is reputed a more frankly unashamed gesturing than at Coney. At any rate it's where Vincent Astor and many others reputedly popped the question.

* * *

Like all stiff-necked spots, Newport has its upturn of how-have-you-been! Passing a downtown hotel verandah that is a sort of late afternoon siesta, I bowed to a scion of New York wealth at whose side I was once niched at a public banquet. He halooed, doubtless so others might hear: "Come down on the yacht?" He knows I haven't a yacht. I wanted to call back, amiably but a bit circusey, too: "No, we drove down behind Jenny, the mule!"

* * *

It is difficult to think of slums among such elegance. But there are back streets honeycombed with warrens of hideous squalor. Also carmine chickadees in profusion, who seek out innumerable sailors.

* * *

Passing through Providence, 28 miles from here, a man on a corner was a ringer for George M. Cohan. Then I recalled it was Cohan's birthplace. And Bob Ripley does not have to believe it, but I became so Cohan conscious everybody began to resemble the Yankee Doodle comedian. They had that swinging stoop, head sidewise gait. It wouldn't have surprised me had someone stuck a head in the car and drawled: "Boys, I'm on my third million!"

* * *

As a let-up in the swanking, we stoked up amid all the la-de-dah at a Pullman diner car. The catsup bottle was gummy and I suspect a despondent ant or so might have sought paradise in the mustard, but nevertheless it was palatable. And the waitress crooned, That's up my alley. I'll knock off work any time to join up with an earnest set of modest hummers. Nothing blatant. Just a restrained beedle-do-dee.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Don't regret those recklessly generous acts, those sincere experiments, those noble rebellions that have landed you in so many messes, resulted in such waste and humiliation.

Do you vow that you'll never again take a chance?

Yes, I know. You've lost a lot of money. People have tricked you; taken advantage of you. And everyone says you are a fool to "do such impulsive things."

But that doesn't prove that you ARE a fool.

Those impulsive acts may have cost you plenty—

But they also BOUGHT you plenty!

That very daring which resulted in so many bad breaks also won for you your biggest opportunities.

That generosity which ended in so much heartache also opened your heart to priceless understanding and sympathy -- gave you some of the loveliest hours of your life.

But you also achieve a mountain top now and then.

And for the sake of one mountain top, you should be willing to endure a million mud holes.

The "safe and sane" policy of life sounds very civilized and intelligent. Actually, it is neither. Human existence was never intended to be safe and sane.

Power and wisdom are the fruits of danger rather than of safety; of adventure, rather than of inertia; of restlessness, rebellion, hardship and discomfort, rather than resignation and comfort.

The holy and heroic records have always been made by the daring spirits who were willing to endure terrific pain and loss for the sake of their dreams.

There is an adage in the criminal world which every sinner, soon or later, discovers to be true. It is: "YOU CAN'T WIN!"

There is another fact in the world of healthy and growing spirits which is equally true, infinitely more glorious: "YOU CAN'T LOSE!"

Reckless faith in your fellow man—great-hearted generosity—gallant risks—noble rebellions and gallant sacrifices—these are always a "winning combination."

They will cost you bitter tears, endless worry, honest anger, cruel disillusionment, plenty of hard cash. They may land you in poor houses or on crosses. BUT YOU'LL ALWAYS BE THE WINNER IN THE LONG RUN.

The more you give to life and your fellow man, the more you'll get out of them both.

You are as vital as your curiosity.

As strong as your own courage.

As deep as your own understanding.

As warm as your own love.

If you want to really grow, really live—

CUT OUT THE CAUTION AND THE CODDLING.

The Snake Dance of the Hopi Indians—A Religious Appeal for Rain—Handle Rattlers With Impunity

By EDWIN C. HILL

THE Plumed Serpent, god of the Hopi Indians, frowns upon his people. For the first time in the memory of chiefs and medicine men, the god is deaf to the chants of the old women and the dancers, blind to the rattlesnake call. Day after day, under the brassy sun of the Arizona mesa, the medicine men perform their incantations, while they make rain medicine and dance the rain dance with rattlesnakes twined around their bodies. But not a cloud drifts across the bright-hot sky, nor does a drop of water soothe the hard-baked ground.

Away out on the rim of the desert dust clouds swirl through the purple haze as the medicine men dance on and on until they fall exhausted upon the patient earth. And then from far off comes the dull boom of thunder, and then a rolling crescendo, and then crash on crash as the serpents of lightning range the heavens—and then a day of rain and the blessed soaking of the fruitful soil. The god has relented at last and saved his children, the Hopi people.

An interesting race, these Hopi of the Southwest, tracing their lineage back to the ancient cliff dwellers; a small, alert, handsome, copper-skinned people whose ambassadors we see sometimes in the Halls of Congress in Washington or at the White House calling on the Great White Father, or walking with calm eyes amidst the wonders of our great cities. Before the coming of the missionaries their greatest gods were always the deified powers of Nature, Mother Earth and Sky God and Grandfather Rattlesnake.

* * *

Snake Dance Held Once a Year

TWO THOUSAND of the tribe have survived that fatal contact with the white man which has done so much to wreck or demoralize the finer qualities of the first Americans, and once a year all or nearly all of the tribes gather for the great snake dance, the dance which calls to the Plumed Serpent, the Rain God, and to other forces of Nature. It is, beyond a doubt, the most celebrated of all existing ceremonies of the Red Man.

To look on while the Hopis dance with full-fanged rattlers snatched from the desert only an hour or so before the drums begin their monotonous rhythm is an unforgettable experience. The snake dancers wear a traditional costume, a headdress, a necklace, a bandolier, armlets, kilts, anklets, moccasins and a tortoise shell bound to the knee. They march in stately procession to the village plaza, and then the dancers circle the plaza four times, each man stamping hard upon a small board set in the ground. Every stamp is a notice to the beings of the underworld that a ceremony is going on.

And then a low chant rises, growing louder and deeper until its volume rolls far and wide over the desert. And then whole lines of celebrants take up the snake dance ritual, swaying in undulating, sinuous curves, and the motion quickens until the movement culminates in leaps and bounds.

The snake dancers proceed in groups of three, with this leaping, bounding step, until they arrive at the spot where the rattlesnakes and their handlers, or "passers," are waiting. One by one the dancers drop to their knees and receive from the snake-passers each a full-sized rattler, grasping it lightly around the middle, with no apparent fear whatever of its deadly poison or its usual malignity.

Grasping the rattler by the middle every dancer performs the traditional steps four times around the plaza while the multitude looks on. With him is a companion who carries a "snake whip," a short staff to which eagle feathers are attached, and from time to time the companion waves the snake whip before the rattler and the rattler uncoils and is let down upon the ground and glides away, only to be snatched up once more by the dancer, who never breaks the curious rhythm of the dance.

* * *

Dancers Sprinkled With Sacred Meal

AND while this is going on, with dozens of snake dancers playing this amazing game with dozens of rattlesnakes, young women of the tribe stand around the plaza sprinkling the dancers and their snakes with sacred meal. Finally the ceremony ends, with abrupt suddenness. At a signal the dancers throw the snakes upon the ground, and the medicine men gather up the snakes one by one and rush down the trails and release them, as nearly as possible at the points where they had been captured.

No one has ever solved the mystery of why these Hopis are never bitten by the most hostile and dangerous of serpents. The secret is known only to the medicine men who pass the strange knowledge along to their successors, as they themselves received it through the centuries from their predecessors. The dancers are never bitten, but they, in turn, never harm the snakes, treating them with deference, handling them gently, speaking to them in ancient ritualistic phrases, imploring their friendly favor. And invariably, after the ceremony ends, the snakes are carried back to their own hunting grounds and turned loose with the thanks of the Hopis and the Hopi gods.

The snake dance is celebrated principally for rain, and the Hopi legend recounts that the children of the union of the Snake Hero and the Snake Maid were transformed into snakes. Hence, snakes are regarded by the Hopis as their elder brothers, precisely as the Delaware Indians of southern New York and eastern Pennsylvania looked upon rattlesnakes as their "grandfathers."

The Smithsonian Institution in Washington, which has collected the most valuable data in existence on the Red Man, has no better suggestion to offer to account for the curious immunity of the Hopis than what might be termed a fundamental law: the rattlesnakes like the Hopis because the Hopis like the rattlesnakes.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Too anxious to receive compliments, are you not?

In practically everything, your object is to bring commendation to yourself.

You even go back on your principles, once in awhile, for fear of unfavorable comment among certain persons.

There is no freedom of action, thought and expression, and life becomes servile, when a person is always wondering how well such and such a thing will go over.

It is not a compliment to say of a person that he or she "has not an enemy in the world."

Such an individual does not represent strong convictions, and has not the strength to support the right irrespective of its effect upon his own popularity.

ISN'T IT SO?

Men may live fools, but fools they cannot die.
